Conspirators Charged with an Attempt To Corrupt Prohibition Enforcement Agents in States

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—The arrest of eleven conspirators, who had a fund of $80,000 with which they were proceeding to corrupt prohibition enforcement officers, marks the opening of the Federal Government's new drive against bootleggers and saloons and brewers in New York and New Jersey.

One enforcement officer confessed that he had received $4,500 weekly as a bribe to permit wholesale violation of the Volstead Act. Forty-five cases of saloon keeping have been placed on the charge list sheets for this morning and many new developments are expected.

Salmon Traps Operated During Closed Hours in Alaska Bring Punishment

SEATTLE, Oct. 19.—Trapping salmon in Alaskan waters during forbidden hours last summer cost the Pacific American Fisheries Co. and three of its employees $1,550 in fines in the federal courts here today.

These are said to be the first prosecutions under the new ruling which makes it a misdemeanor to operate traps between 6 p.m. on Sunday and 6 a.m. Monday.

NEW OFFICERS OF TRUSTEES

Convention at Duncan Closes After Asking for Educational Survey

WEAK SPOT IN EDUCATION Lady Heads Association for Coming Year and a Lady on Executive

DUNCAN, Oct. 19.—Mrs. E. A. Ross of Nelson was elected president of the British Columbia school trustees association at the closing of its annual convention here yesterday. The full list of officers was as follows:

President, Mrs. E. A. Ross, Nelson.

First Vice-Pres., F. H. Nicholson, Vancouver.

Second Vice-President, G. T. Smythe, Duncan.

Sec.-Treas., J. E. Wilton, Point Grey.

Executive: Dr. Richard Helton, Sooke; George A. Grant, Burnaby; and Mrs. Sheppard, Richmond.

Kamloops was chosen as the next meeting place a year from now.

A resolution providing for an educational survey of the province was adopted with only seven delegates dissenting. Dr. J. D. McLean had already promised that such a survey would be made if there was a sufficient demand for it.

The retiring president, Joseph Harwood, made an appeal on behalf of 480 schoolboards in unorganized districts which were not represented in the association. He said the single teacher schools were the weak spot in the educational system in this province. There was need for a branch association and Mr. Harwood stressed the fact that in the prairie provinces the Government paid salaries for organizing trustees. He thought the executive should approach the Government for assistance for this object.

DRUG DELIVERED TO WRONG PLACE

Sergeant McGlinchey Effects Arrest of Opium Bearing Oriental in Police Station

There's many a slip twixt cup and the lip and even the cummingswiles of the Beathan Chinese sometimes do not work out the way intended.

For instance—one, giving the name of Lucy Young, entered the police station last evening carrying a coat for another. Mee Chong, who was about to sail for New Westminster under escort to do two years for breaking and entering. Sergeant McGlinchey searched the coat and found an inside pocket alongside of some tobacco, a small package of prepared opium apparently meant for the dreamy purposes of Mee Chong during his long sojourn in the pen.

Lucy Young was placed under arrest and was charged in the police court this morning with having drugs in his possession. The case was remanded until tomorrow.

Was Not Drunk But Had a Fit

Staggering Man Does Not Necessarily Mean Intoxication, Police Find

Things are not always what they seem and because a man happens to stagger and collapse on the street does not necessarily mean that he is intoxicated. A story from the police court proves it.

Yesterday morning no less than three persons phoned in from Third Avenue complaining of a drunken man being on the street.

Constable Macdonald was despatched to the scene but, when he arrived, the alleged drunk had been removed in a taxi.

Later in the afternoon, J. Daney called at the police station stating that he had had a fit on the street and had become unconscious. He had lost a pair of shoes which he was taking to a cobbler. Chief Wickers questioned Daney and found he was the same man who had supposedly been intoxicated. He directed Daney to William Haynor, the taxi man, and there the missing shoes were found.

Lapointe Enunciates Government Attitude Regarding this Port

"Prince Rupert is naturally interested in the future of the Canadian National Railways. There have been many changes since it was built. First came the war and then the government took over the operation of the Grand Trunk Pacific and other systems. Consequently there were changes from the original plans. Let me tell you, however, that those who supported the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway and those who know the views taken then with regard to the city of Prince Rupert as its terminal will always see with a great deal of sympathy anything that is undertaken for the betterment and development of this city," declared Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of marine and fisheries in the course of his address at the luncheon given yesterday afternoon by the Prince Rupert Board of Trade at the St. Regis Cafe in his honor.

E. C. Gibbons, president of the Board of Trade, briefly welcomed Hon. Mr. Lapointe and his secretary, Mr. Langlois, and thanked the Rotary Club for waiving their prior claim to the banquet hall for the occasion of the gathering. He then called upon Fred Stork, M.P., to introduce the guest of honor.

Fred Stork, M.P.

Mr. Stork said it was always a pleasure to welcome members of the federal cabinet to Prince Rupert but it was an exceptional favor to welcome Mr. Lapointe, whose portfolio was of such importance to the city. People in Prince Rupert had observed a great phenomenon like that of the tide. It could be said that the city had witnessed a great rising of the tide in 1908 or 1909. Due to the war and other conditions, the tide had commenced to recede and it had gone so far that there was nothing in sight but mud flats. Go-incidentally, however, with the visit of Mr. Lapointe a new condition seemed to be approaching and everyone believed that a turn and rise of the tide had commenced. The people of Prince Rupert all had hope and faith in the future of the city but they must do something for themselves to ensure their not being left on the mud flats. The minister of marine and fisheries had much to do with the port and in him the citizens believed they had a sterling and true friend.

He had no hesitation in calling upon him to see that Northern British Columbia and Prince Rupert received what was its just and true dues.

Political Aims

In opening his address, Mr. Lapointe thanked Mr. Stork for the kind words—perhaps altogether too kind—that he had spoken. It was a pleasure for him to be here and he was especially glad if it corresponded with the rising tide for the city as had been described by Mr. Stork. He was pleased to meet the business men of Prince Rupert. It seemed to him that men in public and business life often lived too far apart from each other and it would be better if they exchanged views more frequently. Politicians as a rule were animated with a spirit of democratic justice and a keen desire to reform which did not always mean innovation. As a rule they wished to do what was fair and just and they could always gain by submitting their views to the crude world.

"Canadian business and industry has passed the stage of experiment," said the speaker. "The
