Turkish Movements Are Indicated REQUEST MADE TO BRITISH GOVERNMENT TO REMAIN NEUTRAL

Turkish Victory In Asia Minor Causes Complications In Europe With Possibilities Of Trouble

SIMLA, Sept. 13.—A meeting of the Musselman members of the Council of State and of the Legislature sent a message to Lloyd George declaring it vitally necessary to Great Britain to observe strict neutrality between the Turks and Greeks in the present conflict and earnestly appealing to the Government to "avail themselves of this opportunity to restore Anglo-Turkish friendship, thereby effecting a reunion between the British and Moslem world."

LONDON, Sept. 13.—A Central News despatch from Athens says it is reliably informed that the Jugo-Slav and Rumanian governments have evidenced without equivocation their intention of aiding Greece in the event of a Balkan conflict. Serbian troops, it is added, are being mobilized and moved in the direction of Athens.

Uneasy Feeling

Disquieting rumors are afloat on all sides causing uneasiness which the calmness displayed in official circles is unable to calm. It is reported that the Turks in Thrace, encouraged by the success of Mustafa Kemal Pasha's army in Anatolia, are engineering an anti-Christian movement. Encounters have taken place between Bulgarian irregulars and Greek detachments along the border near Nevrokop.

FRANCE AND BRITAIN ARE UNIT AGAIN

of Dardanelles From Turks

INDIAN EXHIBIT IS EXCELLENT

Fine Samples of Needlework and Basketry; also Garden Produce.

The Indian exhibit at the fair this year shows a decided improvement in a great many lines. There is more general interest taken in the work than formerly. Instead of the collection being shown by one or two persons the individuals are entering their own exhibits and getting credit for the work.

Noticeable this year is an exhibit from Bella Coola sent through the instrumentality of Iver Fougner, Indian Agent. There is some excellent fruit in the collection, the apples being especially good. There are also fruits and vegetables from individual exhibitors that are very good. This is the class of work that should be encouraged. Every year a little more attention is given to horticulture by the natives and this should be evident in the future exhibits.

The Indian needlework is also very fine. Some of it compares with anything done by any exhibitors in the fair. Some very fine specimens were sent in by the students of the Elizabeth Long Memorial Institute at Kitimat. The crocheted work in this exhibit is particularly good.

Basketry Exhibit

The Indian basketry exhibit, while not as extensive as last year is more diversified and as a general exhibit is better. The only criticism is that a few of the basket makers are using purchased colors and are imitating the cheap factory made baskets. What people like to see are specimens of the real old Indian work with Indian patterns. These are of real art value and the natives should be encouraged to take pride in the fine industry of their forefathers. There are Indian traits that have been abandoned which are better left behind, but the art of basketry with the distinctive Indian patterns are something not seen anywhere else in the world. No one can well imitate it. If it becomes a lost art the world will be the loser.

A model of an old Indian chest made by a native of Metlakatla is a very interesting exhibit. The four sides are made from one board with a joint at only one corner.

Slate Work.

While there is not much slate work shown this year, there is an inkstand, inkwell and pen holder made from the native slate obtained near Massett. This was carved by Capt. Andrew Brown and shows a halibut and a finback whale surmounted by an eagle. It is set in abalone shell.

On the whole the native exhibit is good.

SCHOOLS MAKE FINE DISPLAY AT FALL FAIR

Work of Local Pupils is Excellent and Appreciated by Visitors.

Visitors to the Fair are loud in praise of the Prince Rupert schools exhibit which has caused an unexpected amount of interest. It is conceded by many that this exhibit is the best of its kind ever seen in the city and is not to be excelled by the cities of the south. Included in this exhibit are eighty panels from every class in the public schools, and nearly two thousand drawings and samples of writing, the quality of which is remarkably good. The method of display is new this year and does better justice to the exhibit than formerly was the case. All the work is mounted by classes, some on prize panels while others are merely mounted for display. Each prize panel is divided into sections devoted to the various phases of the art taught in the schools and these sections were judged by J. Pinder-Moss, organizer of the Northern Polytechnic Institute. The first prize for each drawing is 50 cents and the second prize 25 cents. The opportunities to gain various prizes are unlimited. For instance for the work of the entrance class there are twelve different sections and the children can compete in each section so that there is a possibility of one child being able to gain twelve prizes in that class. Other panels are merely put up for display purposes and to exhibit the work of children who do not compete for prizes. (Continued on Page Three)

U.S. TARIFF OF LITTLE EFFECT

Emergency Tariff Had Already Killed Much Business.

OTTAWA, Sept. 13.—The effect of the United States tariff published yesterday said Dr. J. H. Grisdale, deputy minister of agriculture, will not become apparent for some time. It will not have a much greater effect than the Emergency Tariff Bill of last year. The Emergency bill made exportation of many Canadian products to the United States practically prohibitive. The new measure can hardly do more for the reason that Canadian producers and exporters are more or less accustomed to these conditions.
