Muzz Patrick and Mac
Colville Reminiscence

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER — Away out here on Canada's west coast where men are men and more fragile Easterners watch enviously from the sidelines, Clancy (News-Herald) Loranger—a 110 pounder who just manages to reach the five-foot-five mark by standing on his toes—recites the following tale of a typical far west "hot stove league" session:

"A bunch of us he-men were whoopin' it up, twisting wrists, Indian wrestling and spitting on the floor—you know us he-men—and when we finally tired of sport, we got to talking. He-men talk, of course.

"The subject strangely enough was he-men we have known.

"When we had exhausted the subject—and our listeners—of our own prowess of splitting doors with our fists and chewing nails and spitting rust, the talk drifted toward the sport world.

"The first plug for a good example of rampant muscle went to Muzz Patrick of the Victoria Patriatics. Mac Colville seconded the motion and whipped in with an anecdote about their days together on the New York Rangers.

"Colville (now coaching Vancouver Canucks in the Pacific Coast Hockey League) recalled a game in which Rangers were playing Boston Bruins and there was a scuffle in the corner.

"Eddie Shore, a citizen who was never known to run away from a brawl, was upholding Boston's end, and Muzz was the party of the second part. The fight didn't last long. Patrick swung once, and Shore skated out of the corner holding his hands over his face. The punch had broken his nose.

"The talk drifted to football and how Greg Kakat took the starch out of Dean Griffing. The Calgary coach and ex-Regina Roughrider isn't exactly a lily himself, and, as a matter of fact, I understand he still prefers his meat raw.

"Kabat (ex-Winnipeg Blue Bomber and now football coach at University of British Columbia) and Griffing had been growling at each other for years and on this particular day Kabat decided he had to discourage Dean if his club was to do anything at all.

"So on every play Greg concentrated on Dean, putting everything he had into every block and every tackle—and incidentally walking on his face if said face happened to be in the right position.

"Finally, somewhere in the second half, Griffing had 'had it.'

"Nuts to you, Kabat,' he said, or something equally he-manish, 'I'm through, I'm getting out of here.'

"Yep, Kabat won that round, but Griffing got even in the next game. There was a pileup, then a howl from Kabat. Griffing had bitten a piece out of his leg."

"Yes, sir! Men are men—he-men—away out here in the west.

In The Basket...

Saturday evening President Art Murray will offer to the basketball fans a menu which should be something of a nice dish.

The curtain-raiser brings together 65 Taxi and Gyros. The Taximen will try and extend their lead at the expense of the clubmen—but, according to the latest report, the playground lads will be in there fighting from the opening whistle.

The second game between Fashion Footwear and Merchants should be a ding-dong battle. The Booters are out to try and get their first win.

This should be a very close game.

The Senior tilt will have Brownwoods and Co-op each trying to get their first win. Coach Angus McPhee had his team out the other evening and predicts he should defeat the shoe merchants by five or six points but, Alex Bill is quite confident that his squad will have a walk over.

The prediction is that the Cabbies will defeat the clubmen. Fashion Footwear should win by a close score over Merchants. Co-op should beat Brownwoods.

SHORT SPORT

Jack Chesbro, one of baseball's leading spitball pitchers, died at Conway, Mass., 16 years ago today. He led National League pitchers in 1901 and 1902 while with Pittsburgh, and in 1904 hung up an all-time record for games won with 41, while playing with the New York Yankees.

Gaye Stewart of Toronto Maple Leafs and Jimmy Orlando of Detroit Red Wings were ordered by Frank Calder, National Hockey League president, to pay $100 to a war charity, five years ago, for their part in a fight in an N.H.L. fixture at Toronto.

SPEAKS ON EDUCATION

"Education Week" was explained to Prince Rupert Rotarians Thursday afternoon by R. D. Cleland, vice principal of Booth Memorial High School, in an address which outlined the complex approach to the single aim of education—enlightened citizenship.

Mr. Cleland said that developments in science are causing constant shifting in educational methods and that the conception of "Education Week" is based on the desirability of keeping those outside the profession posted on the changes.

He outlined the educational methods used at Booth High School which, he said, is abreast of the present-day approach to secondary school education.

Mr. Cleland was thanked for his address by Club president Lee Gordon. Guests at the luncheon were Major Grant, Vancouver; TERRACE — On Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in St. Matthew's Anglican Church, marriage vows were exchanged between Edna Agnes Toop, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Toop of Terrace and Robert Marshall Cooper, third son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Cooper, Forestry Warden of Terrace. The church had been decorated for the occasion with late fall flowers by Mrs. Bert West, Mrs. H. King and Mrs. Thomson.

FRANCOIS LAKE

Mrs. Phil Kelly brought a box of gifts of food from the Women's Christian Association at Southbank to go in the Women's Institute box for the London Hospital. Two boxes have been sent off recently.

It has been a rainy week and the roads are in poor condition, especially for the trucks hauling cattle and lumber.

A farewell dance for the Radleys was held on Saturday evening at Colleymount.

Timely Topics from Terrace

This being Education Week, the schools were open to the parents on Wednesday and the teaching staff report that quite a large number of parents visited the schools in the morning and afternoon.

Two inches of snow fell in Terrace during Tuesday night, but Wednesday's sun dispersed it. However, on Thursday morning there was just as much snow again.

John Hepburn travelled to Prince Rupert on Tuesday's train.

Mrs. Brackenbury and son Raymond returned on Tuesday after a couple of days spent in Smithers.

Hugo Kraupner of Prince Rupert arrived in Terrace on Monday on a business visit. H. Halliwell is taking over the Cleaners' Agency in Terrace.

Marguerite Paquette was a visitor to Prince Rupert on Tuesday.

C. L. M. Giggey drove to Prince Rupert on Wednesday morning making a beautiful setting for the lovely bride who was given in marriage by her father.

Attired in a floor length, short sleeved gown of white nylon satin, with peplum and a sweetheart neckline, and an embroidered net veil, pearls, the gift of the groom, were the bride's only ornament. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Her only attendant was Pat Tumilson in a floor length gown of ice blue Nylon, sweetheart-neckline, blue shoulder veil, held in place with a coronet of flowers. She carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds.

Alex Holden attended the groom and Ronnie Paulsen was usher.

Mrs. C. J. Norrington played the nuptial music at the organ. A quiet reception for relatives was later held at the home of the bride's parents where pictures were taken by Joe Feller of the bride cutting a beautiful three tiered wedding cake. The toast to the bride was proposed by Sid Cooper and to the bridesmaid by Rev. R. Hills. All the guests wore a nosegay of fresh roses from the garden of Mrs. Loen.

Later in the evening a dance was held in the Oddfellows Hall where friends of the young couple gathered to wish them happiness. Music for the dancing was provided by the local orchestra.
