Discourage them all you please, but folks who are fond of you will buy you something for Christmas. But they'd like to be sure that it was something you would like and could use. They have a suspicion that with times the way they are, you probably would welcome things to wear.

Here's how you can help them out, and do yourself a good turn too. Check off on this list some articles you could put to good use, what sizes you take, color préserence, etc., then see that some of the family get hold of it. They'll do the rest.

Your folks know that at Bryant's they get good standard brands of apparel that will "stand by you" at most reasonable prices; that necessary after-Christmas exchanges are cheerfully made; that we have a twenty-one year reputation for fair dealing to maintain, year in and year out.
