BIG SALMON PACKS IN SOUTHEASTERN ALASKA

Visiting Official Tells of it and of Progress Made in Hyder

JUNEAU, Aug. 27.—One of the heaviest salmon runs in the history of the packing industry in Alaska is reported in the Southern end of the division by canners and fishermen, according to Karl Theile, Surveyor General and Secretary of Alaska, who returned here on the steamer Queen from a two weeks' visit to Ketchikan and Hyder. "I was told by J. R. Heckman, Ketchikan business man, salmon packer and vice-chairman of the Alaska Fish Commission, that the present run is the heaviest he has ever seen in his many years' experience," said Mr. Theile.

All of the canners are putting up heavy packs. The Sunny Point cannery a week ago had 90,000 cases and it was expected would reach between 150,000 and 160,000 for the season. Other packers are operating at capacity. A big pack is also reported at the Petersburg cannery. The cannery operations and fresh business at Ketchikan is reflected in the confident business prosperity there, much activity being in evidence in all lines, he said.

Texas Creek Mining

All interest in the Portland Canal district centers in the Texas Creek strikes and prospecting on the American side of the line is increasing. Persons who had been prospecting on the Canadian side since the discoveries on Texas Creek, have crossed into Alaska.

The ore from Texas Creek was said by Mr. Theile to be the finest specimens of silver-lead he has ever seen. The strikes were made on the surface and the samples were taken from outcroppings. Hardly a day passes, he said, without the arrival of mining engineers from all over the country and several capitalists were at Hyder when he left. The ore and general appearance of the ledge from which it was taken is said to be identical with the famous Premier mine deposits.

Pat Daily There

No development work had been started but options were being taken on some Texas Creek ground. Pat Daly and associates had taken an option on claims held by Hewitt & Olson and the Granby Smelting & Refining Company holds one on a group of claims owned by Jackson and Hummel.

The renewed interest in the district is reflected in the improvement of business conditions at Hyder, Mr. Theile said. Bank deposits there show a remarkable growth, increasing over 100 per cent and the bank is contemplating increasing its capitalization from $15,000 to $50,000. All of the merchants report a fine business.

While the development of the camp, he said, will naturally be somewhat slow, it should hit its stride in three or four years and from every indication within the next few years it should be one of the biggest producing camps on the continent.

MAE MURRAY HERE IN BROADWAY ROSE

Story of Country Girl Who Became Idol of Broadway Through Skill in Dancing

With Mae Murray in the stellar role of "Broadway Rose," which comes to the Westholme tonight, motion picture fans will see the beautiful star in an elaborate production which is said to surpass even "Peacock Alley" and "Fascination."

As in the latter pictures Miss Murray is provided with a role which gives prominence to her ability as a dancer and affords an opportunity for striking costumes in great profusion.

The story concerns a country girl who, by her extraordinary ability as a dancer, becomes the idol of Broadway. The heir of an aristocratic Fifth Avenue family falls in love with her, urges her to marry him and, seeking only happiness with the man she loves, Rosalie consents. To avoid an open rupture with his family the marriage is kept secret but the discovery of the situation by the father precipitates a crisis which almost wrecks Violet's life.

KATHERINE MACDONALD HEROES AND HUSBANDS

"Heroes and Husbands," an exceptionally clever and diverting comedy drama is to be the feature at the Westholme Theatre Wednesday and Katherine Macdonald is the star.

This new production will introduce Miss Macdonald as a successful novelist, who is very much in love with the illustrator of her books, Wall Gaylord. He happens to be the object of no little heart interest on the part of the wife of the publisher, Hugh Bemis.

Susanne Danbury the authoress, has had no trouble in her books in solving problems of the heart, but when she is face to face with a love affair of her own she finds it is an entirely different matter. She sets about solving the problem with her own keen wit, and the manner in which she does this forms a story that is at once novel and extraordinarily interesting.

In none of her previous pictures has Miss Macdonald had the same capital chances to display her talents as a comedienne, and also to prove that she is capable of enacting real drama as in "Heroes and Husbands."

MAIN STREET IS BIG WEEK END PICTURE

Famous Narrative Story That Caused so Much Talk is to be Shown Here

"Main Street" is a picture with a punch, the picture of the year one could say without exaggeration, says an interviewer. Whether it was the masterly acting of Florence Vidor and Monte Blue, and the all-star cast, or the exceptional direction of Harry Beaumont, or the sheer strength of Sinclair Lewis' story, is hard to say. But what can be said is that these elements all combine into the making of a picture that one will have to go far to equal.

