Much Enthusiasm At Big Banquet.

It is difficult to know what to say about a banquet such as that held here on Saturday evening in honor of Fred Dawson on his appointment to the Board of Directors of the Canadian National Railway system. It was all gotten up in 24 hours and was the most enthusiastic ever held in the city. There never before had been anything just like it, for there never before had been such an occasion. Politics were forgotten and political friends and foes foregathered and sat side by side all intent on properly celebrating the great event.

Bulkley Beef For Prince Rupert.

The difficulties in giving Prince Rupert the beef raised in the interior have not yet been surmounted. Farmers there complain that they have no market for their product and that Prince Rupert is being fed on prairie beef.

There are, according to local butchers, two sides to the question. They say that farmers do not do their part in any scheme of co-operation. When they kill their own beef it is so badly cut up that the best joints are spoiled and it is not worth much.

The real solution of the difficulty will eventually be for an abattoir to be built here and the animals shipped in on the hoof. This will insure proper killing and will also give a more permanent and steady market for the farmers. In the meantime, perhaps, the best that can be done is for the dealers to provide a butcher for the farmers who shall do the work properly and see that the meat is marketed well and in good condition.

Mudania Conference Seems Successful.

The Mudania conference seems likely to be successful. The Turks, whose military success has again put them in a position of power, have been making the most of the difficulties and the fact that France and Italy sympathized with the Turks and took their side against the Greeks has made the British position a most difficult one.

The Turks were a defeated nation during the great war but they have found a leader and are again to the fore as a world power. They are very aggressive and will be something to be reckoned with in future.

The Greeks will feel the set back very acutely and a thorough reorganization of that country is taking place with a view to improve conditions.

Liquor Responsible For Death Of Ex-Soldier.

A Victoria Cross man who has won distinction on the field of battle has fallen a victim to a drunken negro. Liquor is the responsible agent for the death of this man, as it is responsible for most of the crime in the world. The man who attempts to drive a car when under the influence of liquor is the worst kind of criminal. He is endangering the lives of innocent members of the community, often of women and children. Stringent measures are necessary to prevent cars being operated by men who use intoxicants. They do not go together.

KLEANZA CREEK GOLD STRIKE

Gold Not as Big as Thumb But Size of Peas.

USK, Oct. 9.—The manager of the Kleanza Co. states in regard to the recently reported gold strike:

"George Minchen of Terrace and his partners located and staked a placer discovery at the upper end of the Cassiar placer diggings a few weeks ago and have struck rich gravel on bed rock immediately below the Second Canyon of the Kleanza Creek, on one of the higher benches, about 80 feet above the creek level.

The gold is coarse, but there is no such thing as nuggets as large as a man's thumb as reported in The News some time ago, although they have been found the size of a pea.

Trenching Ground

The discoverers are now trenching the ground on bed-rock and the values seem to increase as far as they have gone yet. How much of paying ground there might be is yet to be found and by further development work. It is told that the adjoining ground has already been staked for several miles up the Creek. Kleanza Creek (best known as Gold Creek) is an old placer digging. It is gold bearing for at least 10 miles up from the Skeena and prospectors have been for years panning and sniping along the creek and in the canyons, but have not to any extent prospected the upper benches or located the old channels where this latest discovery was made.

There, therefore, is no reason to be excited about this gold strike, and it would do no good to exaggerate as that might create an untimely rush of people looking for prospects which they might not find. On the other hand, the Kleanza Valley is undoubtedly worth while a systematic prospecting for placer, and it is to be hoped that the latest discovery will encourage the investment of capital to do so.

TELKWA COLLIERIES ARE ABOUT TO SHIP

First Car Load Goes About the Middle of This Month.

The Telkwa Collieries expect to ship their first carload of coal this season to the city in the near future, probably by the middle of the month. Gillespie & Wilson have their track and cars ready and the tunnel has been driven in the coal so that hauling will commence immediately. Extra help on the mine will be employed as soon as suitable for the purpose of developing blacksmith coal. Several enquiries have been received for this class of coal. According to advices to hand the prospects for the season's output are very re-assuring. Orders are already on hand and the market for Telkwa coal is growing rapidly.

CANADIAN BOTTLES YANKEE BOOTLEGGERS

Labelled Empties Being Sent to States and Used for Mootch

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9. — (By Canadian Press). — Prohibition Commissioner Haynes says that reports received by him show that empty bottles on which are labels of genuine whiskey are being imported from Canada and sold to bootleggers. Inquiry by customs officials elicited the information that the bottles are shipped to a chain of stores ostensibly for "bottling vinegar." The bottles, according to Commissioner Haynes, are of the type of well-known brands but are peddled with home-made concoctions of denatured alcohol or moonshine.

The same condition exists on the Mexican border. Commissioner Haynes also makes note of the fact that home brew is becoming unpopular in Canada among border residents, according to a statement by the collector of customs and inland revenue at Windsor, who states that several home brew supply stores along the border have closed in the last few weeks.

IMPERIAL TOBACCO COMPANY OF CANADA LIMITED

CANADIAN SKINS

Pelts Were Imported to Ketchikan and Seized by Customs Now Released.

KETCHIKAN, Oct. 9.—Fred H. Ramelson of New York, represented by Charles H. Cosgrove, has won his fight for possession of 189 heavier skins seized last spring by customs officials for violation of the customs laws and regulations. The case was appealed to the secretary of the treasury and according to word received in the mail last night the department holds that there was no wilful intent to violate the law and therefore the skins are to be turned over to Ramelson.

The department held that the skins purchased in Canada, were shipped to Ketchikan contrary to the orders of Ramelson and without his knowledge, and as there was no attempt made to conceal them upon arrival at Ketchikan that they could not be held. The skins are said to be worth some $3500.

ALASKA NOTES

The marriage has been announced in Juneau of Miss Emily Borgen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustav W. Borgen, of Seward, to Lieut. W. M. McNamee at San Francisco on September 23. The bride has the distinction of being the first white girl born in Nome.

A deer hunter named Joe Neid, ermerly accidentally shot and killed himself at Fish Bay, near Sitka, recently. Niedermeyer was hunting deer above the timber line at Fish Bay, in company with a fellow hunter named Marx, when the accident occurred. No details are available. Deputy Thomas left Sitka on Monday last for the scene with a coroner's jury for the purpose of holding an inquest.

Otto Bernhard has resigned his position with the Alaska Meat Co. of Juneau and has left for the south for the benefit of his health. He was accompanied by Mrs. Bernhard. They will live in California. Mr. and Mrs. Bernhard have lived in Juneau for several years and have many friends there.

The yacht Silver Screen, which has been cruising on the Alaska coast the past summer, is now en route to Seattle. It was planned by the owner to make the trip to the north of Bering Sea, but plans were changed and the party aboard has been cruising around the Aleutian Islands and
