AID FOR DISTRESS.

The new executive of the Elks order in this city has had brought to its attention the fact that there are a number of cases of destitution in the city which should receive immediate attention. Some of the cases have been investigated already and preliminary aid has been given, but there are others and doubtless more will be found.

In order to carry out the work effectively it is proposed to appeal to the whole community for aid. Those readily accessible will be called on and asked for contributions and those not so reached are asked to do their bit by sending in contributions for the purpose to the secretary of the Elks in this city.

When the Christmas cheer work was being undertaken something like two thousand dollars worth of goods were distributed, yet only one family belonging to the Elks order received anything. At present it is not among the Elks that the distress is found, so the executive feel justified in going to the public for aid.

The people who are in distress are those who do not parade their suffering. Usually the cause is lack of employment. They find themselves in adverse circumstances through no fault of their own. At such a time everyone should be ready to help as we feel sure everyone will. We must not let it be said that here in the north we are unwilling to share with those who are in need.

Nothing but Good came of Disarmament Conference Says Lieut. Colonel Forster

"The Washington disarmament conference did a great deal of international good, although some people might have expected more than was really accomplished," declared Lieutenant-Colonel D. Forster, G.M.G., D.S.O., of London, England, a member of the military section of the British delegation at the conference, who reached the city by the Venture last evening. "At the beginning many people looked upon the conference as a dangerous experiment, but whatever danger there was has been averted. Such questions as were brought up there are always of a dangerous nature but, fortunately, nothing but good came as a result." Being in an official capacity, Col. Forster was unwilling to discuss any particular questions on being interviewed but tomorrow he is to address the Canadian Club and the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire on "The World Situation" and he inti-

Terrible Tragedy at Washington as Theatre Collapses

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The death list numbers 107 from the collapse of the Knickerbocker Theatre here following the worst fall of snow in twenty years. The roof of the great moving picture palace collapsed without a word of warning when several hundred people were watching a comedy film.

The balconies collapsed simultaneously and there was little chance of escape for the people inside the building, yet about one hundred got away unharmed. Another hundred were slightly injured and thirty-four were seriously hurt and are in the hospital.

The police and boy scouts are continuing the work of rescue and it is hoped that many will yet be found alive in the wreckage.

The theatre cost a million dollars. It was built in 1916 and was a modern structure. There is no explanation for the collapse except from the weight of snow on the roof. It stands in the fashionable diplomatic section of the city. Many officials of the foreign embassies were among the victims.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(Noon)—The death list in the Knickerbocker Theatre disaster, caused by the heavy snowstorm of Saturday, this morning had reached 108 and the injured 132.
