Welcome To Naval Representatives.

Prince Rupert people are always ready to welcome the representatives of the navy. Today the light cruiser Gurelew and the destroyer Patrician are no exception to the rule. We are glad to see them and to meet the officers and men to whom we look for defence in time of trouble. They are here showing the flag, and perhaps we need to see it occasionally to remind us of our obligations. As part of the British Empire, and no mean part either, it is for us to uphold the traditions of the past and to make a tradition for the future. We associate the navy with bravery, skill, determination, tact, courtesy and a spirit of helpfulness. Such characteristics are desirable in anyone and especially in the representatives of the great commonwealth of nations.

Congratulations To Winner Of Trophy.

Word came late yesterday that Miss Jean Mackay had won the big silver cup for the best essay in a province wide competition in which all the high school students of the province took part. This is a distinct honor. To win in competition with other pupils locally would be something to talk about, but to beat all the bright students in Vancouver, Victoria and the other schools of the province is indeed a fine record. We congratulate Miss Mackay on her work. Naturally her parents are proud of her and so are the members and staff of the High School. With them the whole community will join.

When Miss Mackay won a prize in the oratorical contest under the auspices of the Rotary Club it was clear that she had great ability of expression. Now this is confirmed for she can write as well as speak. The local high school deserves praise for this and other records that have been made by students from that institution.

Great Opportunity To Study Sea Life.

There are great opportunities to study sea life in and around Prince Rupert. Today there was a very low tide and by drifting lazily over the shallows at such time most wonderful sights meet the eye. The sea is full of life both plant and animal and there are all shades of coloring and curious and artistic shapes. While there may not be the bright colors of the warmer climates, there are the softer tones which blend beautifully and are even more artistic than the blaze of color of the tropics.

Many Visitors Coming This Year.

Prince Rupert is receiving visitors in much larger numbers this year than ever before. Managers of tours are routing this way and steamships are making special calls. The railway is co-operating in arranging for short stopovers at this place. Another season when the railway company has its own hotel here, doubtless it will be even more interested in keeping it full and arranging for more lengthy visits. The fishing and hunting of the district will then be featured as well as cruising, salt water swimming and seaplane attractions.

MISS MACKAY IS CONGRATULATED

Local Student Who Beat Whole Province in High School Class Given Praise

Local people have since the announcement appeared yesterday in the Daily News, been congratulating Miss Jean Mackay on her winning the silver cup emblematic of the championship of the province in the essay contest. In this the High School staff shares.

The text of the despatch, which came in late yesterday and which it was not possible then to publish in full follows:

"Jean Halliday Mackay, 15 years of age, of Prince Rupert High School, Marjorie Wakefield, 13, of Vernon Central School, and Betty Martin, 12, of Meldrum Creek today won the first prizes in the province wide essay competition on 'Our Forests and Why We Should Protect Them From Fire.' It was concluded by the forest branch of the department of lands. Ten thousand students, nearly six thousand of them from Vancouver alone and a couple of thousand from Victoria, competed for the prizes.

"Miss Mackay will be awarded the large silver cup for winning the first prize in the High School group. Miss Wakefield will also be awarded a silver cup for turning in the best essay in the province of any public school pupil. Other prize winners will get gold and silver medals. Little Betty Martin wins third silver cup for heading the intermediate grade list."

LOCAL STRAWBERRIES TO BE SENT NORTH

Jarvis McLeod is to Make a Trial Shipment to Friends in Skagway—Market Possibilities

At the request of personal friends, Jarvis McLeod is going to ship this year to Skagway, Alaska, several crates of strawberries from the interior district. This will be in the nature of a trial shipment and if it proves successful it will in all probability open up another market for the interior product since strawberries are a scarce commodity in Alaska.

LOCAL STORES DISAPPEARING

Fred Stork Tells of Conditions in Ontario Where Small Towns Suffer

An interesting study is the decay of the local stores in the East, especially in Ontario, and the decadence of the smaller towns at the expense of the big cities, according to Fred Stork who yesterday told the Rotary Club of his observations when in the East. He took one town as an example and added that practically all the other small towns were similarly affected. In that town he found one of the old firms going out of business after being there for fifty years. The head of the firm explained to Mr. Stork that for several years they had been going behind with no prospect of improvement. The trouble was that the department stores in Toronto with a small office in the town took orders and the following morning early the goods were delivered. Under these conditions local stores could not exist.

The result of this condition was that the local stores gradually became smaller and it was only a matter of time when most of them would be out of business, while department store growth had been slow at first it was rapid of late with fatal results to the small towns.

Everything Affected

Added to the loss of business came the heavy taxation for the construction of fine automobile highways. Small merchants were everywhere being closed out and the towns had to take over the property because of failure to pay taxes. The loss of general business meant fewer commercial men on the road, and the closing of hotels and loss to the railways. The purchasing power of money in a large way was putting the small men at a disadvantage. They were being gradually strangled. It was a tremendous change.

Mr. Stork closed by stating that Prince Rupert could not be affected that way, for many years at any rate, and he urged that people buy at home and thus keep the city prosperous.

PRINCE RUPERT IS CLOSELY TIED UP ALASKA INTERESTS

Situation of Port Bound to Win In Spite of Hindrances: Alaskan Comment

Various interests in Alaska try to injure Prince Rupert in order to benefit themselves. The financial motif is strong in all moves for or against this port. The "Alaska Fisherman" just to hand comments on the situation as follows:

"Mr. Strong was in Prince Rupert recently making arrangements for the shipment of his cannery products to the East over the Grand Trunk Railway. He is operating the Bellingham and expects to transport the fish from Ketchikan to Prince Rupert in that vessel, recently overhauled and placed in good conditions.

"Carl Strong, who now plans to send his own products to eastern United States via Canadian railroads, is the same man who voluntarily appeared before the committee on Merchant Marine against Sutherland's proposed repeal of Section 27 of the Jones Shipping Act. This section it is that permits foreign ships to engage in general business anywhere in the United States except in Alaska.

"Strong at that time said that Alaska should not participate in the benefits of foreign shipping.

Terrible Headaches and Dizziness

Miss S. Raphael, 271 Kenilworth Ave. N., Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"I used to suffer from terrible headaches and dizziness. Last summer, while I was walking up a side street, I got a dizzy spell and fell in the middle of the road. An old gentleman helped me to get to where I was going and told me to get a vial of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. Well, I did, and they did wonders for me. I don't know how to thank you, as I don't get headaches or dizzy spells any more."

When your liver gets sluggish and inactive your whole health suffers, and the only way to keep well is to keep the liver active and performing its proper functions by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills.
