Not Good Form Of Vancouver City.

It is not very good form of Vancouver to make any objection to sending delegates to Prince Rupert to take part in the convention of B.C. Municipalities. Vancouver gets more out of this city than any other place and many think they get much more than is right and proper. At any rate it is not in the best interests of that city to put anything in the way of Prince Rupert. This city has a distinct destiny and any pettiness on the part of the big commercial city in southern British Columbia will only react against her and will not injure us. As the minister of lands stated in Victoria, the time to make any objection to the holding of the municipal convention here was when it was proposed at the last convention.

Real Reason Is Matter Of Finance.

It is understood that the real reason for the refusal of Vancouver to send delegates to Prince Rupert is the fact that she has to pay an assessment based on population, a new arrangement to which she takes strong objection. If the convention was held there, the city would not object to paying, but to send seven thousand dollars to Prince Rupert would be a terrible thing. Not that the money would be spent here. The thing is that Prince Rupert gets any benefit which may happen to accrue from the holding of the convention while Vancouver gets nothing. As getting is her chief occupation and giving is not in her line, the big baby city is peeved.

Preparations For Guests Reception.

Preparations are being made for the reception of the guests and in this case as in all others Prince Rupert will not be backward in making it worth while for the visitors to come here. One day will be given up to the work of the convention and the rest of the time will be devoted to pleasure. Naturally the visitors will have to see Prince Rupert and this will be well taken care of. Acting Mayor Collart is busy on the job and it is sure that nothing will be neglected.

Look At Home For Investments.

The following editorial article in the Ketchikan Chronicle applies equally to Prince Rupert: "Every once in a while Ketchikan is visited by stock or bond salesmen who have wonderful propositions for the people of the North. The people with a little money usually buy, although it is not yet on record that one cent ever invested by Alaskans in any project being pushed by stock salesmen came back home again. Thousands of dollars have been turned over to these gentlemen who sell stock but none of the ventures ever turned out well. "Will experience not teach? If you have money to invest, put it into real estate in Ketchikan, or a fish boat, or a trap or a fox farm or a mining prospect. In these ventures you always have a chance. Many of these investments here have turned out well, while none of those offered by the stock salesmen have ever materialized. "Make your money in Ketchikan and spend it at home. The buyers of fly-by-night stock never get rich. Those who invest well in their home town and go ahead with it usually have a fair-sized bankroll."

Young Boy Hurt Bathing At Lake.

Mrs. W. Brass mentioned to the Daily News yesterday that her little boy, three years of age, had cut his knee badly on a rock when bathing at the Salt Lake. A lady also cut her foot on a bottle which seems to have been thrown in the water. There have been others hurt themselves on the rocks and some gallant rescues have saved further and probably fatal accidents. This it would seem should be warning enough to citizens to make them take some action with a view to improving conditions there. With no caretaker on hand the dressing rooms become unpleasantly unclean and there is always danger that young lives may be lost from lack of life saving apparatus. If the citizens would only make up their minds to act the condition could be remedied Collart is busy on the job and it

EFFORTS TO SAVE FISHERMAN WHO WAS DROWNED IN ALASKA

Further particulars of the drowning of John Wick, a member of the crew of the fishing boat Chatham, near Port Walter last week, have just come to hand. While helping the men to put out the purse-net, Wick got caught in the net and was pulled down in eighteen fathoms of water. Antone M. Nelson saw him go overboard and held on to him until he also was nearly dragged overboard. The men succeeded in getting Wick out of the water within five minutes and having disentangled him from the net, administered first aid to him. They worked over him for two or three hours without avail. His nose was bleeding when he was taken from the water and his face was blue. They got back to Port Walter at 9 p.m., where M. D. Jarvis, the first aid man for the company took charge of the body. The Ajax took Wick's body to Ketchikan from where it was shipped to Seattle on the Northwestern.

TELLS OF WORK SALVATION ARMY

Col. McLean, of Winnipeg, Gave Interesting Address in Local Citadel Last Evening

After having had a most successful tour down the interior which culminated in a meeting at Port Essington where almost a thousand Indians turned out, Col. McLean, secretary of social service for the Salvation Army in Western Canada with headquarters in Winnipeg, reached the city on last night's train accompanied by Staff Captain Jaynes, of Wrangell. Col. McLean spoke at a street meeting last evening after which he gave an address to a large crowd in the local citadel. He told of the work of the Salvation Army in the underworld of the great cities and also of its activities in the jails and penitentiaries. He said that during the past year 70 prisoners had been released from jail and turned over to the Salvation Army. Only one of these seventy had returned to jail; the rest had reformed and were leading clean and useful lives. The Army also devoted much effort to the locating of missing people. There were 3,000 such people on the books last year and 200 had been located through the arm of the organization. The Army did its work in such a way that fugitives had nothing to fear in being found. Rescue work among all classes of people was also an important factor in the work of the Salvation Army. Staff Captain Jaynes presided over the meeting and among those on the platform were Capt. Coleman, Mrs. Coleman, Archdeacon G. A. Bix, Rev. Dr. R. B. Grant, Robert McFarlane, missionary from Terrace, and Rev. J. J. Smithson, Archdeacon Rix closed the meeting with prayer. Col. McLean sailed for Vancouver on the Prince Rupert last night and Staff Captain Jaynes is remaining in the city until the next boat for Wrangell.

The Man in the Moon SAYS--

OFTEN girls do not know they are disappointed in love until some time after the wedding.

HOW can you expect a girl who is wearing fine silk stockings not to show them.

WHEN a man has had a real dinner he feels that perhaps women are some little good in the world after all. That is especially true if he has been living where there is a slant eyed cook.

WHEN a lady goes fishing and catches nothing but a sunburn she is somewhat disappointed, especially if she freckles easily.

IT is wonderful what an ordinary stomach with a picnic tramping can digest.

IT is rumored that a new organization is to be formed to teach stenographers how to write letters. We bet they will never succeed.

A RADICAL is a person who uses his brains as a parking place for queer ideas and his tongue has a self starter without any safety catch.

WHY is it nightgowns are never worn out? Why, because it is not good form to go that way.

WHAT I object to in some of my friends is that they always want to be talking about themselves when I want to be talking about myself.

THE person who talks about bankers hours has never peeped in through the windows of one of those financial institutions at the beginning of the month when the light is burning there at midnight.

YOU may have heard of the boy who ran errands for a penny. That was a very long time ago.

"I DON'T know how long I shall be able to stand the strain," said the frail shoulder strap to the evening gown.

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

The Empress Theatre was crowded to capacity last night at the meeting called to discuss the present municipal situation. Those on the platform were Mayor Pattullo, Ald. Naden, Ald. Dybbavn, Ald. Leek, Ald. McGaffrey, ex-Ald. Montgomery, William Manson, M.P.P., Arthur Cuthbert and Ex-Mayor Newton.

Hon. J. D. Hazen, minister of marine and fisheries, who has just completed a tour along the northern coast, expresses himself as greatly impressed by the magnificent scenery and surprised that more people do not visit this section.

The name of Miss Annie J. Wilson of the Prince Rupert school teaching staff is contained in the list of those missing from the State of California wreck.
