GAME FARM LEDUC, ALTA.

Sixty Different Varieties of Birds including Wild Ducks,
Geese and Pheasants.

EDMONTON, Alta., Feb. 2.—(Canadian Press).—Started five years ago with a nest of wild duck eggs, found while cultivating a field, today D. H. Bendick, of Leduc, 25 miles south of here, has a game farm stocked with between two hundred and three hundred birds which include about sixty different varieties of game and ornamental fowl. During the first year Mr. Bendick raised ten wild ducks and as a hobby the same year he imported some of the cheaper kinds of pheasants and other wild fowl and gradually built up a game farm that now has some of the finest birds in the West. The farm is now stocked with wild geese, ducks, and prairie chicken, native to Canada, wild turkeys, imported from Kentucky, pheasants, grouse, quail, peafowl, guinea hens and doves.

A large inclosure with artificial lakes and conditions as near as possible to those found in the wilds are the summer quarters for the water fowl while the bluffs near the farm house provide ideal conditions for the wild turkeys, pheasants, quail and other birds whose natural habitat is the timber. Climatically the conditions for breeding wild game birds are ideal in Alberta and Mr. Bendick has found that as a commercial enterprise it has an unlimited future. Hunting clubs and large estates in both the Western and Eastern States are always in the market for wild game birds, especially good breeding stock and are ready to pay good prices. When domesticated most of the wild birds reproduce more rapidly than in the wilds, and at from $10 to $150 per pair for the birds, depending upon the breed, good profits are realized. Geese range in price from $15 to $110 per pair, while the native wild ducks are worth from $10 to $30 per pair.

Last fall Mr. Bendick liberated seventy-two Chinese ring-necked pheasants in the Leduc district as an experiment and also with the object in view that within a few years they will have increased sufficiently to permit sportsmen to hunt them during open seasons. Next spring it is expected two thousand birds will be hatched.

Was Troubled With Her Stomach For Five Years

Mrs. Samuel Ward, Milledale, Sask., writes: "I feel that I must write to you before another day passes I am so happy and so grateful to your splendid medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, for after an illness of five years I am better."

I had stomach trouble so bad, I could not eat the small or large food of any kind, and got so thin and weak I could not work. I had four doctors attend me, but they did me no good. I was in no pain, but felt so ill, at times, I thought I would die. In fact, all my friends were sure I could not live many months.

This time last year I saw where a man was relieved of stomach trouble by Burdock Blood Bitters, so my husband got me two bottles, but I had no faith in it after all the different medicines I had taken, however he insisted, and after the first two days I must say I began to feel better, and after the first bottle I felt so much better I went out a little every day, but could not go alone I was so weak, but I soon got so I could walk and eat, and have got quite stout.

I am nearly seventy years of age and I feel better than I have for years, and can do all my housework. You may make use of this letter if you wish, as it may be the means of making others as well and as happy as I am."

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.
FERRY PONTOONS.

Tenders will be received at the office of the Provincial Public Works, Prince Rupert, B. C., up to and including the 10th day of February, 1922, for the construction of a single ferry pontoon, same to be delivered complete to B. C. by Prince Rupert, not later than March 15th, 1922. Lumber for construction of pontoon will be supplied by the department. Plans and specifications and forms of tender may be seen on and after the 1st day of February, 1922, at the office of the District Engineer. Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted bank cheque on a chartered bank of Canada made payable to the Honourable the Minister of Public Works for a sum equal to ten per cent. of the tender, which shall be forfeited if the party tendering declines to enter into contract when called upon to do so or if he fails to complete the work contracted for. The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

District Engineer,
Prince Rupert, B. C.

Nervous Breakdown

The extreme depression and discouragement which comes over one at times is the most alarming symptom of nervous exhaustion.

This letter is a message of hope to all who find themselves in this unfortunate condition.

Mrs. Geo. T. Tingley, Albert, N.B., writes:—

"For years I was in a very nervous, run-down condition, was much depressed in spirits and suffered a great deal at times. The least noise would irritate me and at times I felt as though I certainly would go crazy. I consulted different doctors to no effect."

"A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and I can truly testify today to the great benefits received. There was a marked change before I had finished the second box and when I had used a dozen boxes my nerves were thoroughly restored and I was entirely relieved of those terrible feelings I used to have. I shall ever be ready to testify to the benefits of this wonderful medicine, feeling sure that it will give to others the quick and permanent relief it has given me."

and reared on the farm. Mr. Bendick has a permit from the government granting him permission to raise game birds which are protected by law.

DOMESTIC SERVANTS FOR WESTERN CANADA

WINNIPEG, Feb. 2.—Preparations for receiving in the early months of spring and summer 1000 girls and women from England for assured employment as domestics in Western Canada are now under way by the local offices of the Salvation Army. This is part of a scheme inaugurated by the London headquarters whereby 10,000 women are to be transferred to the Dominions. The great majority will go to Australia. Commissioner W. Eadie, in making the announcement here, stated that the provincial government was assisting in the plan by allowing a grant.

