

The makers of "Kayser" Silk Hosiery recommend LUX

Every lady knows "Kayser" silk hosiery. Here is a word of advice from the manufacturer of these famous Made in Canada silk stockings:—

"Silk stockings should be washed every night to remove perspiration which is the enemy of Silk. There is nothing better for this than Lux."

Lux with its generous suds is ideal for the quick thorough washing silk stockings require. The thin, satin-like flakes of Lux, which are made by our own exclusive process, dissolve in hot water as quickly as snow. There is nothing like Lux—it stands supreme as the only product, eminently suitable for washing silken hosiery, and garments, or other fine articles of wear.

Lux is sold only in sealed packets—dust-proof! LEVER BROTHERS LIMITED, TORONTO

To say the least of it, the exhibition of baseball put up by the Elks in the four innings of the exhibition game on Victoria day was distinctly poor. The fact that it was the first game of the season and that the players were out of practice may have had something to do with it, but it is also evident that the quality of ball will have to be better than what was shown then or else it will be a poor season here. However, it is not necessary that that game be taken as a definite indication. As the season progresses and the best talent is sorted out and the players become practiced upon the necessary improvement may come about. There is no doubt, however, that local baseball circles are going to feel the loss of several of the best players who have left the city since the end of last season.

ness to "play the game" and his apparent determination to make up for lost time—all of this will bring as many people to the ball yards to see him this year as did last.

According to those who have the Bambino's confidence he has been elated over the fast pace the Yanks have set without him in the line-up and now that he knows that he is a trifle more valuable as a magnet to the box office than as a counter in the total scoring he will attempt more than ever to be more of a first-class baseball player and a more diligent purveyor of satisfaction to fandom in general.

Ruth's appearance in the line-up this week marked his first appearance in a league game this year, 38 days after the opening of the season and with one-fourth of the season gone, necessitates Ruth slamming out one homerun at least every other day and three on one day to surpass his record of last year.

Ruth, unquestionably the greatest hitter of all time, has batted out 75 homeruns in the last six years. He scored four in 1915, three in 1916, two in 1917, 11 in 1918, 29 in 1919—breaking the then world's record, 54 in 1920 and 59 last year—a total of 133. His homerun hitting has become so prolific that it has suggested last season that he be handicapped by being allowed only two strikes or to bat only with one hand.

Few expect that he will come near equalling last year's mark, let alone establish a new record, considering that one-fourth of his playing time for the year is gone, although on May 20 last year, Ruth had collected only 12 circuit smashes, approximately one-fifth of his total in one-fourth of his time. His attempt, however, will supply interest for the lagging period of dog days.

J. W. NICHOLLS FORECASTS OPERATING OF CARGO SHIPS FROM HERE TO AUSTRALASIA.

lands to Auckland in New Zealand was about three and a half day's sail. On leaving Auckland for Australia Mr. Nicholls said he received his first intimation of his lack of knowledge of the southern hemisphere. He had imagined it was something like a ferry ride between New Zealand and Australia. However the distance between the two countries was about equal to the distance between Prince Rupert and Los Angeles and took approximately four days on the steamer.

Australia Wonderful

In speaking of Australia Mr. Nicholls said it was certainly a wonderful country, and nature had provided it with all the good things to make life worth living, the climate being particularly enjoyable. In Queensland the climate was sub-tropical and in the cities in the south there was never any snow or cold weather. In Adelaide the temperature was 105 degrees but was not unpleasant. The people had certainly taken advantage of the opportunities which existed and had been provided with beautiful botanical gardens, which as far as his experience went, were unequalled anywhere in Europe. All the important cities had fine art galleries, and very large museums. Each city has its university, in fact the University of south Australia had the reputation of turning out the finest doctors in the world.

In speaking of the city of Sydney, Mr. Nicholls said that the harbor was certainly magnificent. The shore line was covered with trees and wonderful gardens. The harbor was of such great proportions that the total fleets of the world could be accommodated in it.

Commercially Speaking

Commercially, Australia was in about the same position as most countries and was suffering from the effects of the war. The labor question has been a big issue. In each of the states and in the Commonwealth house the people have from time to time elected labor parties, but were now getting tired of labor government and, at the present time, Queensland was the only state which had a labor government. Mr. Nicholls said that while he was in Sydney they had a state election for New Debt, grinding debt, whose iron face the widow and the orphan fear and hate; debt, which consumes so much time, which so cripples and disheartens, is a teacher whose lessons cannot be forgotten.

Debt

It is incumbent on all right-thinking people to do more than avoid debt. It is necessary to accumulate a competence for one's dependent years. If, with a definite earning power you find it hard to live within your income, how could your wife support the home in the event of your death deprived of your earning power? "Your salary stops with your pulse."

A Manufacturers Life policy provides for all these contingencies. Systematic saving will keep you out of debt, and build a competence for the sunset of life. Should you not live to old age, your life insurance will create an estate for your dependents.

Write, giving us your age at nearest birthday, and we will submit a proposition to you which will not place you under any obligation.

R. E. HARRAP, Supervisor for Northern British Columbia, Prince Rupert.

South Wales and the labor party was defeated. He thought that industry could not exist under the present scale of wages and the conditions exacted by the labor unions. They had a system of minimum wage or basic wage, upon which unskilled labor is paid and skilled labor was built up according to its qualifications. This scale was fixed by a labor board, similar in character to our arbitration boards. It was the general opinion in Australia that this board had fixed a very high scale of wages and one which very few industries could stand. When reductions were made by the board the labor unions would not accept the findings. The consequence that a large number of the manufacturing plants and industries had had to close down for the reason that they could not compete in the world's markets. This action had caused a tremendous amount of unemployment and was taxing the resources of the country to provide unemployment doles. In other words they were practically living on capital. Were it not for the fact that three of their primary industries were in the fortunate position of producing what the world requires today, namely, wool, butter and mutton, they would be in a very precarious position.

New Zealand

Mr. Nicholls visited the towns of Wellington and Auckland in New Zealand, and during the eighteen days he was there twelve days were public holidays and everybody was out of town. For the Easter week they closed up shop on the Wednesday preceding Good Friday and opened again on the following Wednesday morning.

Commercially New Zealand was not suffering very severely, sheep and wool having been in considerable demand during the past 12 months. The climate was very different to the Australian climate. In summer the thermometer rose from 75 to 90 degrees and the air was always tempered with a cool breeze. While sitting in a small hotel in Wellington Mr. Nicholls met Mr. Johnston, formerly with the C. N. R. here. Mr. Johnston had not visited Australia but was working New Zealand. He told Mr. Nicholls that he had wonderful scope for the reason that everybody returning to Europe went over the Canadian Pacific. "But," the speaker said, "Mr. Johnston being a good old Prince Rupert booster he is going to see that as many travellers as possible pass through Prince Rupert." Mr. Nicholls said he believed large numbers of Australians and New Zealanders would be coming through Prince Rupert in the near future.
