POSSIBILITY OF MAKING PRINCE RUPERT C.P.R. TERMINUS IS DISCUSSED

Suggests Prince Rupert as Terminus for C.P.R. Peace River to Coast

Persistent rumors indicate that the G.P.R. is active in connection with another railway north of the Grand Trunk Pacific that will tap the Peace River agricultural area, the Ground Hog and areas and the fine country around the head waters of the Nass River. The Peace River Record tells of survey parties going through and suggests that Nass Bay will be the Pacific Terminus of the line.

A correspondent suggests that Prince Rupert would be the natural terminus for this railway. He says in part:

SENATE STICKS TO AMENDMENT OF LIQUOR ACT

Notes Forty to Thirty Favor of Plebiscite Before Change Made

OTTAWA, June 28.—Despite the request of government leaders that the Senate amendment to the liquor bill be dropped to conform to the wishes of the British Columbia government, the Senate last night supported by forty votes to thirty the provision that British Columbia citizens may continue to import liquor for their personal use until a plebiscite expressed a contrary wish on the part of the citizens.

Sir George Foster's amendment asking that distilleries and breweries found guilty of breaking any liquor law be deprived of their licenses was also defeated and the new liquor act was given its third reading by the Senate as amended.

The first output under the arrangements is to be of 5,000 gallons. The producers are to get about two dollars a gallon for the product.

Capt. Watson, of the C.G. M. E. McCoskie, harbor master, on his return from Triple Island to which point he piloted the big freighter which yesterday pulled out for Yokohama with a cargo of Prince Rupert lumber.

The Canadian Transporter left port shortly after 10 o'clock yesterday morning and was off Triple Island at 1 o'clock. There Capt. McCoskie debarked and returned here at 4:20 on the launch Pachena.

United States May Seize Those Vessels Carrying Liquor More Than Allowed by Volstead Law

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The increasing number of foreign ships docking in American waters with more liquor than is permitted under the supreme court ruling has brought government officials to the point of considering application of the provisions of the Volstead Act for the seizure of foreign vessels. The situation has been considered at a series of conferences with Secretary Hughes and other officials. Reluctance to invoke the enforcement of the laws in regard to the ship seizure provision is explained by officials as being due to a desire to avoid serious international disputes.

His Majesty's light cruiser Curlew, of the North Atlantic squadron, commanded by Capt. Holbrook, M.V.O., and H.M.C.S. torpedo boat destroyer Patrician, commanded by Capt. Oland, steamed into the harbor at one o'clock today and will remain here until Sunday. The Curlew tied up at the ocean dock and the Patrician is moored at No. 1 G.T.P. dock.

The cruiser Curlew is direct from San Pedro, California, and Prince Rupert is her first Canadian port of call. The Patrician, which is from Quatsino, picked up the Curlew yesterday afternoon at sea, some 70 miles off Quatsino. The ships took the outside passage on their voyage north. The Curlew is manned by a crew of 650 officers and men while the torpedo boat destroyer Patrician has a crew of 60 officers and men.

On leaving here Sunday, the Curlew and Patrician will make for Portland, Oregon, and from there to Esquimalt. Whether or not they will visit Vancouver en route has not yet been decided.

Capt. Holbrook, M.V.O., in command of the Curlew, is the brother of Capt. Holbrook, V.C., who won distinction at the Dardanelles during the Great War.

This is the first visit of the Curlew to the Pacific coast but the Patrician is well known here having been stationed at Esquimalt for some months. She was here last December in the course of a cruise of the coast.

Owing to the fact that the warships arrived an hour ahead of time there were not many people on hand to witness their arrival. However, this afternoon the vessels are the centre of attraction along the waterfront. They present a particularly smart appearance.

The Curlew is the second battle cruiser ever to visit this port, the first having been the Rainbow, late of the Canadian navy.

The Patrician tied up with despatch at No. 1 dock, Capt. Oland making a very smart landing in deed.

Labor Members Are Suspended in British House

The Curlew, a much larger boat which entered the harbor first, approached the ocean dock slowly and a landing was made in true naval fashion, the mooring ropes being taken off by Jack Tars in life boats and thereby thrown up on the dock.

The vessels will take on water and certain supplies here and, it is understood, will be thrown open at appointed hours for public inspection.

