Sport Chat

The younger boys of the city will indeed find a friend in the departure of Bill Cash, the popular manager of the Booth Fishermen Co., from Prince Rupert. For several seasons, Mr. Cash has piloted the affairs of the Junior and Juvenile Baseball Leagues and his place will be missed with difficulty. Not only will the youngsters miss the great Bill but sport in the city generally will lose a great friend and active supporter. Although particular interest has been shown with the Elks, of which organization he has been Exalted Ruler and Past Exalted Ruler, he has always evinced a fair interest in all teams and his actions have always been the acme of the play.

On the removal of Dr. Douglas, a popular dentist baseball player to the sunny south, local baseball circles have sustained a loss. "Doc," while not being exactly a brilliant player, was nevertheless a great asset to the Knights of Columbus baseball team during the season just past and also assisted the All Star team in some of its engagements with outsiders. He is a player who might generally be depended upon.

The following practice schedule has been set out by the Basketball Association for the use of the Fair Building in the course of the next few days:
Tuesday, Nov. 7, 7 to 8, Grotto; 8 to 9, Colts, sr.; 9 to 10, Colts, Int.
Nov. 8, Maple Leafs, Sons of Canada, sr., and Knights of Columbus.
Nov. 9, Adanaes, Elks, sr. and Colts, Int.
Nov. 11, Maple Leafs, Sons of Canada, sr., and Knights of Columbus.
Nov. 12, Op. application to President Venables.
Nov. 13, Adanaes, Elks, sr. and Colts, Int.
Nov. 14, Grotto, Colts, sr. and Colts, Int.
Nov. 15, Maple Leafs, Sons of Canada, sr., and Knights of Columbus.

The Prince of Wales established another great bond of sympathy with thousands of his countrymen recently when he offered a shot that was heard around the golfer's world. This happened the latter part of September at St. Andrew's as he was playing himself in as captain of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club. Today thousands of golfers at golf are rejoicing at the enrichment of the golfing vernacular by a phrase used on a course near London shortly after the news had been received of the Prince's ordeal at St. Andrew's. A player sliced his shot and remarked: "Ah! that was a Prince of Wales!" This phrase is likely to be generally applied to a drive which moves a considerable amount of turf as well as the golf ball.

When the Prince of Wales took up his residence at Easton Grey, the country estate which he has leased for the hunting season, he was followed by scores of persons who had succeeded in renting other property in the vicinity. The announcement that the Prince would hunt at Easton Grey was followed by a rush to this lonely section, and houses and estates which have been vacant for years will again be the scenes of house parties and festivities. Precautions have been taken, however, to allow the Prince as much privacy as possible, and the general public will be excluded from the estate. So far no invitations have been accepted by the Prince, and he will try as much as possible to be alone during his visit to the north. Easton Grey lies just outside the old Roman "White Walls," and near the estate stands the famous abbey of Malmesbury, where the first organ built in England was erected, and the first man to make a flying machine lived as a monk.

Bullfighting in Mexico City during the coming season is going to be on a bigger and better scale than ever. According to the impresarios who are handling the arena events, the pick of world matadors, including the best in Spain, has come to Mexico. Rodolfo Gaona, idol of his Mexican countrymen, is the recognized "ace" of the fighters, and with him is associated Ignacio Sanchez Mejias, Juan Belmonte, Luis Freg, Juan Silvetti, and other stars. Throughout the past summer there has been much newspaper agitation in Mexico against the high salaries paid the fighters which has resulted in almost exorbitant prices being demanded for tickets. As a result the matadors will receive slightly less this fall and winter, but even so Gaona will collect some 12,000 pesos every afternoon he appears in the ring, with the privilege of a benefit performance which is always good for an additional 100,000 pesos. The season opened Oct. 15.

ROBERTSON CASE CLOSED

Evidence and Argument of Counsel—Accused is Acquitted

The case against J. B. Robertson, charged with selling intoxicating liquor, to wit Scotch whisky, on October 14 last, was continued in the city police court, before Magistrate McLymont, on Saturday afternoon and, after the hearing of evidence and argument of counsel was completed, accused was acquitted on a technicality, there being no such brand of whiskey as the detectives said was sold.

The first witness called for the defence was Duncan McMillan, a partner of accused. Upon going into the witness box Mr. Patmore requested him to draw a plan of the upstairs rooms situated over the Kaien Island Club premises on Second Avenue.

