NEEDLEWORK DISPLAYS BY DOMESTIC SCIENCE CLASSES OF SCHOOLS

The girls of the High School and the Senior rooms of the public schools gave an exhibition of needlework in the King Edward High School on Saturday afternoon and evening. The displays showed that the work, as planned by Miss Marcellus, had been effectively carried out by Miss Stevens and a high standard of originality and usefulness had been obtained. Owing to the closing of the regular quarters of the classes in the Booth Memorial School, the work had been carried out in the regular class rooms but good results were evident in spite of this serious handicap.

The work in the first and second years of the High School consisted of dresses, cloaks, aprons, blouses and middie made by machine. The Entrance classes exhibited embroidered underwear and the Junior Fourth embroidery stitches which had been taught were shown on pillowcases, towels, dresser scarfs and cushion covers. The Senior Third class had made caps and aprons in preparation for the instruction in cooking.

The exhibition was open from 3 to 5 in the afternoon and 7 to 8:30 in the evening. Ice cream and cake was served by the girls to the many visitors.

WOULD HAVE CLOSE SEASON

Captain Hvatum of Halibut Boat Scandia Discusses Situation.

The halibut boat Scandia, Capt. O. O. Hvatum in command, sailed today for the sea fisheries, says the Seattle News, in a recent issue. This will make the fourth trip of the season for the Scandia.

On the first trip of the season the catch weighed 56,000 pounds of halibut for three weeks fishing. The captain and crew lost money on this trip. The second catch amounted to 75,000 pounds, which netted the crew $127.00 each. On Tuesday they took 93,000 pounds of halibut caught from Portlock banks, to Prince Rupert and received seven cents and three cents, the crew sharing $160.00 each.

The Scandia carries a crew of fourteen fishermen, a cook, an engineer and the captain. The cost of operating the Scandia, said Captain Hvatum, while in port yesterday, is cut to the minimum, and even at that it is hard work to make a profit on the season's work.

Oil Price High. While the price for halibut, seven and eight cents is low, said the captain, they would be able to operate at a small profit if provisions and supplies, especially oil could be bought at a reasonable price. The oil alone to operate the Scandia costs $1,100 to $1,300 a trip, and there is no question that it is a poorer quality distillate than was used in 1914.

Before the war, said Captain Hvatum, the Scandia could make a trip for from $700 to $1,000, now it is impossible to operate under $2,100, in fact the last few trips cost from $2,500 to $3,000 a trip.

Fish Scarce. As far as the fishing is concerned, said Captain Hvatum, it is no use denying the fact that it is getting scarce. We used to be able to get halibut within a radius of 300 miles, now good sized halibut boats have to go to Portlock Bank, 700 miles from here.

There has been quite a discussion lately, said the captain, regarding the closed season on halibut from the 20th of November to the middle of February. The Captain said he believed that would be the proper course to pursue if the industry is to be kept going, as the above mentioned date is the spawning season for halibut.

Close Goose Island. Captain Hvatum said that he believes that Goose Island grounds, on the southern part of Heceta Strait, should be closed for at least five years for any kind of fishing. The halibut at this place are so small that catch from there averages two-thirds chickens, and the other third do not weigh on an average more than from fifteen to twenty pounds, and they are getting smaller each year. He believes that by closing this place for a few years that it would help to build up the grounds again, and give the halibut a chance to rehabilitate.
