Did British Conservatives
Make A Mistake?

In view of late despatches many people are wondering if the Conservatives of Great Britain made a mistake in deciding to set Lloyd George down from the premiership. It is of course very difficult to tell at this distance what is transpiring and nothing is so uncertain as an election, as we all know here, yet despatches indicate that the former premier still has the people with him. If it should prove that the Welshman is still the kingpin in that country, it will be a curious condition that has arisen, and the old line Conservatives will wish they had not acted so precipitately.

It is extremely difficult for men who live in rich men's clubs and associate only with people of their own stripe to get an estimate of the popular feeling. It is to be supposed they do it through their political agents, but even those agents are likely to be misled.

Near Home
All Is Well.

A recent arrival from the south says that the opinion is general there that the Provincial Government has never been so strong as it is today and that there is no likelihood of an election in the near future. The Government may go for three years without another election. The member for this district who has been away in England looking after the affairs of the province there, should be back on the coast in a few days and will be looking after the interests of the district in the Legislature at the session which opens October 30.

Keep Up To Date
And Hold Our Own.

The tendency in the building up of a new city is for the pioneers to be crowded out by the influx of new people. That is especially true in a place that goes ahead fast.

The probability is that Prince Rupert will make rapid progress in the near future and the recommendation is made that local people now in business or holding positions of importance try to keep right up to date in methods and refuse to slow down. There is such a tendency, away from the rush of the big cities to get slack and not to put our best effort into our work. This affects us all. We do not realize that we are drifting instead of exercising power in a definite direction. If we drift we shall be easily overtaken by the new people that come in.

Recently a number of old timers have been leaving the city. Their places will soon be taken by others. We shall welcome newcomers and try to make them feel that there is a place for them here, but we must also try to learn from them and endeavor to hold our own in the race of life.

In order to avoid drifting it is necessary not only to keep fit in body and brilliant in mind, but also we must study through books and by personal contact with those outside. Any person who thinks to make a mark in the community must go outside occasionally to brighten up. No one can afford to remain indefinitely in a small town without getting that personal contact with the moving, struggling world and feeling the inspiration of men and women who are really doing things.

Paralyzing Effect
Of Monotony.

Monotony has a paralyzing effect. We tend to do the same things every day in the same way until our habits become so set that it is very difficult to change. We look with suspicion on new things and new ways of doing things. We are apt to feel almost aggrieved at innovations. That is when we are in danger. So often it is seen that the moment a town begins to move, the strangers with abundant energy and initiative arrive, introducing new methods and new life into the community and the old timers go down and out. It is sad but true. It is not necessary, but there is a great tendency in that direction. In order to prevent it we have to be constantly on the alert—watchful, energetic, keen, receptive to new ideas but careful.

NATIONAL FISH DAY

Editor Daily News:

It has been decided that in future, and commencing with this year, October 31st will be the national fish day for the Dominion of Canada instead of a date earlier in the year. It will not be necessary to impress upon you the necessity for increasing to the greatest possible extent the consumption of fish in this country and all fishery officers are requested to do everything in their power to bring this subject before the public in the most efficacious manner possible and particularly to the desirability of each citizen doing his or her share on the 31st of October to the end that as great a quantity of fish as is possible may be consumed.

Every endeavor is being made this fall to make the National Fish Day even more successful than the last one and you will be expected to get in touch with the hotel keepers and restaurateurs in your district and endeavor to obtain their wholehearted support. You should also get in touch with the newspapers and endeavor to have them give this subject some attention from time to time between now and the 31st instant.

 Chief Inspector of Fisheries.

SMITHERS MINES

Smithers, B.C.

Editor, Daily News.

Having seen in your paper sometime ago re the ore having been hauled to Smithers from the Hudson Bay Mountain, I wish to tell you there is none whatever been shipped from the Mamie Mine. All the ore that is coming to Smithers from the Duthie interests is coming from the Henderson property owned by me and under bond and being worked by J. F. Duthie.

