

VISITOR TO ROTARY CLUB ENTERTAINED

Frank H. Lamb, District Governor of Organization Ad-dresses Members.

In honor of the visit of the district governor, Frank H. Lamb of Hoquiam, the local Rotary Club held a dinner last evening instead of the usual luncheon, the wives and lady friends of members being present for the occasion. T. H. Johnson presided and the proceedings proved most enjoyable. John Davie sang and there was a good deal of club singing. The speaker of the evening was Mr. Lamb who gave a masterly address, largely of interest to members of the order.

Mr. Lamb in opening referred to the development of the west. Life was commenced in log huts and even yet all were looking forward to things that were to be. He, personally, was glad to be one of the pioneers. In this land were pictures finer than any the hand of man could paint. As he came down the Skeena River he saw the loveliest scenery such as it would be hard to surpass. The West had great things in store for it.

Discussing the growth of Rotary, Mr. Lamb referred to the wonderful success it had attained. Today there were over 1200 clubs with a total of 83,600 members and yet they had never employed a paid organizer. The constitution was gradually being evolved. They were so devising it as to make it international in character without destroying its ideals. In Great Britain there were 100 clubs, and 28 countries were already represented although a number of these had but one club largely composed of members of the Anglo-Saxon race. Tokio had a native club and Copenhagen and Christiania had clubs made up of the two Scandinavian nations.

Rotary Program.

Speaking of the program of the organization, the speaker outlined it as having to do with the cultivation of acquaintanceship, development of higher ethical standards, recognition of the worthiness of all vocations, increasing efficiency of the members, development of the idea of service, fostering interest in the commercial, social and moral life of the community.

Mr. Lamb emphasized the commercial basis of Rotary as an organization and declared it was not an uplift organization but one to make better businessmen of its members. It was distinguished from all other organizations in its system of choosing one member only from any social service work that had one business classification.

Attendance at meetings was one of the primal features of the clubs. The average last year had been eighty per cent, this having been steadily raised year by year to the present satisfactory condition but they would go higher yet. A member who did not attend the meetings was filling a classification that some one else should have.

Importance of Business.

Mr. Lamb said he thought it was about time to stop apologizing for business. Today business was one of the most important things in the world. The days of "Let the buyer beware" and "Business is business" had passed and a system of fair prices and good values was taking their place. The Rotarian was not in business primarily to make money. He gave public service. His gain was not all measured by profits. The motto, "He profits most who serves best" should be always before them.

One matter that would have to receive attention in the near future was the relation of employer and employee. A set of principles governing this was being laid down. If there was any organization that could hope to have success in solving this problem it was the Rotary Club.

Avoid Politics.

While members of the club should avoid politics, there was no harm in hearing speakers on both sides at club meetings. The club was a forum for presentation but not for determination. It did not in any way set itself up as the voice of the community. It endeavored to work and strengthen the board of trade and other civic organizations. Members should get behind it and work in the interests of the community. To allow the club to become a resolute club was to be avoided. Opposing opinions should be listened to with respect but members should have courage to carry out their convictions.

Mr. Lamb went on to tell of the social service work that had been done by clubs, but this was not the chief work. The main thing was to carry out the Rotary ideals in daily business. No profit was legitimate unless both parties to the deal benefited. Rotary was simply sounding brass unless it found expression in its members.

International Aspect.

Dealing with the international aspect of Rotary, the speaker said it did not recognize the 49th parallel so far as their organization was concerned. When the organization became a sufficiently large force all dangers of international calamity would cease. The golden rule should be carried out not only in personal but in international affairs. There were no foreigners in Rotary. It was carrying out the vision of the ages, the formation of one great fellowship throughout the world.

FIRST OF WINTER'S SERIES OF DANCES

Affair by Newell's Orchestra Last Night Was Attended by 50 or 60 Couples And Was Highly Enjoyable

Judging from the opening last night, the weekly dances which Newell's Orchestra is going to put on every Thursday evening in the De Luxe Hall throughout the fall and winter should be popular affairs. There were between 50 and 60 couples in attendance, the crowd just nicely filling the hall. The music dispensed was of a harmonious nature and the evening was one of much enjoyment. Punch was served.

Newell's Orchestra consists of R. Newell, piano; A. A. Eason, saxophone; Howard White, drums, and Douglas Jack, violin.

ROTARY CLUB MAKES PRESENTATION TO ONE OF ITS MEMBERS

Mr. and Mrs. Sid Johnston Recipients of Handsome Piece of Silver Last Evening

At the Rotary dinner last evening an interesting presentation was made to Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Johnston, by the members of the club as a slightly belated wedding present, the presentation having been delayed for this occasion.

There was an oratorical stunt in which the names of speakers were drawn from a hat. Sid Johnston was asked to speak on "Why I Got Married," Mayor Rochester on "Why I am not Married," George Rorie on "Why my Wife left me," and H. F. Pullen on "Adventures During a Fishing Trip in Inland Waters." Mr. Johnston was adjudged to be the winner, and Mrs. T. H. Johnson, wife of the president, on behalf of the club presented the prize, which was a beautiful silver vegetable dish suitably engraved, to Mrs. Sid Johnston, the understanding being that her husband was to have the privilege of using it.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Johnston thanked the club for the gift.

FAREWELL TO MISS HUDSON

Esteemed Missionary of Methodist W. M. S. Leaving Shortly —Miss Haddock Successor

In honor of Miss F. Hudson, who is leaving Prince Rupert in about ten days after having spent the past seven years as missionary here for the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church, a pleasant and enthusiastic farewell was held last evening in the social hall of the church. The place was beautifully decorated with flowers and about 75 friends were assembled. Addresses were given by E. V. Ling, representing the choir; J. Westenhoven, the board; Mrs. G. G. Hacker, the Ladies Aid; Mrs. W. H. Kergin, the Sunday School, and Miss Winnifred Dibb, the Mission Band. Each speaker paid eulogistic tribute to Miss Hudson and words of deep appreciation were tinged with regret at her early departure from the field. Solos were rendered by Mrs. Stockdale, H. C. Higgins, E. V. Ling and A. Clapperton.

A feature of the evening was a presentation address by Dr. W. C. Kergin. Miss Hudson was made the recipient of a beautiful gray lamb purse which contained a substantial sum of money. She replied fittingly with feeling words.

Refreshments were served and a social hour spent, the gathering dispersing after singing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

Is Highly Esteemed.

Miss Hudson will be leaving in about ten days' time on a year's furlough. The first six months will be spent visiting friends in Southern B. C. and then she will go to Ontario where she will give lectures on the work of the Women's Missionary Society. In her long period of work in this city, Miss Hudson has become a highly esteemed member of the community and herself endeavor has been by no means restricted. Regret at her departure will be generally felt. Before coming to Prince Rupert, Miss Hudson was engaged in similar work at Port Simpson and Gualala in this province.

Miss Haddock, Miss Hudson's successor, arrived from Vancouver on the Princess Louise this morning. She comes from Sault Ste. Marie where she has been engaged in similar work. She will be introduced to the local congregation at the services next Sunday. Rev. Peter Kelly, of Nanaimo, will preach in the morning and Rev. Dr. Osterhout, of Vancouver, superintendent of Oriental work, will preside at the evening service. Dr. Osterhout will arrive in the city on Saturday morning. He is on his way to Toronto to attend the General Conference.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Johnston thanked the club for the gift.