EVERYTHING FOR SALE IN RUSSIA TODAY

MOSCOW, Jan. 31.—"Skolka?" (how much?) has become a general term of salutation in Russia. There is practically nothing which can not be bought if sufficient money is offered.

Trade is not confined to the market places. It is carried on everywhere in the streets. It isn't bad manners to stop a man on the street and ask him how much he wants for his beaver cap, or his astrakhan-trimmed overcoat. No woman takes it as an affront to be asked how much she will take for her sable stole or silver purse.

There are many well-dressed persons moving about the streets in finery which doesn't belong to them, but is being shown in the hope that they may get an offer for it and have a chance to earn a commission.

Improvised cafes. They are springing up everywhere under the direction of members of the former bourgeoisie are frequently furnished with elaborate upholstered chairs and divans from some once grand drawing room. The walls are lined with oil paintings and tapestries. The porcelain frequently bears the crests of famous families. It is all for sale.

The cultivated waitresses are frequently money-changers who will buy foreign exchange or undertake any sort of business commissions.

Recently a party of Americans, including several women, attended mass at one of the famous churches in Moscow. When the priests in their gorgeous gold gowns marched through the crowd of standing worshippers one of the men warned the women, "When those priests pass you don't take hold of their robes and ask 'Skolka?'"

TORE GAPS IN SUBMARINE

Official Story of How Kitchen-er's Death Was Avenged by British.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(By Canadian Press).—How Lord Kitchener's death on board H.M.S. Hampshire on June 5, 1916, while enroute to Russia on military mission, was avenged by the destruction about a year later of the German submarine responsible for the laying of the mine which sank the warship is now told in detail for the first time by an official on board H.M.S. cruiser Intrepid, which was attached to the White Sea squadron during the war.

It was on May 4, 1917, the writer says, that the British steamship Palmbranch, laden with munitions, poison gas, and high explosive, was zigzagging her way towards the entrance of Kola Inlet, on the White Sea, when the periscope of a submarine was sighted on the port beam. At the same moment a white track of bubbles revealed a torpedo's course racing towards the ship. The track passed two or three feet from the stern, the torpedo had gone under the ship, running too deep to strike her.

The Palmbranch was armed and immediately her gun was slammed to the breech and sights laid to zero. As the gun crew did so, the conning tower of a submarine rose on the port quarter, barely 40 yards away. Then the deck itself emerged from the water.

Splendid Target. Naval gunners are rarely gifted with such a target at point-blank range. They accepted it with due thanksgiving. A flash, a roar; the Palmbranch's first shell struck the U boat at the base of the conning-tower, just where it joined the deck, and tore great gaps and rents. Five seconds later a second shell burst against the waterline, forward. Two rounds with a small gun. They sufficed. The submarine, which appeared to be stopped, rolled slightly. Then taking a heavy list, and tilting on end with stern high out of the water, she sank vertically out of sight.

When the submarine sank, a conical object floated from her and remained on the surface. This subsequently proved to be a telephone buoy, such as was known to be carried by most U boats, its purpose being to enable a sunken crew to communicate with the world above. On the buoy being brought on board the Intrepid, the officer says, it was photographed, and on a large brass plate was inscribed:

"Do not open. Leave telephone buoy lying! Telegraph immediately position to U boat base Kiel. Submarine 75 sunk here."

Laid 13 Mines.

The destroyed submarine was therefore U 75, according to German official accounts, had a year before laid 13 mines in the western passage from Scapa. Twelve were swept up; but the 13th sank the Hampshire. That was the evening of June 5, 1916. There can be no reasonable doubt the officer declares that the telephone buoy found and marked U 75 was part of the submarine sunk by the Palmbranch. It was discovered on the edge of the winter ice, which proved it had drifted there that spring. No other ships claim to have sunk U boats in those waters at the time, and the place where fishermen found the buoy was 120 miles easterly from the scene of the action a month earlier, which would entail only an average daily drift of 11 or 12 miles—about what might have been expected with the prevailing wind and current.

Captain Maffing was awarded a double D.S.O. for his gallant action.

WATER NOTICE.

Diversions and Uses. Take notice that James A. Brown, whose address is Port Eslington, B. C., will apply for a licence to take and use 24 cubic feet per second of water out of Browns Creek, which flows northeasterly and drains into Hoesall River about nine miles from mouth of Hoesall River.

The water will be diverted from the stream at a point about 57 feet above tide-water on Lot 121, Range 5, Coast District, and will be used for power purpose upon the land described as Lot 121, Range 5, Coast District, Skeena River District.

This notice was posted on the ground on the 19th day of January, 1922. A copy of this notice and an application pursuant thereto and to the "Water Act, 1914," will be filed in the office of the Water Recorder at Prince Rupert, B. C. Objections to the application may be filed with the said Water Recorder or with the Controller of Water Rights, Parliament Buildings, Victoria, B. C., within thirty days after the first appearance of this notice in a local newspaper.
