Furnaces Blew in Today at Granby Smelter Following Fire; Increased Production

ANYOX, July 24.—After being closed down since the 17th the furnaces at the Granby Smelter were started today and operations at the big plant are in full swing again. The temporary close down was caused by the recent bush fire which severely damaged the trestles and bridge work of the ore railway. By working continuous 12 hour shifts the road has been repaired and the first ore trains are running today. During the close down the smelter force has been busy making needed alterations and repairs and a campaign of increased copper production is looked forward to.

Fisheries Inspector Adam Mackie made his first patrol flight on the flying boat G-CDYX yesterday, after which he expressed himself as being assured that the air machine would be very effective in doing the work that it was brought here to perform. The flight proved very satisfactory and Mr. Mackie was very pleased with the possibility provided of seeing from a height what was actually going on below. The machine went to an elevation of 5,500 feet and everything below could be distinguished very plainly.

Kill Man and Seriously Wound Woman to North of Everett

SEATTLE, July 24. - Two persons were shot, one of whom may die, one man was beaten and robbed, three automobiles were held up and loot valued at $3,000 was seized by two bandits who terrorized the Pacific Highway north of Everett early today.

Finley McKee of Spokane, who with his wife refused to halt at the command of the bandits when they came upon two cars being held up, were shot, a bullet plercing two lungs and another going through the thighs of Mrs. McKee.

The two robbers escaped after they had beaten up the one-armed driver of another car and taken his money.