I have seen so much in the papers to the same effect that the ore was coming from the Mamie mine, I wish to tell you they have a very long tunnel to drive before they tap any ore on the Mamie property. I bonded the Henderson property to J. F. Duthie last June 21, and they have over 70 tons of high grade ore here at Smithers and about 10 tons already sacked up at the mines. I ought to know for I get 50 per cent of Smelter returns until I am paid for my property.

BOOTH SCHOOL

Editor, Daily News.

In connection with some remarks, made at the meeting of the School Board, held on Oct. 17, that the Architect did not understand his business, I may say that I have waited patiently for the public investigation to be held. I am vitally interested in having the public know all the facts.

Before the coming winter is over, the public, the school board and the experts will realize that destroying the appearance of the building with a coat of stucco will not make a water-tight wall and if current reports are correct, why waste money putting on stucco, that does not keep out the water.

WEAR POPPIES
ARMISTICE DAY

I.O.D.E. Will be in Charge of The Armistice Day Poppy Sale,
 Assisted by G.W.V.A.

The aid of local merchants is being sought by the local command of the G.W.V.A. in putting over Poppy Day, which is scheduled to take place on November 11.

Preliminary arrangements for the event, to commemorate the deaths of the immortal Canadian soldiers who died in France, have already been made by the G.W.V.A.

Two ends are attained by the Poppy Day effort. In the first place the wearing of the red flower of Flanders is symbolic of the sacrifice made by the 50,000 Canadian heroes who paid the price of world freedom with their blood. Poppy Day serves to keep alive the memories of the gallant men who left congenial surroundings at home in order that the security and independence of their homeland might be maintained and who now sleep beneath the poppies in Flanders field.

The second commendable object of Poppy Day is to raise funds for relief work among the scores of veterans' families, which are in need of assistance, and also for the extension of aid to all who are needy or destitute within the city. Lord Byng's injunction to "honor the dead by serving the living" is thus being carried out in a practical and beautiful manner.

Daughters of Empire

The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire will have sole charge of the sale of Flanders Poppies on Armistice Day which will be on sale at all stores the same as was done last year.

The special Poppy Day committee of the G.W.V.A. will work in conjunction with the I.O.D.E. This committee comprises R. James, Jack Kelly, and Ralph Le Pine.

The poppies to be sold this year will be manufactured in Canada entirely by Canadian labor.

PARENT TEACHERS
MEETING AT ANYOX

Hear Interesting Lecture by Robert Manzer, Principal of Anyox School

ANYOX, Oct. 21.—The monthly meeting of the Anyox Parent Teachers Association held in the new school Tuesday evening was well attended, the president, Mrs. W. Hoffman, in the chair. An informal talk by Robert Manzer, principal of the Anyox School, proved very interesting and there were also piano, violin and vocal solos. Refreshments were served at the close.

Progress Made

Mr. Manzer touched very briefly on the general progress of the educational system covering a period of from 20 to 25 years. Changes had been made during that time without loss by experimentation and the continuity of the system has been preserved. He said that British Columbia had kept step with the eastern provinces with the exception of Winnipeg and Toronto, which were more advanced. He mentioned Dean Hoggerty's lectures and the benefits derived from them and touched on the state of the rural schools in British Columbia compared with the United States. The British schools he considered were more advanced.

Mr. Manzer urged the importance of the summer schools where material assistance was given teachers by the department of education.

During later years such organizations as the B. C. Teachers' Federation, the Parent Teachers Association, and School Trustees Association had been formed. Every teacher had to be a student. Teachers controlled their own conventions and having the confidence of the department of education their combined efforts made for improvement.

FISH stories are rather out of date. Hunting stories are it, just now.

THE difference between the fish story and the hunting story is that while the fish story grows with every telling, the hunting story has to be kept within the requirements of the game warden.

NEVER try to get at the very essence of things. It is not good for the health and is apt to make you shoot.

IT rather looks as if Lloyd George may yet score a come-back. The only difficulty is in having the law against him.
