GREECE HURRIED WITHDRAWS PROTESTING LOS ANGELES CRIMINAL WAS FORMERLY A LONDON, ONTARIO, PREACHER

Master Criminal Makes Escape from County Jail was Formerly Clergyman

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17.—Herbert Wilson, known by the police and federal operatives as "The Master Criminal," and who had been convicted of the murder of his pal, escaped from the county jail here today with another convicted murderer, Adam Ward, and a man held in connection with recent robberies. They beat up a turnkey and held up two inside guards.

Wilson was formerly pastor of the Richmond Street city mission at London, Ontario, where he was born. At one time he was employed in a stove factory there. Charges against him led to his release from the pastorate and he went to Texas where he became pastor of the Brownsville Congregational church. He left to engage in the oil business in Texas.

In January of this year Wilson was arrested as head bandit of a gang. During the trial he shot and killed a pal in an effort to escape from prison.

BOHLER HOUSE IS DESTROYED

Well Known Resident of Kitsaluam Is Burned Out of Home

FAULTY CONNECTION CAUSE OF TROUBLE

TERRACE, Oct. 17.— At five o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Fred H. Bolder's house caught on fire and in less than half an hour it was burned to the ground. A neighbor arrived in time to pull the kitchen range out and some things upstairs were saved but with these exceptions everything was destroyed.

The fire is supposed to have originated from a faulty connection between the pipe and chimney. Mr. Bolder was in town at the time. It was a large well built log house, two storeys high and is a heavy loss.

Mr. and Mrs. Bolder and family are living temporarily in Tom Lever's house. Jimmy Lever who is working in town did not learn of the fire till the next morning. He lost a trunk containing a number of valuable papers and two guns.

Mr. Bolder was one of the first homesteaders here and was about the first to make a living from his ranch. He is well known both here and in Prince Rupert through his fine exhibits at the fairs.

LARGE BOATS ARE EXPECTED

American Schooners Left Seattle for Yakutat and Should be Here Soon

About three weeks ago a number of American halibut boats were reported leaving Seattle for the annual autumn fishing at the Yakutat banks and they are now about due. Some of them should have been here ere this if the weather had been good and the fish plentiful. They had gone south to Seattle following the summer fishing, to outfit for the winter.

The Carruthers and Alaska are also due in port and seem to have been delayed.

During the summer the American boats fish along the coast north to Cape Fairweather and south to Cape Spencer and Cap-Addington. Later in the season they go farther north. Last year in November some huge catches were made at the Portlock banks and the boats are expecting to do the same this year. The tides at Yakutat are not as bad as on the Albatross banks and at Kodiak Island.

Constructive Address by Hon. A. M. Manson Refuting Charges Levied by Stevens of Vancouver

Perusal of Hon. A. M. Manson's famous "yellow cur" speech proves it to be a most comprehensive and complete rebuttal of the Stevens charges. Here is the complete report as appearing in the Victoria Times just to hand:

Speaking at the annual meeting of the Victoria Liberal Association, Mr. Manson said that while busy at his office in the Parliament Buildings he had heard a whine outside and looked out to see a yellow cur go past.

"We have heard him in Penticton and again in Vancouver—a yellow, yellow cur—that is the only word that describes Mr. H. H. Stevens," Mr. Manson said to the audience of 400 persons, who, tense in their eagerness to hear his reply to the Stevens charges, jammed the Liberal Club rooms and stood out in the corridor and stairway as far as they were within range of his voice.

"I hope I make myself clear," he added slowly.

Mr. Manson declared that Mr. Bowser had had the nasty work to do for the Conservative party for the last five years.

"Now I congratulate him," he went on. "He has got a scavenger who goes out into the byways and digs in the filth, and that scavenger is the ex-Minister of Trade and Commerce for Canada."

Made Quarter Million

Mr. Manson challenged Mr. Stevens to lay his books open on the table, declaring that when elected member for Vancouver Mr. Stevens was without money.

"May I ask who paid his way to the city of Ottawa after his election?" Mr. Manson went on. "Now I look up Bradstreets and Duns and find him rated as being worth $250,000."

"Mr. Stevens dare not lay his books on the table, and open them to the searchlight of an auditor," Mr. Manson said that he, contrary to assertions of Mr. Stevens, was not now a member of the firm of "Manson and Williams," practising law in Prince Rupert, and that he was willing to take his private books and lay them open to show that there was nothing he had received money improperly for during the fourteen years he had been in this province.

"Will Mr. Stevens take his books and lay them on the table?" he continued.

"When the end of the day comes we will see whose reputation is clean, mine or H. H. Stevens'. I don't have to apologize for anything in my past."

The Liquor Department

Mr. Manson said that to the many branches of the department of the Attorney-General there had been added the control of the liquor department of the B. C. Government.

"The department of liquor is considered a tid-bit, the sweetest little morsel we have around the buildings," he went on. "My, all the advice we get on it. The world is just reeking with advice on the liquor question."

Declaring that the liquor question furnished one of the oldest problems with which governments have had to wrestle ever since Biblical times, Mr. Manson quoted President Wright of the Hotelkeepers of Ontario as saying when prohibition was passed in that province:

"Gentlemen, we have no one to blame but ourselves. We had a privilege; we abused it."

"The Government control act is not easy of administering," Mr. Manson went on. "One of the problems is that there is an inclination on the part of those in the liquor business to a violation
