Entrance Results Credit To City.

Not only did a very high percentage of candidates pass their MANY PASSENGERS ON entrance examinations in Prince Rupert this year but several individual students made uniformly high marks. This testifies to the efficiency of the work performed by the teaching staffnot only by those who were in charge of the Entrance candidates Two this year but by those who in past years were responsible for the elementary work. From general totals to hand it is apparent that the local passelist was on the whole considerably higher than the general standard of the province and this when all students here, on the decision of the School Board, were required to pass the strict government tests instead of gaining promotion on the recommendation of the teachers.

Superintendent Campbell and his staff are deserving of put on to accommodate the overcongratulation and it is only to be regretted that the services of flow from the regular Friday FRANCES NICKAWA the former have been lost to the city with his decision to go equipment, the train which pulled FRANCES NICKAWA south. The School Board will have a difficult task in finding his equal to succeed him.

Transpacific Passenger Business The Next.

Prince Rupert is now established as a shipping point for lumber to the Orient. Two boats have loaded here already and Prince Rupert from the south and indications are that more will continue to come steadify. transpacific freight businss will increase steadily from now on, it is reasonable to expect. The next business will be that of carrying passengers for which Prince Rupert certainly has all the necessary requirements. This port is the terminus of the Canadian National transcontinental railway by which passengers can arrive from or leave for the East. The Canadian Government Merchant Marine boats which call here monthly have accommodation for a few passengers. In order to get a speedier passage to the Orient than was possible out of Vancouver this week, a passenger came from the south to board the Canadian Highlander for Shanghai on Thursday. While these boats carry passengers only on a small scale, it is to be expected that sooner or later provision will be made for the carrying of large numbers of transpacific passengers from this port.

The possibilities are great and their proof is practically complete. Few people really realize the importance of the mining industry in the district contiguous to Prince Rupert.
