SMITHERS HAS BOXING MILL

Excellent Exhibition of Sparring Took Place at Recent Smoker

UPROARIOUS PLAUDITS

Sixth Event Was Unusual One and it Brought Down the House

SMITHERS, Nov. 28. — The smoker and boxing entertainment held under the auspices of the Smithers Athletic Association on Friday last was a complete success. The town hall, the scene of activities, was filled to capacity, and the Gray Orchestra kept the big crowd in a rollicking mood by musical selections prior to the start of fistic activities.

Promptly at the advertised time, the announcer, Dr. C. H. Hankinson, entered the ring and briefly intimated what the program would be and that the various bouts would carry "No decision."

Opening Bout

The opening bout of four rounds between "Spud" Brodie and E. Kirby in the 120 lb. class was well received and showed the boys capable of taking care of themselves. The referee was F. Foster.

Fred White and "Vic" Williams at 135 lbs. were the participants in the second bout, and kept up a fast pace for three rounds, under the eye of C. E. Foster, referee.

Phil. Hoskins, Smithers, and J. McKenzie, Moricetown, 140 lb. class, started the third bout in a lively manner, which owing to an accident was called in the first round by the referee — "Jess" Gray.

Clean Boxing

By way of a variation in the program a recitation was capably given by C. E. Foster, after which "Len" Jenkins and T. Martin entered the ring for a three round set to. Both these men were in perfect condition, and both having previous ring experience the crowd was treated to an exhibition of good clean boxing. J. Howey, an ex-ring gladiator, acted as referee.

C. Brain, a member of the Gray Orchestra then demonstrated his ability as a singer, and "brought down the house" with songs which were repeatedly encored.

The fifth bout took place between J. MacKenzie, of Moricetown, and P. Spouse, of Telkwa, and went four interesting rounds. F. Foster, referee.

Both Local Men

The announcer then stated that the sixth bout would consist of five rounds between two well-known Smithereens—Billy Henry and George Wall. This announcement was received with rounds of applause, which were renewed when the participants climbed over the ropes in their "battle array" and were introduced by referee J. Howey as "Champion Land Shark" Henry, and "Henry Ford's Nurse" Wall.

On account of the great importance of the encounter it was considered necessary to put each contender to a thorough medical examination, and accordingly Dr. Hankinson examined and certified to the fitness of Wall, while Dr. Paine put Henry "through his paces."

As the pugilistic tendencies of both were known to be of a high order it was deemed advisable to put two referees in the ring so that everything would be according to Hoyle. Frank Foster acted for Wall and J. Howey kept an eye open for Henry.

Uproarious Plaudits

When the gloves were tied on two beer barrels (empty of course) were rolled in, into one of which a contestant was placed, and after being placed at a distance apart the gong was sounded. The result was too comical for words, and boxers, referees, barrels, legs, arms, etc., were cavorting within the "squared circle" at a merry clip amidst the uproarious plaudits of the throng. The timekeepers failed to function with the result that all five rounds were "rolled" into one, and when the "Champion Land Shark" was able to reach his corner and see "Henry Ford's Nurse" in the opposite one, it was evident that neither was satisfied with the result, and they have both vowed to go into strict training for a decision at the next smoker to be held in March.

The "heavies" were now in the "offing" and a good bout was furnished by Geo. Hefferman, of Smithers, and "Jess" Gray of Prince George. Both tipped the scale at 175 pounds, and their physical condition was such that four rounds of fast fighting made no impression on either. The referee was C. E. Foster.

As the "fight" spirit was manifesting itself Allen Rutherford challenged R. L. Gale to an "encounter" and when Rutherford "dispatched" Reggie by the "knock-out" route, D. D. Rollston immediately "took up the mitts" on behalf of his "vanquished" friend and had the satisfaction of having the referee hoist his hand (in fact both hands) in the air as a symbol of victory.

The 160 pound class brought out "Lem" Rabbe and E. J. Booth, both of Smithers. They fought four rounds, refereed by J. Howey.

Dr. Hankinson then asked for a vote of thanks for those responsible for the splendid entertainment provided, and if the three hearty cheers and the "tiger" was expressive of the thanks felt then the Athletic Assn. officers, promotors and stagers are assured their efforts were appreciated to the full.

The timekeepers were J. A. McIntyne and T. A. Dunlop.