Capt. E. McCoskie, harbor master, received notice of the vessels by wireless early this morning and made arrangements for the berthing of the ships here

Up-to-Date Warship

The Curlew is the most up-to-date warship that has ever entered this port and is up to the minute as far as full naval equipment is concerned. She is a low lying craft and is fitted out with cannons, torpedo tubes and all the bristling armor of modern marine warfare.

Mrs. H. R. Grant left on last night's train for Winnipeg where she will visit her son, Archie Grant. Miss Lorraine Grant accompanied her mother. They will visit Fort William as well as Winnipeg and returning will stop off at Fernie, Nelson, Vancouver and Victoria. They expect to be away about two months.

Suggested Plan to Reduce the Number of Seats in Legislature from 47 to 30 in Redistribution

VICTORIA, June 28.—The Oliver Government will bring down a redistribution bill at the next session of the Legislature and will endeavor to have 37 provincial constituencies reduced to something in the neighborhood of 30.

The proposal was announced here today by men prominent in Liberal circles and close to the administration, although it was not possible to obtain official confirmation, premier Oliver being out of town and other ministers declining to make a statement.

Assurance was given on reliable authority that redistribution of seats is the aim of the government and that it will be effected at the October session of the House if possible. It was stated, in fact, that if Oliver, who is named as chief sponsor for the redistribution bill, meets with defeat, he will call a general election shortly after the House prorogues and appeal to the country with a reduction in the number of ridings as one of the major issues of the campaign.

Upwards of fifteen members will lose their seats if the redistribution plan as it is being drawn is carried by the Legislature. Just how the seats will be allocated under the system is still unsettled and this phase of the change is now being worked out.

Considerable support is being given to the proposal, which would establish a population basis by fixing certain members for Vancouver and Victoria and then distributing the seats in other districts throughout the province with regard to population in relation to the two principle centres. Economy is the motive behind the plan for reduction and that is one important point which the government expects will appeal to the people.

Burns & Co., Ltd. are planning to erect a killing plant in Prince Rupert and plan to use about two cars of cattle a week, getting as many as possible from the country adjoining the western lines of the Canadian National Railway through central British Columbia. In the autumn when a great many beef cattle may be available, Bulkley Valley beef will be shipped to the plant at Edmonton.

CRITICISM OF TREATY MAKING

Meighen Objects to Independent Move of Canadian Statesmen at Washington

UNREPENTANT SINNER

OTTAWA, June 28.—Following three hours of sharp debate, the House of Commons approved the North Pacific halibut fishing treaty between Canada and the United States. The treaty itself was little criticized but the manner of affixing the signature to it was.

From Arthur Meighen claimed that Minister of Marine Lapointe by signing on behalf of the British Government had figuratively speaking kicked Sir Auckland Geddes out of the door.

Mr. Meighen asked why it was necessary constantly to emphasize and magnify before the world the desire on the part of Canadians to disassociate themselves with the Empire.

Mr. Lapointe replied that Canada was of age and able to sign promissory notes without her guardian's endorsement. If his action in signing alone was a sin, he was an unrepentant sinner.

Premier Mackenzie King urged that the treaty was one concerning Canada alone and required only Canada's signature as the responsible nation.

Some of the members of the House opposed the criticism of Mr. Meighen and said that the action of the United States in attaching a rider to the agreement making it applicable to other parts of Great Britain was an affront to Canada.

SIR HENRY THORNTON IS GONE TO SEATTLE VICTORIA ON FRIDAY

VANCOUVER, June 28.—Sir Henry Thornton and party arrived here yesterday. In an interview with the newspapers Sir Henry said the Peace River branch of the Canadian National would certainly be built, perhaps next year, from a point to be settled on after the surveyors now on the ground had reported.

The railway president went on to Seattle last night and will visit Victoria Friday.

OTTAWA, June 28.—"I have no intimation of anything of the kind," declared Premier King last night when referred to a dispatch in a Toronto paper that Sir Henry Thornton may resign from the Canadian railways because of parliamentary interference.

Mrs. H. H. Hemmings is leaving the city on Saturday on a combined business and pleasure trip to Calgary via Vancouver. While in Calgary, Mrs. Hemmings will visit her daughter, Mrs. W. Webb, and will also visit another daughter, Mrs. J. H. Smith and her son, Frank Hemmings, in Vancouver.
