power his nervous speech defect. Behind him, calm, steady, was her grandmother, Queen Mary, to whom regal precedence, duty and devotion to a proud dynasty were all-important.

"The Bambino," as Queen Mary called Elizabeth, would have a good life. There would be cracking good family parties, outdoor trips, riding and friendly companionship.

From the first, the King and Queen were determined to have their daughter's life as free from clammy traditionalism as possible.

She had to be a natural child. And, the result, at 21, was a sturdy, vibrant young woman with a lot of her father's serious mien, but not at all lacking in her mother's sense of humor.

Although slow in appearing, her smile was broad and unaffected when it lit her face.

LOVED, LONDON

And it lit her face often in early life. Perhaps the atmosphere of the Bruton Street home of her maternal grandparents, the Earl and Countess of Strathmore, where she was born, had a lot to do with it.

Later, she and her parents moved to 145 Piccadilly, a bigger home with black doors and a large garden, where one could play and wave and chortle at the sightseers who insisted on peering through the iron railing.

Then, there were long trips to the country—Glamis in the Scottish Highlands, where younger sister Margaret was born in 1930. But smoky London always remained a place of adventure from the day "Grandpa" first sent a coach to take her driving through Kensington Gardens—and Queen Mary ordered an urban excursion.

Forbidden to have an automobile of her own, Elizabeth chalked up a personal triumph during the war by driving a military car through rush-hour traffic, twice around Piccadilly Circus. That marked her graduation from the Auxiliary Territorial School where she had been a member since her 18th birthday.

KNEW THE PEEOPLE

As is the case today, she knew London's teeming peoples, the rich and the poor. On VE-Day, 1945, she and Margaret stood with their parents on Buckingham Palace balcony, waving to the adulating crowds below.

This time, however, the tumult and rejoicing were too much. While the city went wild, she slipped away into the throng to get her first street-eye view of her tired but happy King and Queen.

Peace had again come to her island, and with it new demands, tedious tasks and sober responsibilities of an heiress called "Princess" by rights of royal birth, but lacking a title in peerage and rated a commoner by law.

Princess Elizabeth then seemed to blossom.

Early in 1947 she and Margaret Rose accompanied the King and Queen to South Africa. It was her first visit outside the British Isles and her first intimate contact with that Commonwealth whose destiny she would dedicate herself to at legal maturity.

PLEDGE OF FAITH

At Capetown she observed her 21st birthday with this pledge of faith to her Empire:

"There is a motto which has been borne by many of my ancestors—a noble motto—'I serve.' Those words were an inspiration to many bygone heirs to the throne when they made their knightly dedication as they came to manhood.

"I cannot do quite as they did, but through the inventions of science I can do what was not possible for any of them. I can make my solemn act of dedication with a whole Empire listening."

"I declare . . . all my life . . . shall be devoted to your service and the service of our great imperial family to which we all belong, but I shall not have the strength to carry out this resolution alone, unless you join in it with me . . . God help me to make good my vow, and God bless all of you who are willing to share it."

HOW CAN I ???
By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I clean gold-leaf signs?

A. If the letters of signs are laid with pure gold-leaf, and have become covered with soot or dirt, they can be cleaned by moistening a sponge with alcohol and rubbing lightly. Or, spirits of turpentine is effective.

Q. How can I remove discolorations from aluminum ware?

A. Fill the vessel with a cold weak solution of vinegar and water, about one tablespoon of vinegar to a quart of water, bring to a boil, and let boil five minutes.
