JUDGING from appearance an impartial witness would say that some of the nurses at the graduating exercises last night would not remain in the profession long.

AS Jake remarked: Some of them certainly are good lookers.

MOTHER uses cold cream
Father uses lather
My girl uses face powder
At least that's what I gather

THIS is a good time of the year to reduce. Increase the outdoor exercise and let up on the knife and fork stunts.

ONE question agitating the public mind is whether the small town is just as bad as the modern novelists paint it. Take Prince Rupert as a prominent example. Let's see, am I for or against?

JAKE says that a Methodist conscience combined with a cabaret soul do not make a very good combination.

IT is surprising how many methods there are of prying a dollar from the unwary in a small town. In a big town, now, there are twice as many.

IF Goug had succeeded what a horrible condition it would have been for the doctors including the well known Dr. Price, to face. Also what would have been the use of graduating exercises for nurses.

NOW that we are all optimists together once more, what about a little steady work for a change.
