NO CHANGE IN POLICY OF U.S.

Secretary Hughes Sends Message to British Government That Effect

LONDON, Aug. 17.—Acting upon cable advices from Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes, American embassy officials in London have made clear to the British Foreign office that the United States contemplated no departure from its attitude on reparations as taken before President Harding's death and as announced by Secretary Hughes in his New Haven speech.

This dispenses of any hope on this side that Coolidge's accession to office might result in more active interest by the United States in Europe's problems.

Reiteration of America's policy was conveyed verbally and informally to the British Government and not through a note.
