MANUFACTURE LUMBER HERE

That is Policy of Provincial Government Says Hon T. D. Pattullo

Hon. T. D. Pattullo, minister of lands, today replied to the attack made on him and his department with which Joshua Hinckle, M.P.P., opened the Fall season of political activities this week says the Victoria Times in a recent issue.

The attack centred on the export of manufactured lumber from this province and he asserted that $1,000,000 a year was being lost to the people of the Province because of these exports.

Mr. Pattullo said that the attack was undoubtedly designed to lead the public to believe that export was being allowed which should not be allowed, and as a consequence B.C. was losing the benefit of manufacture that could take place within the confines of the province.

"I have repeatedly stated that the policy of the government is that manufacture shall take place within the province," Mr. Pattullo said. "I have also pointed out, and now reiterate, that with regard to export operations which have taken place from Crown granted lands there is no provincial authority to prohibit Crown Granted Timber."

The only export that has been allowed from licensed areas are the minor products from major operation, for which there is no local market.

"For the year ending 1922, the total export of unmanufactured logs was approximately 151,518,721 feet. Of this amount approximately 103,000,000 feet was from Crown granted lands, which the Province had no power to stop, and only 48,000,000 feet from licensed areas. The total cut in the Province last year was approximately 2,000,000,000 feet so that out of a total of 2,000,000,000 feet only 48,000,000 feet was exported under permit, and permit was only given covering this amount because of the fact that the amount constitutes a surplus from operations for which there was no market."

Edward Stanley, Naas River Indian, was fined $50 and costs in Indian Agent Collison's court yesterday afternoon for having native hew in his possession at Prince Rupert cannery. He was arrested by Dominion Constable Watkinson.

Many buildings in Germany which prior to 1914 were used for making implements of war ammunition or devoted to turning out supplies for the army, are now manufacturing sporting articles for the various games which are more popular today than at any other time in Germany's history. The craze for outdoor sports has reached proportions never dreamed of in pre-war days. The sport rage is attributed to the campaign launched in 1919 for the amusement of the thousands of young men who in former times spent years in Germany's big army. Today the newspapers devote pages and sections exclusively to sports and there are many sporting journals in Berlin and other cities. Tennis is played extensively but football has made such rapid strides that even the experts cannot account for its growing popularity. It is probably the most popular game in Germany today.

The French are very proud of the development of tennis in France of recent years. There were 18,720 players entered and 14,123 actually took part in the popular tennis tournaments organized throughout France during the season just closed. Several promising youngsters were uncovered who, with a few years more practice, may develop into Davis Cup timber. It is pointed out that for the Davis Cup matches in 1921, 1922 and 1923 the French put on the courts an entirely different team each year. It is common saying in France that, if the Davis Cup matches were played six men to a side, French tennis would have a chance.

There is a lull in the pugilistic world these days and it appears that there is to be little doing for the various champions until spring. There are a few minor affairs coming off in the heavyweight class but they are not drawing very much attention as all the rivals of Jack Dempsey have been pretty well tried out during the past season. While the end of 1923 sees Dempsey pretty well established with the heavyweight crown, there is a growing conviction, due to the way the Gibbons and Firpo fights went, that he may be weakening and that next year may possibly see a new champion. Gibbons, at least, through his showing at Shelby in July, is entitled to another try and he will probably get it in 1924.
