AGENT GENERAL GIVES ADDRESS

Boishevism was that something would happen which would lead to the destruction of the British race. They knew as long as the British race was to the fore Boishevism could not succeed. None of the reptilian influences would succeed.

Source of Revenue.

Mr. Wade went on to tell of British Columbia House. When he took hold, the rents amounted to $30,000 a year. Now the rental values had doubled, and the rent was paying the sinking fund and interest and was furnishing the Canadian representative and his staff for the country free of cost. When the sinking fund was paid off, the building would be a source of revenue.

The speaker told of the work done by the institution in interesting capital, emigration and settlement. One of the most important was getting British firms to do business with Canada direct instead of through American firms. Transfer of the Admiralty orders to Canada was also important work. There was yet the mercantile marine, however, that was buying United States timber when it should be buying Canadian.

Appreciative of Rupert.

After telling of all the work they were doing, Mr. Wade spoke appreciatively of Prince Rupert. "The Gateway to the Sea," which was unequalled anywhere in the world. The driveway to Prince Rupert's palace was bordered by a chain of mountains, making a most stately gateway. There was no such water passage anywhere in the world and it should be a material asset. There was an unequalled pass through the mountains. While the twentieth century was for the Pacific Coast and especially Canada, it was peculiarly for the Pacific Coast of British Columbia. Nine-tenths of the British possessions were on the Pacific. Development was pending greater than any ever known in the history of the world. In this development British Columbia must take a seat at the table while the game was being played. With her waterpower, fuel, and iron, B. C. had all the cards to back everybody off the map when the betting was raised to the chandlers. The question was had we the sinew, the brains, the intelligence and the energy to develop the country?

Need of Immigration.

Mr. Wade went on to tell of the redistribution of population that was going on. The war had saved the empire but it had not saved the people.

While Great Britain had the people, Canada had the resources. Until a few years ago the Imperial Government refused to do anything to aid emigration. Today they were offering to pay fifty per cent of the cost. Immigration to Canada meant success. The latest proposal of the minister of immigration for the Dominion was that the Dominion Government should get the people into the country and the provinces should care for them on their arrival. He urged that steps along this line be taken. Dissatisfied immigrants did a lot of harm. He told how settlers were looked after in Australia.

In conclusion Mr. Wade said it was necessary to have immigration as a matter of protection. They wanted to keep this a white man's country but this could not be done unless white people were brought in. At the present time Americans were financing the industries and American immigrants were overflowing the border. If British Columbia was to remain British and Canadian the time had arrived to realize that danger menaced and the country could not afford to ignore it.

PRINCE GEORGE

Lieut. A. M. Blackburn, of Winnipeg, who is taking part as a member of Canada's team in the Bixley Shoot this year, is a brother of R. J. Blackburn, the well known local rancher.

Miss Evelyn Moffatt, of Kuesnell, is here visiting her brother, Alec Moffatt.

Mrs. B. A. Renwick and daughter arrived last week from Victoria and will spend the summer here with Mr. Renwick. Their new house has just been completed.

Mrs. John Bronger and daughter have left for Vancouver where they will visit with Mrs. Bronger's mother, Mrs. Dryden.

Jack Wilson, son of City Solicitor Wilson, has been successful in passing his law examinations and will be called to the bar in October.

Rev. Arthur Barner, superintendent of missions for Canada, preached in the morning at the Methodist Church yesterday and Rev. J. H. White, superintendent of missions for B. C., in the evening. There was an especially good attendance at the latter service. Mr. Barner sailed last night on the Prince Albert for the Queen Charlotte Islands and Dr. White on the Prince Rupert for Vancouver.

Forty persons went out with a Girl Guides' camping party, under Mrs. Robertson, this morning to Warner Bay, Digby Island where a fortnight will be spent.

ALL HE SAW.

A sharp-tongued, red-faced lawyer was cross-examining a witness as to his sobriety. "You were seen," he began, "entering the Spread Eagle as soon as the doors were open or soon afterwards?" "Yes," replied the witness, "but not to drink." "What object had you in view then?" asked the lawyer. "The only object I had to view, sir, as I went in was your self coming out."—Houston Post.

BULGARIA MUST HAVE A REAL DEMOCRACY

That is the Advice Given the King by Premier Stamboulisky

SOFIA, Bulgaria, July 6.—"The people of Bulgaria do all the work, and therefore they should have the dominant voice in its government," Premier Alexander Stamboulisky said to the correspondent of the Associated Press who questioned him as to Bulgaria's future. The occasion followed the recent peasants' congress, when Stamboulisky warned King Boris he could reign but not govern, and that if the intellectuals secured control of the government a republic would be declared.

"The present tendency of the world," continued the leader of the Agrarian party, "is toward democracy and rule by the people, as you have it in America. Old Bulgaria with its tyrants and oppressors is dead. The people now rule. It may be that Bulgaria one day will have a republic, and if so we shall make King Boris its first president. He is a very democratic, modest and earnest young man, and I think he would like the job. He is held in great affection and esteem by the people and would have their entire support."
