ALASKA INDIANS OPPOSE TRAP FISHING

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—The salmon supply in Alaska waters will be completely wiped out within a few years if trap fishing is not prohibited, William Paul, an Alaska fisherman of Indian descent, told the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries committee. St. Charles Milk Was First!

St. Charles Milk has always been the highest grade evaporated milk, properly sterilized. Long before the government established its present milk standard St. Charles established its own, and that the highest.

St. Charles Milk "with the cream left in" is not ordinary milk. It is full of fine, rich, nourishing butter fat cream, richer than milk as it comes from the cow, for Borden's remove most of the natural moisture.

When you use St. Charles for cooking or on your table you may be sure you are using the best. That's why more people buy St. Charles than any other.

Then there is no waste. It will last indefinitely before being opened, and with proper care for days afterwards.

CONTROL OF ALASKA UNDER DISCUSSION

Development of Timber and Other Resources of Importance to Canada.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(By Canadian Press).—A first-class controversy has developed in the Harding cabinet growing out of efforts of the Interior Department, headed by Secretary Fall, to get control of the government of Alaska.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, who has control of the forest service, headed by Col. W. B. Greeley, is resisting the effort of the Interior Department. The plan of Secretary Fall is to have Congress provide for a development board which would be a local commission under direction of the Secretary of Interior. The board or commission would virtually be the Alaskan government and, what is of special interest, it would control all of the natural resources of Alaska, including timber, coal, gold and other resources.

Secretary Wallace and the Forestry Service are fighting the proposition tooth and nail. They have developed great plans for use of the timber in Alaska—plans which combine use with conservation—and they regard the Fall plan as one favored by those persons and interests who want to exploit Alaska without regard to conservation.

Already, Secretary Wallace is working for establishment of pulp and paper mills in Alaska to use the timber on the enormous forest reserves. He has data to show that this timber can be so handled as to furnish a third of the paper supply of the United States as a permanent proposition. This involves, of course, such methods of handling the timber as to prevent indiscriminate slashing down of trees and to permit growth of young trees along with the use of those which are mature.

Not New Question.

It is not unlikely the controversy over control of Alaska will become a serious political affair for the administration. It is certain that it will unless a way is found to settle it. About ten years ago, the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy concerning natural resources in Alaska, in which Gifford Pinchot, friend of Roosevelt, alleged the Interior Department, then headed by Secretary Ballinger, was taking a course regarding Alaska which would benefit great financial interests but hurt the territory, proved disastrous in its political results for the Taft administration. It is noticeable that today Secretary Wallace is a conservationist whose views are much like those of Pinchot, while Secretary Fall is unfriendly to such views.

How the controversy is settled and what policies are pursued with respect to Alaska timber and other resources is of obvious importance to Canada. Agricultural Department officials look ahead to vigorous development of Alaska, combined with conservation and to making Alaska before long one of the states of the Union.

DESERT SEWING FOR MOVIES IN SOUTH

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—California women are deserting sewing machines for the movies. It would appear from figures announced by the Census Bureau. Since 1910, it is stated, the number of dressmakers and seamstresses in California has dropped from 14,114 to 10,672. During the same period the number of "actresses and show women" increased from 2,167 to 3,995.

BURGLAR DISCOVERED SLEEPING IN BATHTUB WITH TOWELS AND SOAP

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(Canadian Press)—Adolph Gisterer, alias William Hauck, who is held on a charge of being implicated in a string of burglaries, explained to the police, when they located him after long search, that he was a hard man to find because his place of residence was a bathtub. He spent the greater part of the daytime in branches of the public library, and at night crawled surreptitiously into the basement of an old apartment house in 79th Street and went to roost in an old bath. When arrested he was carrying his entire household effects—a bath towel, which was strapped around his waist, and a cake of soap. He had been in the habit of bathing where he slept.

ELECTRICITY IN SWEDEN

High Power Line Passes Through Centre of Country and Is in Operation.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 23.—The first section of a high-power electric line which is designed to pass through the centre of Sweden from north to south has just been completed and is now in operation.

The section connects the high-power electric station at Trollhättan Falls, in central Sweden, to the city of Västerås, one of Sweden's most important manufacturing centers. It cost more than 10,000,000 kroner (about $2,500,000).

The large waterfalls of north and central Sweden will be utilized to provide the power for the central power line when completed. This is intended to enable Sweden not only to run its trains with electric power but also to electrify the big industrial plants of the country.

It is expected in that way to greatly decrease if not entirely to eliminate the use of coal.

ALASKA HOMESTEADING.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The Senate passed the House bill providing for entry by homesteaders on mineral lands in Alaska. The measure provides for a reservation in the title of the land, however, so that if at any time after the entry is made coal, oil or gas is found, the government shall retain its royalty rights.
