PROVINCIAL MINISTERS GIVE

province of Canada." Capt. MacKenzie. Capt. MacKenzie, the next speaker, delivered a short speech tinged slightly with the Scottish accent in his own eloquent manner. The soldier member extended fraternal greeting of the city of Vancouver, which he represented, to the city of Prince Rupert. This was his first visit to Prince Rupert although he had read about it with interest ever since he was fifteen years of age. It had been necessary for him to see it, however, to understand what a tremendous amount of toil and energy was necessary in building the city. It reminded him of the Highlands of Scotland. Prince Rupert citizens had proven themselves hospitable and also aggressive as was indicated by the way in which they had entered in the work of the provincial and Dominion legislative bodies.

"I see a vision of what some day Prince Rupert will be—a city blossoming with prosperity, of great size and beautiful, with ships plying to the Orient and the suburbs stretching to Digby Island. This is not impossible. The day of co-operation both in business and politics is here. Let us sink all our tendencies here tonight and work together towards our development so that we may make the imprint of our province deep and wide in the Empire and our citizens admired from shore to shore."

Hon. E. D. Barrow

Mr. Barrow stated that this was about the first time he had the privilege of addressing a Prince Rupert audience. The city was not famed for its agricultural production but he realized that any city was helped by the production within a reasonable distance of its boundaries. He had been interested in looking over the city and noting the development since 1917. The flourishing gardens of the city had been pointed out to him but he could not help but notice that the best gardens were in the hands of Orientals. Perhaps that was because horticulture seemed onerous to the people here where the harvest of the sea was so large and so profitable. He had been interested in the fish cold storage plant, the largest of its kind in the world, and realized that the fisheries was one of the greatest assets to the city. Prince Rupert had, to a certain extent, been vilified and it was said that there was an unusual rainfall but he had noticed one of those Chinese gardeners using a watering can. This was conclusive evidence that there was not an over supply of rainfall. The large number of schools in the city had been pointed out to him and he had come to the conclusion that the city must have a large proportion of children for its population.

PERTH JUNCTION, N.B., Jan. 22nd, 1920

"For many years, I was a great sufferer from Indigestion, Constipation and Rheumatism. My Stomach was weak and gave me constant distress, while Rheumatism in my joints made me almost a cripple. I was treated by two different doctors but their medicine did me no good.

Then I tried "Fruit-a-tives" and at once that fruit medicine helped me. Soon the Constipation and Indigestion were relieved and the Rheumatism began to go away, and in a few months entirely disappeared. For twelve years now, my health has been first class, and I attribute it to the use of "Fruit-a-tives" which I take regularly.

On Sound Basis.

"East of this city along the line of the G. T. P. lies one of the largest agricultural districts in the province," continued Mr. Barrow. "It is still in an undeveloped state although it is true that considerable strides have been made. The settlement has not been as rapid as many might have wished but it is being carried out on a sound basis. Big colonization schemes have been suggested but as far as my information goes, from what I have read and heard there has been no big scheme carried out except at considerable expense and the country had to be reimbursed by charging the settlers an extra price for the land. I am satisfied that our policy is a really sound and practical one.

Our scheme for the settlement of the Bulkley, Nechako and Francois Lake valleys is the most practical one we know of. What is holding us back now is the lack of the right kind of settlers. We have no use for settlers with no capital for that class would be too much of a charge on the country. Therefore what we require is the practical experienced farmer with a certain amount of capital. The northern interior offers opportunities that were not offered to the early settlers of the lower mainland. If I were a young man again I would not hesitate to take a chance on the Bulkley or Nechako valleys. I know that the opportunities there are better than were offered in the Fraser Valley in the early days.

"Mr. Wade has already done considerable publicity work in the Old Country and it has been of value. It is proper that he should make a first hand inspection of the country, as he is doing now, so that he will be better able to give publicity towards getting a proper class of settlers who will make good and increase the production so that we will not have to send large sums of money outside the province and the Dominion for our foodstuffs.

Lumber Stands First.

"The function of the Dominion will almost solely be limited to the securing of the immigrant," Mr. Stewart declared. "Once landed in Canada, the Dominion immigration branches will see to his safe arrival at his chosen destination. Arrived there, he must become the charge of the province."

her figure is the largest now I have no doubt that in two years the value of agricultural production will be the greatest of any industry in the province. In proportion to the development of agriculture in a country is measured by its progress on sound and economic lines. Lumbering and mining industries are more or less temporary while agriculture is permanent and basic. The more we impress that fact, the more interest and the more support the industry will get. I have every confidence in the agricultural industry in this province. We should bend every effort towards increasing our production of foodstuffs.

Fred Stork, M. P.

Fred Stork, M.P., the last speaker, said that it was a great pleasure for him to be back home again. The session at Ottawa had been interesting and, he trusted, a profitable one to B.C. and the north particularly. In his opinion things were on the upgrade as was evidenced by the long list of visitors present. This would be supplemented by visits from Ottawa ministers who would be here in the course of four weeks time. There were many problems facing the country and one of the greatest was that of railway deficit. He had reason to believe, however, that a change in policy was coming whereby deficits would be changed into surpluses and Prince Rupert would come into its own. Whatever we had here we possessed because we had fought for it. Right in Prince Rupert a wilderness had been transformed into the greatest fishing port on the Pacific Coast. Just today we had seen the blow aimed at Prince Rupert as a fish port turned down by the United States congress so the city would remain the permanent and supreme fishing port of the Pacific Ocean.

President Expresses Appreciation

President Orme extended the appreciation of the Prince Rupert Board of Trade to the visitors. It had been more than a pleasure to have them. It was only through such visits that they would become acquainted and he hoped that great good would come as a result.

The banquet closed with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" and the giving of cheers for the visitors.

CO-OPERATION
FOR KEEPING
SETTLERS HEREDominion Will Do Its Part And Expects Provinces to do Theirs

EDMONTON, July 10.—Let us keep the settlers after we have them. That is what Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of immigration has to say in regard to efforts about to be made by the various governments concerned.

Mr. Stewart intends to confer with the governments of the four Western provinces to ascertain if the immigration policy of the Dominion cannot be founded upon mutually agreed principles; he operated along lines least conducive to overlapping costs and energies, and have its result insured by making it so worth the while of the settled immigrants that they will not quit the provinces of their choice for other countries.

Special Gathering

While in the West—Mr. Stewart expects to arrange for the first annual gathering of specially qualified and endowed provincial immigration officials at Ottawa he stated. At the annual conference at Ottawa the entire immigration program for the year will be submitted by the Dominion to the provincial representatives, amended or enlarged, according to the requirements and circumstances of the times.

"The function of the Dominion will almost solely be limited to the securing of the immigrant," Mr. Stewart declared. "Once landed in Canada, the Dominion immigration branches will see to his safe arrival at his chosen destination. Arrived there, he must become the charge of the province."