In giving his evidence witness said he remembered seeing Provincial Constable Dixon on the morning of October 14 in his bedroom, he having been brought in by the accused, Robertson said "Here is a friend of yours and he is sick this morning." Witness had never seen the man before and he was a complete stranger to him. A man, named Mercer, was in the room at the time washing. Both the constable and accused then went out of the room together.

Questioned by Mr. Patmore witness said that no one had come up the stairs after that as the door had never been left open and he would have heard anyone coming up.

Mr. Patmore: "Dixon says that he got Scotch whisky out of a bottle marked D. Watson's Scotch whisky. What do you say about it?"

Witness: "I say that he is telling a lie."

Mr. Patmore: "Did you ever hear of such a whisky as D. Watson's?"

Witness: "No, sir."

Mr. Patmore: "Do you know whether the Liquor Board sell such a brand of whisky?"

Witness: "No, sir, I have never heard tell of it. I had one bottle of Watson's about three months ago."

Mr. Patmore: "How long were you upstairs after Dixon and Robertson went out?"

Witness: "Three quarters of an hour. I got up, dressed and shayed myself and during that time no one came upstairs."

Hammering on Door
Witness continuing said that the next morning he woke up upon hearing someone hammering at the door and shouting "Dunk." He got up and opened the door and saw three men standing outside, Harrison, Dixon and a little fellow, whom he did not know but thought he was a cook. Witness asked what they wanted and they said they wanted a "shot." He told them that he did not handle whiskey and "to get to Hell downstairs." The fat man started to shake a bit and said "Dune, I'm sick and need a shot." Witness told him to go and get his shot where he got sick, slammed the door and went back to bed.

Cross examined by Solicitor Hooper, witness said he was a partner with Robertson in the Kaien Island Cafe and also the club that was run behind.

Mr. Hooper: "In that club did they sell beer?"

Witness: "They served beer."

Mr. Hooper: "This beer that was served, who owned it?"

Witness: "Members of the club."

Witness continuing in reply to Mr. Hooper's questions said that he had served beer and that in a sense he knew that it was against the law. He had been in trouble before for being drunk.

Mr. Hooper: "When Dixon was up there that morning where did you have your bottle of Watson's?"

Witness: "On an open shelf."

Mr. Hooper: "A bottle of Watson's?"

Witness: "No sir, it was not a bottle of Watson's."

Mr. Hooper: "Is it true that Dixon got as far as the bedroom?"

Witness: "Yes."

Mr. Hooper: "Evidently Robertson thought he would get something or he would not have brought him in?"

Witness: "He changed his mind after he had asked me."

Accused's Evidence
J. B. Robertson, the accused, next gave evidence. He said that he lived at 535 Third Avenue and

WHAT SCIENCE SAYS

Mr. W. Lancelotti Scott, the great English chemist, says: "After exhaustive analysis I have no hesitation in certifying absolutely pure an herb of nature of Zam-Buk. It contains none of the impure animal fats and irritating minerals found in ordinary ointments. The antiseptic and bactericidal germ-killing powers of Zam-Buk exceed those of carbolic acid, without inflaming the most tender skin."

IT SAVED MY HAND

"A sore on my finger turned to blood-poisoning. After exhausting the doctors amputated the finger. The terribly swollen and inflamed, seared the skin in vain. Had hand must be amputated. I refused and tried Zam-Buk. I refused and had complete healing resulted. I believe if I had used Zam-Buk first I would have saved my finger." (Signed) John Halifax, N.S. Lawrence St., 2

A MINISTER'S TRIBUTE

Rev. A. D. McLeod, of Harcourt, N.B., writes: "I know of nothing like Zam-Buk. Visiting throughout an extensive mission, I see many sick and afflicted people, and have been amazed at the good Zam-Buk is doing daily. For old wounds, bad ulcers, eczema, and all skin diseases, it is unexcelled." 3

A TALK TO WOMEN

When you spend your money, don't you like to get the best possible value? If so, when next you need a household ointment, buy Zam-Buk. Why? Here are a few reasons.

How long will a jar of dripping keep good? When it turns rancid would you like to apply it to a sore place? Now most ordinary ointments have animal fats and oils as a base. These are disguised by perfumes and coloring matter, but that does not make matters better. Zam-Buk, on the contrary, is free from all fats and oils and animal products that may go rancid. Zam-Buk is made from pure herbal essences and juices—Natural Healers; Nature's own remedies.

