Conditions Better in Canada Than in United States; The Country is Very Optimistic

T. H. Johnson, Manager of Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co., Gives Interesting Luncheon Address Before Rotary Club

All degrees of optimism and pessimism were found in various parts of Canada and the United States by T. H. Johnson, manager of the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co., during his recent tour, he told the members of the Rotary Club at their luncheon yesterday afternoon in the Commodore Cafe. On the whole, he found Canada better than the United States.

Going into more detail the speaker mentioned that there were many pessimists in Southern Saskatchewan as a result of the series of bad crops followed by the season of poor prices. In Manitoba things were a trifle better but business was poor generally. The northern sections of the prairies were in better condition owing to their having had better crops and higher grades of grain.

An interesting sidelight on how Prince Rupert was affected was seen in the sections where there were large lakes. Fishing was carried on there to a very considerable extent both in season and out and the product was hawked around the country and sold at very low prices. The result was disastrous to the fish trade. People would not pay reasonable prices when they could buy these cheap fish.

Thanksgiving Day In Puget Sound City Is Darkened By Tragedy

Eleven Persons Injured as Mad Laborer Dashes Through Streets Wielding Huge Bolo Knife—Finally Taken in Custody

SEATTLE, Nov. 25.—Thanksgiving Day in Seattle was marred late yesterday afternoon by a ghastly tragedy in Jackson Street district when Julian Marcelino, a Filipino laborer, ran amok in the crowded streets with a huge bolo knife, stabbing six persons to death and injuring 11 others before he was taken into custody. The dead include a bystander, named Frank Johnson, one other white person, three Filipinos and a Chinaman. The injured persons are expected to recover with the possible exception of one.

Marino started his mad career from a hotel in Jackson Street where he was staying. Slaying two men as they lay on beds in their rooms, the madman rushed into the street, slashing right and left and leaving dead and injured in his track. Finally, he was subdued by detectives in King Street, disarmed and taken into custody.

After reaching the police station, Marino stated that he had seen two men who had robbed him a day or so ago and that he had started after them with the knife. One of the maniac's victims was a woman who attempted to rescue a small child in the madman's path. Marcelino dashed madly over an area of several city blocks, slashing savagely with his native weapon, before he was taken. Johnson was slain as he stood on the sidewalk. W. J. Morris, the other white victim, was a grocery store proprietor and was slashed to death outside his shop.
