boy in a big hotel, MacLean does some clever acting that gives a laugh a minute. In the scenes in which, as a bell-hop, he confronts and is recognized by his wealthy and irate uncle, the fun is hilarious.

Using one of San Francisco's biggest hotels as a background, the picture tells a story of modern hotel life from the original viewpoint of the bell-hop. With laughs and thrills and a pleasing love interest besides, the farce is said to be one of the funniest yet screened.

MONTE CARLO LIFE
IN "FOOLISH WIVES"

Spectacular Social Play to be Seen at Westholme Theatre
This Week End

"Foolish Wives," to be shown at the Westholme Theatre at the end of this week, is a pictorial presentation of modern life at Monte Carlo. The central figure is a moral leper whose sole object in life is to conquer women. The story weaves a net of intrigue about the wife of an American envoy and cultivates several liaisons on the side. The villain eventually meets a violent death on account of his beastly conduct. Magnificent settings feature the show.
