CONSTRUCTIVE ADDRESS BY HON. A. M. MANSION IN REFUTING CHARGES LEVIED BY STEVENS OF VANCOUVER

of the law and to treachery." Internal Treachery

He declared that there had even been treachery in his own department, not among his personal staff, but by one of the liquor board staff, who took papers from his desk and gave them to Mr. Bowser, who handed them over to Mr. Stevens. They didn't, however, get the whole report, but took part of it and then started out to drag the whole thing in the mire.

"Is that statesmanship?" Mr. Manson asked.

Referring to the charges of Mr. Stevens that there have been no prosecutions of liquor offenders in Prince Rupert, Mr. Manson said:

"I want to tell him that there isn't the faintest atom of truth in what he says. I want to tell him that Omineca was one of the first ridings to be cleaned up. I have a list of the men prosecuted in the riding. Some of them supported men in the last election. Why is about it? Why not first inquire and open up the police records. I think that his action is more or less below contempt. Does he know that before he ever got on the Provincial Conservative platform that information was being gathered against offenders in Prince Rupert?"

No Illicit Liquor

"My inspectors' reports tell me that Omineca and Fort George are two ridings in which it is practically impossible today to buy illicit liquor. He speaks of Prince Rupert. Does he not know that on May 3 barely a month after I took the office of Attorney-General, I wrote to the municipal authorities of that city insisting upon the proper enforcement of the Liquor Act and declaring that if they did not do it my department would step in and enforce the act at the expense of the municipality? I wrote that letter and I have had a report of conditions there, and I want to tell Stevens that in May last, before he got upon the Conservative platform in Vancouver, information was laid and prosecutions will be launched."

Mr. Manson went into Mr. Stevens' references to Fred G. Dawson, whom Mr. Stevens charged with getting 1,600 barrels of beer. He declared that Mr. Dawson was not his campaign manager at all, as Mr. Stevens alleged.

"Mr. Dawson is a man who is the head of the wholesale house of F. G. Dawson Ltd. in Prince Rupert, and has been president of Board of Trade," he went on. "He is one of the finest men who steps in shoe leather in B.C. Mr. Stevens is not worthy to wipe rags across Mr. Dawson's boot."

States Dawson's Position

Mr. Manson explained that Mr. Dawson's firm was agent for Victoria Phoenix Beer, under a ruling of the Liquor Board which permitted wholesalers to act as agents for export trade. Eminent lawyers even contended that brewers had the right to sell to wholesalers despite the Liquor Act. These agencies were put through the supplies to the liquor vendors in various districts. There were leakages, however, from the beer agencies throughout the province, as some of them did not do what they undertook with the Liquor Board to do. The result was that he as an Attorney-General gave instructions that these beer agencies were to be discontinued.

He said the Dawson firm, under the arrangement with the Board, was justified in bringing in supplies of beer and then Mr. Stevens tried to make political capital out of this.

Mr. Manson asserted that Mr. Stevens was mixed and because beer agencies had gone wrong he had picked on this man because he was a Liberal and had been chosen by the Prime Minister of Canada as a member of the Board of the Canadian National Railway.

Beneath Contempt

"The man is utterly beneath contempt who would endeavor to take the character of a public man away without inquiring into the truth of the statements he alleges," Mr. Manson added, referring to Mr. Stevens' attack on Mr. Dawson.

Mr. Manson said that Mr. Stevens was supposed to be a good prohibitionist, but although he said he knew these things were going on, he never took the trouble to write him a line about it to rectify matters if they were wrong.

Another thing he said Mr. Stevens did which showed what calibre of a man he was, was to refer to a man now in the cells awaiting trial for murder as "a low down bootlegger."

"Is that British?" Mr. Manson asked. "Even the poor unfortunate in the cell is entitled to leave the matter to his twelve peers on the jury to decide without having his case prejudiced by a public attack."

Tribute to Mr. Paterson

Dealing with the Stevens' charge of Liberals becoming millionaires through liquor dealings with the Government, Mr. Manson told how at the last session of the Legislature in dealing with these charges the Government threw open the books of liquor purchases, with the result that nothing more was heard about the charges.

"I have more confidence in James Patterson, the liquor purchasing agent of this Province, than I have in men of the calibre of H. H. Stevens," he added. As to the Stevens' reference to liquor profits in B.C., Mr. Man-

THE HORRORS OF INDIGESTION

Relieved by "Fruit-a-lives" the Fruit Medicine

Indigestion, Weak Digestion or partial digestion of food, is one of the most serious of present-day complaints—because it is responsible for many serious troubles.

Those who suffer with Indigestion, almost invariably are troubled with Rheumatism, Palpitation of the Heart, Sleeplessness and excessive Nervousness. "Fruit-a-lives" will always relieve Indigestion because these tablets strengthen the stomach muscles, increase the flow of the digestive juices and correct Constipation, which usually accompanies Indigestion.

son repeated the assertion given out in official statements, backed with comparative figures some time ago, that the operation of the Liquor Act in this Province would compare favorably with the operation of the act in Quebec.

Refused by Senate

Next he took up the attack in connection with export houses here and their encouragement of bootlegging to the United States. Mr. Manson told how he had gone to Ottawa and asked the Senate and the House of Commons to give him the necessary power to exterminate the bootlegger, but the move was blocked in the Senate by Mr. Stevens' political friends, Senators Green Plante and Taylor.

