And he couldn't tell it

This one came from First avenue in Kitsilano. A woman who has used Pacific Milk for cooking almost since it came on the market, has made it a point to have fresh cream to serve guests when any are with her. On Sunday some folks came without warning and she had no cream, but served Pacific, diluted with water. She told them it was canned milk. They smelled it, tasted it and decided the lady was joking. And the folks don't like canned milk, either. It only goes to show what prejudice does.