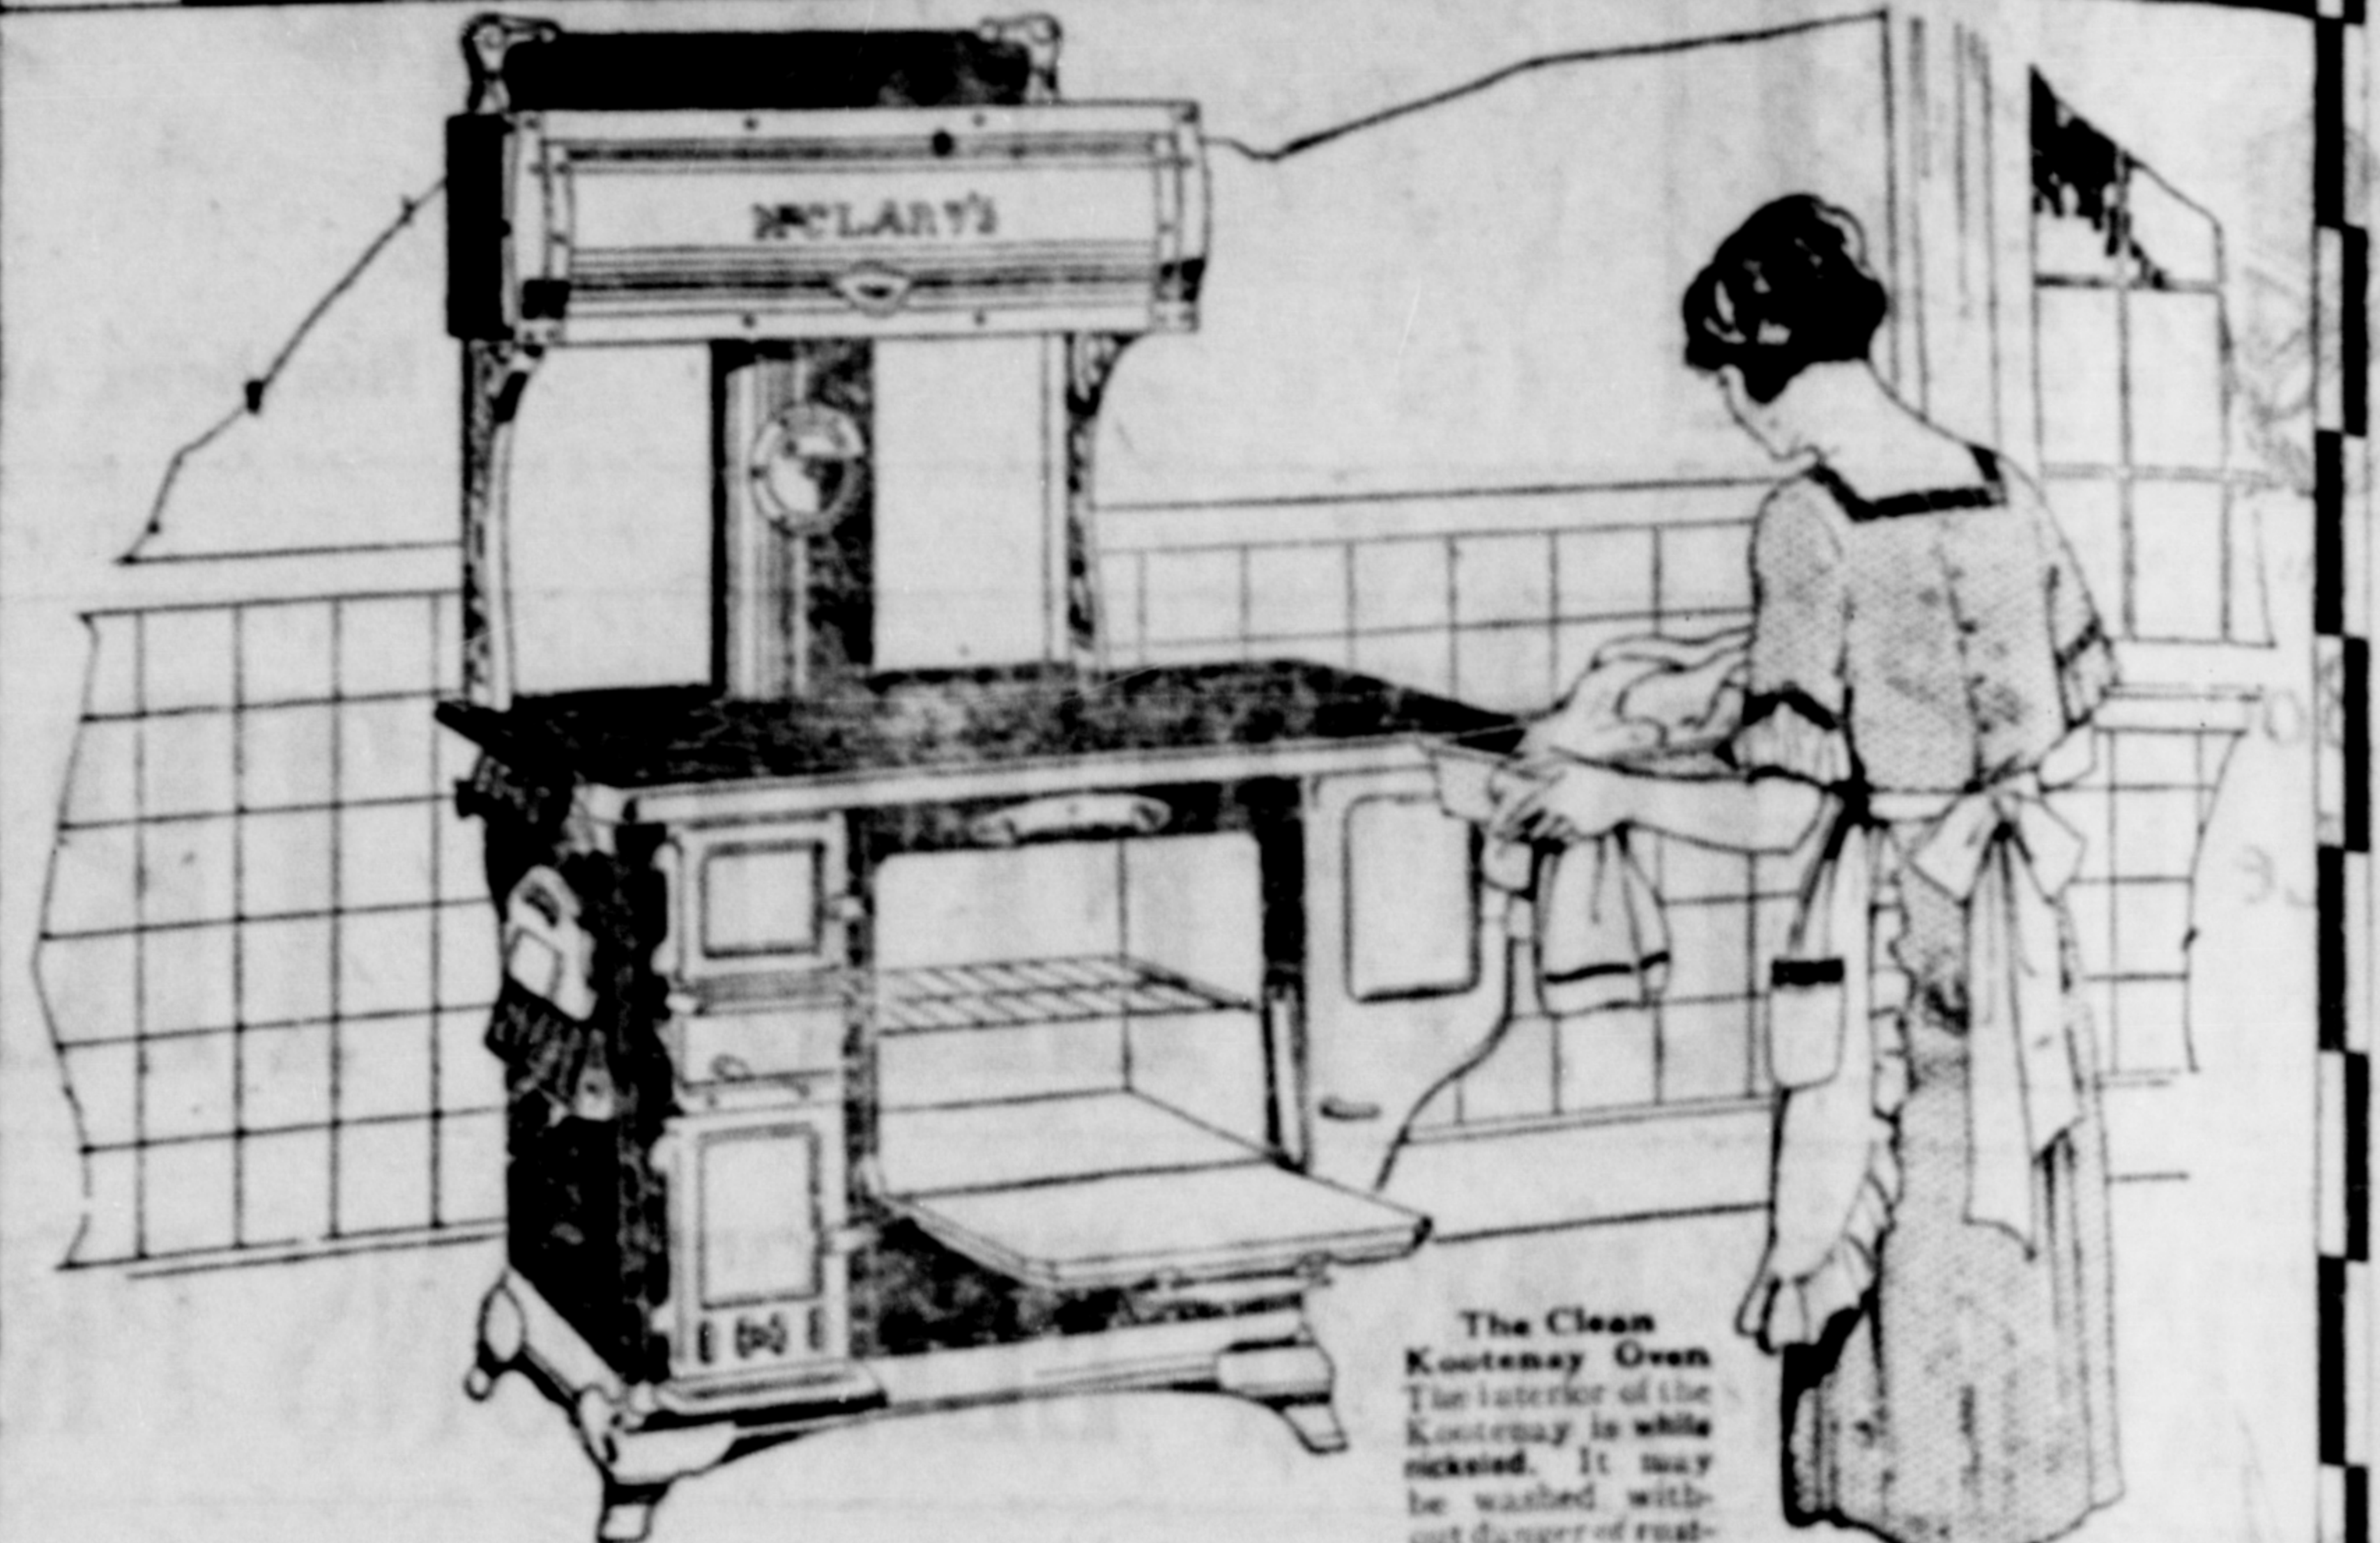

So finely did Florence Vidor interpret the role of the unhappy Carol Kennicott that it is difficult to try to visualize any other actress in this role. Another player could not have given it the many nuances of feeling, the fine characterization, the thousand and one touches that make the role live vividly. Carol Kennicott is a decided creation.

The story, very briefly, is of Carol Kennicott, brought to Gopher Prairie by her husband, the worthy Doctor Kennicott. She rebels against what she considers the narrowness and lack of culture in the small town; she wants to revolutionize it in a short time. But the inhabitants are easy-going and phlegmatic; they don't like being shaken out of their old ruts. The climax is fascinatingly worked out.

Main Street is to be shown here at the week end.

The illustration shows an interesting test you should try in your own kitchen. It proves the superiority of good enameled ware for cooking purposes. Take an SMP Enamelled Ware Sauce Pan, and a sauce pan of equal size made of aluminum, tin or other metal. Into each pour a quart of cold water. Set both sauce pans over the fire. The water in the SMP Enamelled Ware Sauce Pan will be boiling merrily in about five minutes, while the water in the all-metal sauce pan will come to the boil in about eight minutes—three minutes longer. Save fuel in cooking. Use
