Fishermen Harpoon And Shoot Big Whale A party of fishermen of Lun

enburg, Nova Scotia, recently harpooned and shot a whale weighing a ton and a half after an hour's battle. With harpoon driven deep into its back, the whale kept on going for about | four miles and then began to weaken. In two 34-foot boats. the fishermen kept up and put 11 303 bullets and seven loads of shot into the mammal's head. Then it was towed home and cut

Good Luck Needed In Sockeye Fishing

"An experienced fisherman with a first-class outfit in a sea full of sockeye can starve to death if luck's against him," commented Capt. W. P. McMullin, skipper of the B.C. Packers' vessel Texada. Boats out since four in the morning, fishing all day with good gear and everything handled by experienced fishermen have been known to catch only a few dozen sockeye.

Kicked "Cow" But It Was Bear Instead

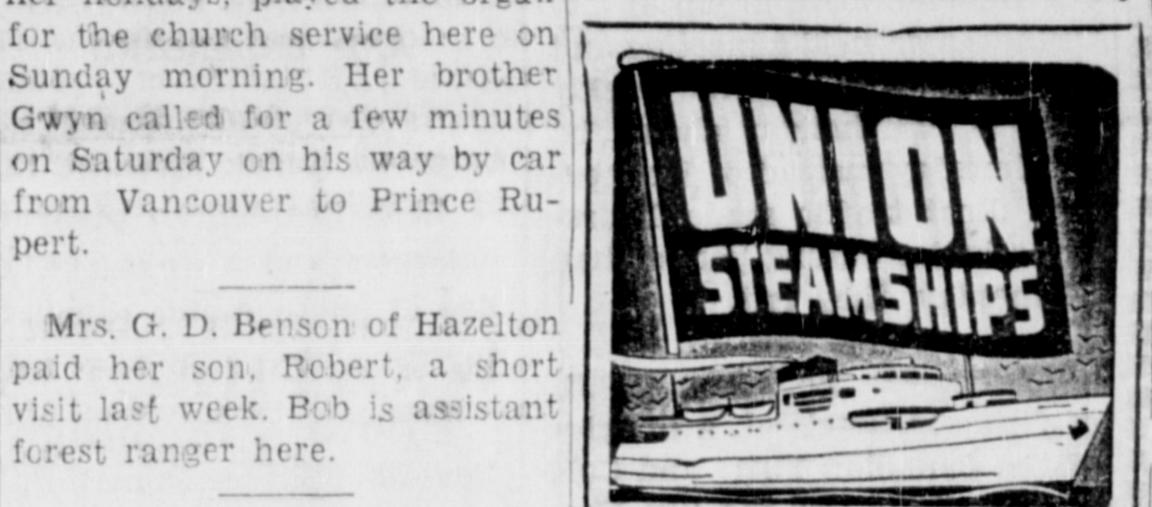

FRANCOIS LAKE-Dale Dun-IIII das had quite an experience on Friday morning when he went out in the fog to find the cows on the Deeder Ranch. He heard and Mrs. Lloyd Roberts who a cowbell and saw what he thought was a cow lying behind a stump, so he gave her a good ! kick. He was aghast to see her rise up on her hind legs and grunt, for he realized that it was a sleeping bear he had kicked. He retreated in haste. He thinks the bear had been sleeping near the cows for company.
