BRINGING UP FATHER

By George McManus

People and Events

WITH A TOUCH OF PHILOSOPHY

By "Tormentus" Anyox, B.C.

There sometimes drops into the office a sunny faced lass dressed in the familiar dark blue uniform which many of us are prone to associate with the big drum and tambourin, but which others have grateful cause to connect with fevered nights and restless days when the spark of life flickered perilously near the Great Divide.

* * *

The little magazine which she lays on our desk has many items of information which have nothing to do with her work and one of these caught our eye the other day, and gave us thought of what a strange human old world this is!

* * *

"A Buddist Salvation Army has been formed, with headquarters in Tokio . . .determined to fight the Christian Salvation Army out of Japan. Some Job!"

* * *

Yes, quite a task, for the Army has retained the fired enthusiasm and determination that we well remember seeing writ large on the aged face of the fierce old Founder.

* * *

He was a pioneer, a crusader, thinking nothing of self and everything of the work he had set his hand to do.

* * *

It will indeed be SOME Buddist organization that will succeed in staying the onward march of Right, or the piled up enthusiasm of a body filled with the fire that lives long after its father has passed on.

* * *

And while the Buddists are arranging to drive the Salvation Army in Japan into the sea, we have a full blooded Indian taking the war path against the savagery of modern civilization in America!

* * *

Dr. Montezuma, is the red man that is after our be-jazzed scalps and our be-shimmied bodies.

* * *

He thinks Pocahontas has carried things far in her time, but he shudders to think what her tribe would have done to her had she exhibited a pair of dimpled knees beneath a short blanket, and persisted in wearing bobbed feathers, the while she danced the cheek-to-cheek bunny-hug with a sportive young brave arrayed in a neckshave, and feathern trousers with cuffs turned up eighteen inches showing a pair of hairy ankles painted a violent violet.

* * *

Your Tormentus is inclined to agree with the learned Doctor, the more so having danced several dances from time to time, but we would remind him that even the original Canadian had become infected with the baccilus jazzicus.

* * *

We well remember stepping to the music of the tom-tom in dignified rhythm with a company of middle aged natives, but the young bloods were not there: They were whirling jazz in a near-by barn!

* * *

Such is the march of emancipation! and every established usage and institution must go down before it.

* * *

Even the House of Lords is echoing to the tread of its feet, and lo, women have won the right to a seat within its sacred precincts.

* * *

And why not? Women who have the courage to face the dangers of the battlefield and the solitudes of the frontiers are far removed from their grandmothers whose greatest adventures were shopping expeditions.

* * *

And it would indeed require a woman of the Countess Rhonda's calibre to brave the austerity of such an august assemblage as the House of Lords.

* * *

Hers is the face of the woman who wills: With eyes that look out with a clear grey light from under lids slightly drooping at the corners, straight nose and mouth surmounting a determined chin, body athletic and well built, it is clear that to her obstacles are but stepping stones to success.

* * *

As we ponder over this next step in emancipation, the doors of memory swing open and we see a vision of the upper reaches of the Finley River, far, far beyond Hudson's Hope. The broad river with its immeasureable solitude is flushed with the sunset of an Indian Summertime.

* * *

Our own evening meal is over (Oh, those splendid Arctic trout) and we have gone down to the river to wash out a dish or two when the burnished gold of the water is broken by a black dot moving upon the stream.

* * *

It comes nearer and we perceive a dug-out canoe occupied by four men whose straight-armed paddling is thrusting it steadily against the strong current.

* * *

At our hail, the canoe sidles to the shore. The party consists of one Indian, one white guide, and two white "men," one of whom is Countess Rhondda, with her hair in a pigtail down her back. They are all wet to the middle for they had struck a sandbar, owing to the glare of the sun in their faces, and had piled out to push off again. Some of the men murmured at being wet, to which she replied, "I'm just as wet as any of you."

* * *

And later we met her again on the Peace, she the one lone woman amongst ten or twelve men, trappers, Indians, prospectors, surveyors and settlers, and she would take her turn at washing dishes and frying bacon; then sprawled on the grass enjoying a cigarette, tell us how that splendid man, her father, sacrificed his life for the English when, as Food Controller during the war, he used his own body as a laboratory for the testing of food substitutes!

* * *

In passing we would like to correct an impression that that charming artistic lady, Lady Rhonda, the wife of D. A. Thomas, Lord Rhonda, is to take her seat in the House of Lords.

* * *

This is not the case. It is her daughter, Countess Rhonda in her own right, so created to honour the memory of her heroic father, the girl who through all her childhood acted as his secretary, who has claimed and gained the right to sit in her father's place among her peers in England, as she did in the Northland of Canada.

* * *

Tis a far cry from the House of Lords to the River of Peace.

Oh! Peace!
Well wert thus named, thou mighty stream,
Spawn of the Parsnip and the Finlay's mating:
The silence of Time's timeless dream
Is thine beyond our human estimating.
How many eons old art thou
Tho eternal youth still smiles upon they brow,
Oh, Peace?

