BRITAIN OBJECTS TO INVASION BY FRANCE

GERMAN GOVERNMENT RESIGNS; COUNTRY IN UPROAR; FIGHTING REPORTED

British Note Declares Illegal the Occupation of Germany by France Germany Must Pay Much as Able

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The British note to France and Belgium in which the Baldwin government says it regards the Ruhr occupation as illegal under the Versailles treaty but is willing to submit the point to arbitration, has made a deep impression. For the most part it is regarded as creating a new situation which may have serious developments.

The communication reiterates that Britain is still determined that Germany shall pay "to the maximum of her capacity" but asserts that "what that maximum is should be decided by an impartial tribunal." For her own part Britain would be willing to obtain from Germany for reparations and allied debts a sum sufficient to meet her debt to the United States.

PUBLIC WORKS TO BE STARTED

Immediate Construction of Kitsault River Bridge and Bear River Road

Provision has been made by the Department of Public Works for construction to start at once on the Kitsault River bridge at Alice Arm and the rebuilt road up the Bear River at Stewart. H. F. Kergin, M.L.A. for Athabasca, who was in the city on the Gardena yesterday afternoon returning to Alice Arm from Victoria where he spent a fortnight pressing for public work in his constituency. Other work of a less important nature in various parts of the district is also to be undertaken very soon, Mr. Kergin says.

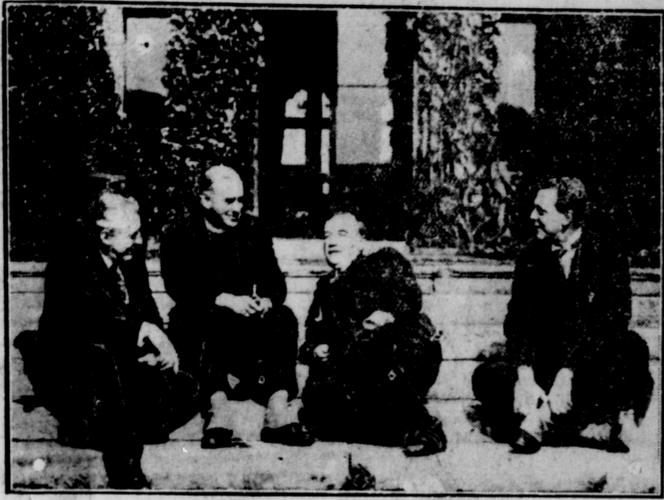

The bridge at Alice Arm, for which the people of that place have been pressing for some time, will be a Howe truss structure of timber construction. It will provide direct access from the town of Alice Arm to the opposite side of the river, replacing a small ferry which has been used in crossing for some time. It will be of great benefit to the Illice River mining country and logging operations at the head of Alice Arm.

The new Bear River road will replace the old one and will be built at an easier grade than the present one. It will continue from the new bridge which is now just about finished. Construction of the road will start this year and it is hoped to have it finished next year.

Japanese Still Gathering Data Regarding Prince Rupert and the Shipment of Silk by North Route

Gathering information regarding the development of a trade between Prince Rupert and Japan, the Japanese consul in Vancouver, S. Taiyo, of the Japanese consul's office in Vancouver was a visitor to this city at the week-end.

During his visit here, Mr. Taiyo was busy all the time and he collected much first hand data of the city and district. Previous to arriving here he visited points along the line of the Canadian National Railway in the interior.

The chief consideration at the present time is the movement of the Japanese silk across the continent, and time in this appears to be the chief essential, says the visitor. For a number of years this business has been divided between the Canadian Pacific and the United States lines running into Seattle, and every effort has been made by the railway managements to save even matters of minutes in the movement of the silk specials, which are dispatched across the continent upon the arrival of steamers, at express speed. As it is a very profitable business, there is every reason why the managements should concern themselves, and with this knowledge that the Japanese authorities are considering the possibility of a more northern route, there is added reason why they should exert themselves to hold the business.

One Way Cargo

The shipping end of the question does not present any difficulty to the Japanese authorities. Given an assurance that the Prince Rupert port will give them an advantage in the point of time in the arrival of the silk train in the east, they are prepared to put a line of steamers on the Pacific which will equal the speediest vessels in the C.P.R. fleet. Neither will there be any difficulty in supplementing the silk with other cargo commodities for the outward voyage, but the matter for return cargo for the Japanese vessels requires more consideration. In the commencement it will be more difficult to secure at Prince Rupert than it would be at Vancouver, but the Japanese are of the opinion that the business through the northern port can be built up. They would be prepared to take lumber and wheat in unlimited quantities until other lines could be introduced. With very little manipulation, they figure the lumber end of the cargoes could be arranged from the mills with

SITUATION AT PAPER MILLS

Swanson Bay Entirely Closed Down and Ocean Falls Was About to Discontinue

The Whalen Pulp & Paper Co.'s plant at Swanson Bay is closed down entirely on account of water shortage and the Pacific Mills plant at Ocean Falls is about to close down if the water situation does not show an immediate improvement. This is the word brought to the city by the steamer Gardena which arrived from the south yesterday afternoon.

The Swanson Bay mills will be closed down for a month, it is expected. Several of the employees have already left for the south, some of them having gone last week to the company's other plant at Port Alice, Vancouver Island. O. O. Jorgenson, assistant to the president of the company, and Mr. Burwell, another executive, arrived by the Gardena at Swanson Bay yesterday to look over the situation. Up till a few days ago, the Pacific Mills had curtailed operations to one machine but last week the decision was made to open up both machines again and keep going at full blast till the water ran out. An entire shutdown had been expected this week but the recent arrival of rain may now make this unnecessary.
