ON FISHING TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Greer and Son and Visitor Enjoying the Simple Life.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Greer and son accompanied by Mr. Greer's sister, Miss Greer, are on a fishing trip to the various resorts on the Esquimalt River. They left Sunday and visited Falls River and Muddy Creek and propose calling at other places before returning. They were particularly pleased with the scenery at Falls River where they spent half a day. Yesterday they all went hiking to the lakes above Muddy Creek and the ladies were initiated into the mysteries of trout fishing.

The trip is being made in the Glen.

The Natural Wealth of Canada

Forests

IN the past three years Canada exported forest products to the amount of $660,000,000, and there are still left great forests of Douglas fir, pine and spruce pulp wood—enough, if carefully preserved, to supply a great trade throughout an indefinite future. For more than a century the Bank of Montreal has been co-operating in the development of Canada's trade in forest products.

PERFORMING ANIMALS NOT ALWAYS ILLTREATED

British Select Committee Recommends Better Supervision But Would Not Forbid Custom.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—The report of the Select Committee on Performing Animals, over which Brigadier-General Colvin presided has been issued as a Parliamentary Paper. The committee held twelve public meetings, at which forty-three witnesses were examined, the evidence embracing a period of about twenty-five years. They are convinced that there have been in the past, and certainly still are, many cases of ill-treatment and wanton cruelty in the training and performances of animals; but generally speaking, there has been a marked improvement in the care and treatment of animals during recent years. The committee are of opinion that there are certain exhibitions and acts which are undesirable. Performances in which the animal is terrorized, or in which it incurs any risk of injury, should not be permitted; and that any protection that is afforded to any classes of performing animals should be extended to animals figuring in film productions.

Recommendations.

In their summary and recommendations the committee state that they are impressed with the honest and genuine desire of the profession to eliminate every possibility of cruelty and ill-treatment, and with their willingness to co-operate with the societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals in restricting performances to such as will meet with general approval. The Committee are therefore of opinion:

1. That the exhibition of all performing animals should not be prohibited.
 2. That measures should be taken for the better supervision of trainers, training establishments, and all animal performances.
 3. That the penalties imposed have proved generally inadequate.
- The committee recommend, among other things, that the training and performances of all chimpanzees and of all anthropoid apes should be prohibited; that the training, exhibition, and performances of all the larger carnivora (such as lions, tigers, leopards, and hyena) should have the special attention of the committee of supervision; and that the use of mechanical and other appliances in the execution of conjuring tricks which involve cruelty should be prohibited.
