FOREST FIRE DANGER OVER

Situation This Year Has Been Very Satisfactory, Forestry Office Reports

From present indications danger from forest fires in Prince Rupert district is now over according to the local forestry office. No fires are now burning as far as is known. This morning a wire was received at the office from the interior stating that all fires were extinguished and the weather was cloudy.
The Forest Branch reports that the public has given splendid co-operation this year in the matter of coping with the fire situation. The publicity campaign conducted by the department and the unstinted assistance given by the press has been an important and appreciated factor. There have not been nearly as many fires this year and the expense will not be one-fifteenth of what it was last year, it is estimated. This satisfactory condition has been general throughout the province.
It is understood at the forestry office that all sawmills in this district which were closed down on account of water shortage have resumed operations.