"Was Mr. Stevens good enough prohibitionist to go over and ask these senators to support this move?" he asked. "No, the party to which Mr. Stevens belongs is the party responsible for the export trade into United States to-day."

Referring to Mr. Stevens' allegation that the Attorney-General was unfit to hold office if he pleaded ignorance of a case where a Mrs. Kelly, of Prince Rupert, had sued for $18,000, which she said was her share of the profits on a bootlegging business, but concerning which no prosecution had been brought, Mr. Manson declared he had never heard of the case.

Government's Many Problems

Mr. Manson also took up general policies of the Government, declaring that one often wondered to what extent the public had a true conception of what the management of public affairs meant, dwelling on the immensity of the natural resources and the duty of developing them and conserving them for future generations, and the responsibilities of ministers and officials in their management.

Among other things he said: "People in the dutiful parts of the Province have just as much right to the attention of the Government as you people sitting around your comfortable firesides in the cities of Victoria and Vancouver."

"With our fish resources you have already paid the penalty in the Fraser for the neglect of conservation for the next generation."

"So that our natural wealth will not be exterminated, resistance is required against the selfishness of mankind."

"Our forests extend from one side of the Province to the other. In the last five years we have got the lumber and pulp industries revived in B.C. We are placing our lumber all over the world. In the British Navy it is used to be Oregon pine, now it is Douglas fir."

"To-day B.C. is growing as an agricultural Province. Hundreds and hundreds of settlers are coming into Northern B.C. from the Prairie Provinces."

"The last Government sold our lands from Dan to Beersheba. We have had to buy back at three and four times the price for settlers, the land our friend Mr. Bowser sold to the speculators. Settlers are coming into the North and creameries are being established in many places. Agricultural production in B.C. has jumped so that there was a decrease of 28 per cent. last year in produce imported into this country."

"Are these things worth while? Were these things accomplished by an idle government?"

Muckrakers

Mr. Manson asserted that Mr. Bowser and Mr. Stevens were too busy grubbing around in the mire and muck to realize these things.

He also said that Mr. Bowser and Mr. Stevens "realize that if this Government has made mistakes, they have been minor mistakes, not graft or scandals."

"They realize that the legislation of the Government has been sound and administration has been clean and for that reason they find it necessary for them to grub around in the muck and mire."

Picayune Matters

"Thirteen years of sleeping across the Bay under the Conservatives and no thought for any of the industries of B.C., no thought except that of spend, spend, spend on marble halls, and Italian marble roofs. Not a thought for tomorrow or the next generation. Isn't that the sort of government you would expect from the picayune utterances of such men when they get on the platform. Surely in the Province of B.C. you have got something bigger than the trivialities you hear from Mr. Bowser.

"Hasn't the time gone by in public life in Canada when we ought to be capable of bigger things and better things than one hears from the mouths of the men who are leading the opposition at the present time."

"There are such works this Government has undertaken as the reclamation of the 32,000 acres at Sumas. When it is through you will have a monument to the foresight of Mr. Barrow. Land which has been subjected to the ravages of the Veddar and Fraser next year will be producing as only silt land can produce under intensive cultivation."

"The children of miners and scattered settlers ought to have even better education than children with the advantages of the cities. Theirs is a harder lot and the state owes it to them."

A Half-Baked Plan

"As for the university, a monument of extravagance was the thing Mr. Bowser had established for you. The University was what Mr. Bowser also left. It was a half-baked plan, costing for buildings alone $5,000,000."

"I am a university man myself, but I am not so sure that we have not just a few too many white-collared highly educated persons in B.C. I believe in university education for the man who is capable of being educated, but not for the man who might be better in some other occupation in life."

"We have done absolute marvels in the last five years in the construction of highways in B.C. and in outlying ridings there is much yet to be done."

"The problem of the railway, a heritage handed down to us, was one of those things all patched and torn and condemned. There was no excuse for the handling of the finances of that railway."

"Why does anyone in public life need to say what is untrue. Mr. Stevens and Mr. Bowser say that we spent $21,000,000 on that road since the Oliver government came in. The fact is that the annual interest charges on what Mr. Bowser spent there eats up most of that $21, 000,000.

A Challenge

"Has there been a single time in the last five years of the Legislature when anyone has been able to point a hand and say that there has been waste or improper expenditure?"

"As for taxes, bless my soul, no Government would be happier than if they could say that the taxes would be nil. You people of B.C. have imposed these taxes. You demand these services. If you want these things you must pay for them."

Mr. Manson declared that the Oriental problem was a menace that was getting more real every year. He said that one was amused at the party that sat for eleven years in the seats of the mighty at Ottawa without accomplishing anything and then met in Vancouver and passed the most exacting and definite resolutions, when they were put out in the cold. "They must put their shoulder to the wheel and be practical," he added.

"As long as the Conservative party does as it is doing then the Liberal party will be in power for twenty-five years," he concluded.

The tender of Yarrows Ltd. Victoria, for supplying an oil tank of 13,000 gallons capacity, for the city electric light department, at a cost of $315,000 delivered at Prince Rupert was accepted by the City Council last night.