Many ointments contain mineral compounds such as lead, zinc, etc., and coloring matters. Zam-Buk does not. Its coloring is the green of the herbs of the field.

adulterated by minerals hidden by cheap perfume. It is antiseptic—kills all germs. It is the most powerful known healer. It does more and goes further. It keeps indefinitely—never goes bad. It is suitable alike for the skin of adults and of children—even babies. It cures old and stubborn skin diseases as well as injuries and diseases of recent date. Its price brings it within the reach of everybody. Only 50c box, 3 for $1.25. Zam-Buk, like diamonds, is imitated. Protect yourself, insist on the genuine Zam-Buk.

Zam-Buk being made from nature's own healing balsams, is more powerful than ordinary ointments—better value. It can heal where other remedies fail. Read the extraordinary case of Mrs. Jeffrey in panel No. 1.

Zam-Buk draws from a wound or sore all the poison before healing. Read how it thus saved Mr. Evans' hand, (panel No. 2.)

Zam-Buk, if applied to skin diseases, injuries, etc., will save you money, pain, and perhaps save a limb, as in the case reported in panel No. 5.

Zam-Buk is best for children. Scores of mothers have proved this. In a nut-shell, here are Zam-Buk's points of superiority—it is herbal—not fatty. It is pure—not

ULCER FOR 30 YEARS

Mrs. Jeffrey of 31 French St., Methuen, writes: "For thirty years I suffered intensely with an ulcer which commenced on my ankle and spread to my knee. I used every known remedy, and had medical treatment, but only got temporary relief. Some days I could not walk! I had despaired of ever finding a cure when I heard of Zam-Buk. I persevered with this remedy and the ulcer is healed."

$4 SPENT ON IT SAVED 2 FINGERS

"I cannot express my gratitude for what Zam-Buk has done for me," writes Mr. J. V. Benard, of 539 Craig St. E., Montreal. "In an accident my work my hand was so badly crushed the doctor said he would have to amputate two fingers. Naturally I didn't want this, so decided to try Zam-Buk first. I applied Zam-Buk daily, and by the time I had used $4 worth of the injury was completely healed. My fingers were saved! Just another illustration of the healing power of Zam-Buk. Accidents will happen. It may be your turn next. Better get a box and keep it handy. Send coupon below and receive a free trial box." 5 that his place of business was the Kaien Island Club premises on Second Avenue.

In reply to questions put by Mr. Patmore he said that he saw Dixon on the morning of October 14. He had just got in the building, somewhere around 10 a.m. when he was told that a man had come upstairs. He went to the foot of the stairs, and calling "Dune." Witness went upstairs and asked Dixon what he wanted Dune for. He said he could not drink any more beer as he was sick and wanted some whiskey. Thinking Dixon was a friend of Dune's witness opened the door and took him into the room.

Witness said Mercer was washing and Dune was in bed. Witness said "Dune here's a friend of yours and he's sick." Dune sat up and looked at him and said "He's no friend of mine and I've got nothing for him."

Witness then turned to Dixon and said, "That's all I can do for you."

Witness and Dixon then went downstairs through the restaurant. He then sat down at the lunch counter to have his breakfast.

Mr. Patmore: "Did you ever serve liquor to either Dixon or Harrison at any time?"

Witness: "I did not."

Cross examined by Solicitor Hooper accused said that the reason he had gone upstairs to Dixon was because he and Dune had an understanding that he, Dune, was not to be awakened until he had his sleep out. They had both been in this country a long time and he thought that probably Dixon was a friend of Dune's. Accused said he had never, to his knowledge, served anyone but members of the club with beer.

Adverse to Methods
In closing the case for the defence Mr. Patmore said he was very adverse to the methods adopted by the Liquor Board in bringing the prosecutions. He said the present case was a pure betrayal of friendship. It reminded him of another individual who sat and sipped with his friend and then betrayed him, his name was Judas Iscariot. He said that when the Liquor Board resorted to the present methods of getting evidence they were making the law a joke. They had no respect for the law themselves and then they asked the people to respect the law. "Eliminate the profit from the selling of liquor and you will put the bootlegger out of business," said Mr. Patmore.
