Had an Awful Cold & Cough was confined to bed

Some coughs and colds seem hard to shake off—stick right to you in spite of all you do to get rid of them. These are the kind that are dangerous—the kind that weakens the lungs so that the germs of consumption find a ready foothold. Obsolete coughs and colds yield to the grateful soothing properties of

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

It soothes and heals the irritated lungs and bronchial tubes, cuts the phlegm, and aids nature clear away the morbid accumulations. Mrs. Geo. D. Langdale, Barton, N. S., writes:—"In the year of 1920 I was taken with an awful cold and cough, and was confined to my bed for some time. I thought I was going into consumption. I commenced to use Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and found it to be an excellent remedy. I can highly recommend it to every sufferer from coughs and colds." Price 35c and 60c; put up only by The T. PHOTOGRAPH DRUNKS TO SHAME THEM SOBER

Des Moines Chief of Police is Starting Art Gallery of Inebriates

DES MOINES, Ia., Jan. 23.—Chief of Police John B. Hammond has started a new art gallery. It is composed of photographs of the drunks who are brought to the city hoosegow. The subjects are photographed while in an inebriated condition, and, the following morning they are compelled to gaze with cold, sober eyes upon the spectacle which they presented the previous night. The police chief believes his novel plan will serve to discourage those who persist in ignoring the tribunes of the Volstead law.

PROHIBITION IS PREDICTED

Man Who Beat Churchill Says Steps Being Taken to Force Issue in Britain

LONDON, Jan. 24.—By Associated Press. — Great Britain's one Prohibitionist member of parliament, Edwin Scrymgeour, now universally known as "the man who beat Churchill," today predicted that in the next general election, assuming it will be five years hence, the cause which he represents will sweep the country. This sanguine prophecy was made by Dundee's newly-elected dry champion soon after his maiden speech in the House of Commons, not in the tones of a dreamer flushed with his first, deliberate victory, but in the cool, thorough manner of a man who thoroughly believes he knows the workings of practical politics.

The Scotchman
Mr. Scrymgeour made his statement to a representative of Associated Press. He is a kind-faced Scotchman, slightly bald, and apparently about fifty-five years of age. His rather large though well-formed lips bespeak his kind manner, although there is a definite suggestion of firmness in the long, drooping gray moustache which covers his upper lip. Ernest unpretentiousness in his general appearance. Glad in an ordinary uncreased Scotch tweed business suit, with a large watch chain stretched across his breast, from which a well-worn crucifix is suspended, Mr. Scrymgeour at once gives the impression that ostentation is certainly one characteristic entirely alien to his nature.

"America has been intensely interested in your victory," said the correspondent, grasping the large, rough hand of the Scotchman.

"So I hear," he replied in an unmistakable Scotch accent.

"On what basis do you predict a dry victory in the next general election?" asked the correspondent.

Bring Pressure
"Well, in the first place," he answered, "since my election I have received every day a stack of letters that high—and measured with his hands held up to his waist—"congratulating me on my victory. The writers of virtually all these letters say they are going to bring pressure to bear on the members from their several constituencies to support the bill I intend to introduce. If that does not work the people of this country at the next election, taking a lesson from Dundee, are going to nominate avowed prohibitionists, and my prediction is that there will be enough elected to force a prohibition bill through Commons."

"The people of this country are learning that it's no good supporting temperance candidates on the promise to do anything to stop, or even regulate, the liquor traffic. We don't want temperance; it never amounts to anything. What we want is absolute eradication, and no other program will satisfy us."

Antagonizing States
"We may not be able to pass a bill through this House, but we're going to make a start. One of the first things I intend to do is to draw the attention of the government to the fact that, regardless of the rightness or wrongness of prohibition, we are antagonizing a friendly country, the United States, by countenancing the shipping of vast quantities of liquor to the Bahamas and other British islands off the Atlantic coast, which we know is intended for smuggling into America. It's ridiculous to imagine that the account of liquor now going to these places is only sufficient for British inhabitants. The recent correspondence between Mr. Hughes and Ambassador Geddes clearly indicates that we must be careful not, even tacitly, to interfere with the enforcement of the laws of a friendly country."

Storm of Protest
"When Mr. Johnson—Mr. Scrymgeour avoided the word Pussycot—"came here there was a storm of protest against his alleged interference with the affairs of this country. Well, the same argument should hold true in our attitude toward the enforcement of prohibition in the United States. Of course, however, we prohibitionists know Mr. Johnson did not interfere with the affairs of this country. He merely came, at our invitation, to tell us what had been done in the United States and to let us draw our own conclusions. It has been alleged that the Anti-Saloon League has been helping us in the cause of prohibition. Of course that is not true. The Anti-Saloon League has not given us one penny, and we don't expect any material support from any American organization. We are quite able to do the thing ourselves, although certainly we shall welcome moral support from whatever source.
