"THE HALF BREED" HAS MANY STRONG MOMENTS

Love, Thrills and Big Scenes Feature Morosco Production at Westholme Theatre

"The Half Breed," a first National attraction, opened at the Westholme Theatre last night. It is a picture that should appeal to all, for it abounds with thrills and dramatic situations. Adapted from the famous stage play, it has gained in vigor and expansion by its adaption to the screen. The pathetic plight of the college graduate, half Indian, half white, has been depicted realistically and sincerely. The crazy, ramshackle ideal or love, battling against the insurmountable barrier of social caste has been woven into a story of tender appeal.

Above everything else is the outstanding feature of a wild, stupendous stampede of steers over a broad stretch of country with two figures on horseback racing at the head of the caravan for a haven of safety. The scene deserves to rank among the permanent moments of screen fame. For boldness and daring it is one of the outstanding achievements of the silent drama.
