SCOTLAND YARD IS BAFFLED

Strong Boxes Rifled and Gigantic Jewel Hauls Are Made; Thousands of Dollars Reward

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Great jewel-robberies have been the outstanding features of this London season, robberies so huge that Scotland Yard itself admits that these robberies are the work of a master-mind, a super-crook.

Newspapers are likening this super-crook to Professor Moriarty, Conan Doyle's famous fiction character.

Scotland Yard sleuths have already named the unknown super-thief "Moriarty." They are fully convinced that he is at the head of an international protective organization of crooks, which plans burglary, safe breaking and jewel stealing on an unprecedented scale.

In Best Society
"Moriarty," they say, has a town house and a country house, a fleet of motor cars, and a host of friends, straight and crooked, in London's best society. They do not know what Moriarty looks like. He may be a lord, for all they know, but they are convinced that he is a man high in society.

J. W. Bell, one of London's leading assessors, claims to know the man, but dare not give him away. All he will say is that "Moriarty" is the financier and brains of the thieves who work for him.

"Moriarty," Bell claims, has women agents as well as men—some of them, he declares, are titled. They will watch an intended victim for months, trail him across continents, work their way into his homes as maidservants or confidantes, until the time is ripe to strike.

Detectives declare that in all the latest big jewel hauls the victims have been shadowed for months.

For your Silk Sweater

Your silk sweater can be made dainty and clean, and as smart as new if you wash it in the gentle Lux suds.
Make a rich suds by whisking a teaspoonful of Lux into half a bowlful of very hot water. Add cold water until lukewarm. Dip the sweater up and down, pressing suds repeatedly through soiled spots. Rinse in three lukewarm waters. Squeeze water out—do not twist or wring.
Roll in a towel, and when nearly dry, press with a warm iron gently pulling the garment into shape as you do so.
The thin, white, satin-like flakes of Lux are made by our own exclusive process, and quickly dissolve into a rich bubbling lather.

Lux is sold only in sealed packages—dust proof!

which have taken place this season:

Mrs. J. Byrne, an American, robbed of $60,000 worth of jewellery.

Business man's wife robbed of $20,000 worth of jewels in a big loft.

World famous collection of old coins stolen from the Albany apartments, London.

Theft of thirty pearl necklaces from a fashionable jewel store.

Robbery of 130 gold snuff boxes and ruby set goblets from a house on the Brighton road.

In no case has there been any trace of the missing valuables.
Usually in the case of common criminals at least "part of the booty" turns up here or on the continent.

Every day the newspapers hanner-head jewel hauls. Recently two women said to be agents of "Moriarty" walked into a jewellery store and asked to be shown a gold bag. When the bag was produced the two girls, both of whom were pretty and stylishly dressed, asked the shop assistant to weigh the bag. The young man retired to the back of the shop, and the girls calmly put their hands through the partition separating the window from the shop and scooped up two trays full of diamond rings valued at $95,000.

Smiled Sweetly
When the young man came back he noticed nothing, as the partition had been closed after the theft. The girls calmly asked the weight of the bag, and, being told, declared it was too expensive.

They smiled sweetly and walked out. They have not been seen since, but police say they answer the description of "Moriarty's" most aristocratic women assistants.

London is echoing with the theft from a married couple living in Cornwall of the following: Twelve diamond brooches, rope of 284 pearls, gigantic ruby, formerly in the fez of a famous Shah of Persia; other jewels valued at $50,000.

And again the police are baffled.
Rewards offered already run into tens of thousands of dollars, but the police say such rewards are useless.

The master mind, this Napoleon of crime, pays his agents so well that at a paltry bribe they turn up their aristocratic noses.
