GENIUS AT WORK ON ATOM RESEARCH-At the age of four, Raymond Schiff, of Pittsburgh, learned to play chess. While in High School, two years before the atomic bomb, he wrote an essay on the future of atomic energy. Today, at 21, he is working with scientists on nuclear experiments. He is shown here exercising his mental muscles at the target end of the giant atom-smasher in Pittsburgh. Schiff won one of the two top awards in the annual science talent search five years ago. Since then he has studied at Harvard under some of the nation's leading experts in atomic physics, and now ranks as one of the country's youngest nuclear physicists.

DONCASTER, England, (CP)—In the Yorkshire mining village of Grimethorpe, 132 men will meet tomorrow to make a decision vital to Britains chances of weathering the economic crisis. They are the men who a month ago went on strike when asked to hew an extra two feet of coal-face a shift in the Melton field seam at Grimethorpe and brought 70,000 other Yorkshire miners out in sympathy. The strike has already cost Britain 350,000 tons of coal and the daily loss, with winter approaching and another spectre of fuel shortage looming, is about 90,000 tons.

Missed the Bank-Cheque Uncashed

The new banking hours threw at least one man into a state of frustration today. Just a few minutes after eleven this morning an unidentified man rushed up to the bank door and, finding it locked, drew back and gazed at the drawn blinds in bewilderment. Stopping a passer-by the confused man asked how it was that the bank was closed at this hour of made but they didn't make the day. Explanations were the would-be bank customer any happier, he had a cheque that just had to be cashed.

Various Interpretations as to What British Foreign Secretary Meant

WASHINGTON D. C. C. New interpretations of what binest Bevin, British foreign secretary might have meant by his proposal for "redistribution of Fort Knox gold" have failed to thaw official American coldness toward the idea.

Some London sources said the Foreign Secretary's theory was that, by raising the dollar value of its big gold holdings, the United States could make "profit" which could be used in paying for aid to Europe without imposing additional burden on American taxpayers.

One Washingtn government analyist called this another invitation to make loans or gifts.

DOBBIN RIDES, NOT WALKS, UP THE AIRPLANE RAMP-With the use of the new ramp, which is based on the principle of the funicular railway system, a horse to be air-borne is secured before loading in a specially constructed box which remains level as it is hoisted up the ramp into the aircraft. Inside the hold of the Bristol freighter, a U. K. plane-large enough to carry five horses for 300 miles in this way—the box is fastened to special attachments in the floor. Loading completed, the ramp, weighing 250 pounds, quickly dismantles and is carried in the aircraft with the horses, to be used for unloading at the terminal point. Evolution of this design eliminates the use of heavy and unwieldy loading equipment which in the past has impeded large scale use of aircraft to carry racehorses. Carrying four horses, the aircraft can travel 500 miles.