For, Peace.
The mantle that enfolds thy form
Is restful unto the tired eyes of men,
Fresh from the roar and ceaseless storm
Of worshipping at the shrine of trifling Gain.
Thy hills and dales and wooded slopes
To our hearts and minds o'erstrained by worldly hopes
Bring Peace.

So, Peace,
When sick with clang and hiss of steam,
Call thou to us and in thy vast realms afar,
Show us thy star-swept nights agleam
Mirrored in thy depth. Take of the best we are.
We'll leave the frets of life behind,
And in Nature's arms find quietude of mind
And Peace!

* * *

But while the Countess wins her Lords, Babe Ruth accepts a contract to play ball for five years at $75,000 a year with a $500 bonus for every home run.

* * *

Well, each to his own fancy and as the spring approaches the joys of a canoe, a pipe, a goodly book or two and the Valleys that are "plumb full of hush to the brim" are what appeal most to your TORMENTUS.

Nervous Breakdown

Couldn't Sleep Nights.

To those on the verge of a nervous breakdown the following symptoms present themselves: nervous headaches, a feeling of depression, fitful, disturbed, restless and unrefreshing sleep, often troubled with frightful dreams, avoidance of crowded places, dread of being alone, horror of society, etc.

When the nerves become affected in this way the heart generally becomes affected, too, and on the first signs of any weakness of the heart or nerves, flagging energy or physical breakdown do not wait until your case becomes hopeless, but get a remedy that will at once quieten the nerves, strengthen the heart and build up the entire system.

This you will find in

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

Mrs. M. Damgand, Young's Cove Road, N. B., writes:—"I was bothered very much with my heart and nerves; had nervous headaches and dizziness, could not sleep at nights, and my appetite was all gone. I was on a nervous breakdown when a neighbor told me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. This I did, and before I had the second box used I was better and would advise anyone who has nerve trouble to take them."

NEW SETTLERS FOR BULKLEY VALLEY

Telkwa Board of Trade Receives Many Enquiries Regarding Country.

TELKWA, March 16.—Many enquiries have been received from the prairies and from the United States by the Telkwa Board of Trade from prospective settlers who have their eyes centered on the fertile Bulkley Valley. It is anticipated with the advent of spring that a number of new settlers will arrive in the Telkwa district.

F. M. Dockrill is president and E. M. Hoops is secretary of the Board.

BETTY MINE IS SHIPPING

10,000 Tons of Coal Taken Out During Present Season at Telkwa.

TELKWA, Mar. 16.—Some ten thousand tons of coal have been mined and shipped from the Betty coal mine here during the season, mainly to Prince Rupert. This is known is the Aveling property. It is situated some six miles west of Telkwa, and is held on option by the Rattenbury Lands Ltd. Five miners are employed in the workings and three four-horse teams have been employed in hauling the output from the minehead to the C. N. R. main line. This is the only mine operating in Telkwa at the present time.

Telkwa Collieries.

The Telkwa Collieries Ltd., situated about five miles west of Telkwa, comprises about six sections. The principal veins are located on Goat Creek and Mud Creek, and some of the coal measures reach as far over as the Telkwa River. This was the first property to be opened up in the country, which was accomplished by Prince Rupert and Telkwa capital.

Something like $20,000 has already been spent on the property, and approximately 75,000 tons of high-grade steam coal has been mined and shipped. Pending the building of a spur track to this holding work has been suspended.

Prince Rupert Collieries.

In addition to these properties, there is in the Telkwa district the Prince Rupert Collieries, situated 37 miles west of Telkwa, to which holding it is proposed to build a railway, and T. Jefferson, the agent for the American owners, is at present on a visit to Ottawa and New York to discuss the proposed railway question with the government and officials of his company.

It is anticipated locally that the building of the railway connecting the coal field with the main C. N. R. line at Telkwa will be undertaken in the near future.

Until such a railway is built it will be impossible to work these holdings owing to the high cost of transportation by wagon over the 37 miles from the mine to railhead. This would also apply to the other holdings mentioned, as from experience it has proven impossible to mine coal satisfactorily unless there is railway transportation available from the mine to the main railway line, in view of the long hauls.

MUCH HAS BEEN SAID

About the sanitary condition of the power laundry output. It may be of interest to note that Dr. Ira S. Wile writing in the Medical News New York, concludes a discussion of laundry hygiene by saying that in the power laundry process "exposure to heat and the usual washing reagents along with mechanical agitation, destroys the hardiest bacteria" and that "Laundering appears to be an efficient hygienic method of promoting cleanliness without danger to patrons or employees. This cannot be said of the hand laundry."

The old bugbear of contamination has been exploded. Expert investigation has failed to find and disease producing germs (pathogens) where clothing has been exposed to a temperature of 180 degrees fahr; or where they have been washed at a temperature as low as 104 degrees fahr., using soap liberally.

These precautions are all observed in our process. You can safely trust us with your washing problems. We will return your clothing CLEAN, SANITARY and UNDAMAGED by injurious chemicals.
