COLLIER CAESAR IS TO BE ORE CARRIER

Purchased by Coastwise Steamship Co. for B.C. Alaska Trade

SEATTLE, Jan. 16.—For operation in the Puget Sound-British Columbia-Alaska routes, James Griffiths and Sons have purchased the former naval collier Caesar from R. W. Crosby, head of the Crosby Marine Corporation, of Seattle. Mr. Crosby bought the vessel from the Navy Department December 19. 1

Capt. James Griffiths, head of the Coastwise Steamship Co., bought the Caesar for use in the ore-carrying trade. She is a built carrier, making her an ideal ship for that purpose. She also is equipped with a powerful towing machine, and will tow Griffiths barges in her voyages to and from British Columbia and Alaska. The towing machine was installed a number of years ago by the Navy Department at a cost of $30,000, so that the Caesar could tow the huge naval drydock Dewey from the Atlantic coast to Manila, via the Panama Canal. The Caesar handled the tow, one of the greatest feats of the kind in maritime history, without trouble. 1

The Caesar was equipped with new boilers last year. She served for years as a naval collier on the Atlantic and the Pacific, continuing in operation until last July, when she was laid up at Mare Island. She is a carrier of 5,926 tons displacement, with a length of 322 feet, a beam of 44 feet and a draft of 28.9 feet. 1

RACIAL EQUALITY IS AIM OF JAPANESE

TOKIO, Jan. 12.—Japan will have her last opportunity of introducing the question of racial equality next year when her representatives meet with delegates of the United States to negotiate for renewal of the commercial treaty between the two countries which expires at that time. 1

That is the contention of Kotaro Mochizuki, member of the Japanese House of Representatives, who has been a leader in Japan's agitation for equal citizenship rights in foreign lands. 1

He declares Japanese diplomats made a great mistake in concentrating on the disarmament question at the Washington conference rather than discussing citizenship rights and racial equality. 1

When the trade agreement is renewed, he says, Japan should make a strong effort to secure for her nationals right of naturalization in the United States. 1
