TELLS ABOUT EARLY LIFF OF A. M. MANSON

Syndicated Feature Page Newspapers Contains Brief Biography of Attorney General

In a syndicated page entitled 'A Page About People," used by newspapers in different cities of Canada, is a brief biography of the Attorney General, Hon. A. M. Manson of this city. The sketch

Anyone who was around University College, Toronto, in the exciting days of the "Lit" elections ten or fifteen years ago will readily understand the rapid rise to power of Canada's youngest attorney general, the Hon. Alexander Malcolm, Manson of British Columbia.

Manson was always in a hurry, and from the first registration of til the votes were all in at four or five a.m., on the day after the elections, he was the organizing genius of the "Old Lit" party. The cartoonist in his graduating year book has pictured him grinding out scores of "freshies" through the "machine," ably supported by class mates now prominent in other spheres, and very much to the dismay of "Unionist" leaders, who see their finish as a result of his activity. Manson's college biographer adds: "Though he pays more attention to practical politics than May suffices to put him in first-

GENERAL MCRAE AND INCOME TAX PAYMENT

Victoria Times Suggests That it is Hardly in Line With High Standard of Morality

General McRae and his ridicuous income tax returns are the subject of comment in various provincial newspapers. The Victoria Times says:

night Mr. Manson recited a few details about General A. D. Mc-Rae's income tax payments during the last year or so. He felt it desirous to do so in view of the general attitude of the leader of the Provincial Party. In fact the attorney general failed to understand why the general should have paid only $18.00 in income tax last year when he had spent $25,000 on the upkeep of his Shaughnessy Heights home and had contributed nearly $40,000 the funds of the organization of which he is the head.

This is what McRae has to say

"If I have not paid my provin-| | cial income tax, then the govern- | ment has been very derelict in its duty. It should lose no opportunity to attend to this mat-

In view of the foregoing if would seem pertinent to ask General McRae if he considers any on the floor of the house, while argue that it is the duty of the tigate every taxpayer on the as-Sumption that some "error" had asked because the leader of th Provincial Party has claimed a high standard of morality a public honesty to buttress his appeal for the votes of the people at the next election. But it is the duty of the governmen to follow his formula it might also be permitted to ask how he would justify the additional cost of administration that such process would entail.
