

SUGAR RISES, BUTTER DROPS

Removal of Controls Seen On Local Market

Released from price control and rationing on Monday, sugar has joined the parade of commodities on the march to higher price levels while butter, which has been subject to the law of supply and demand for a considerable time, dropped a cent a pound.

In some local stores, sugar advanced one cent a pound from the 10-cent level which it maintained throughout the war and the two immediate post-war years. White sugar is now 11 cents a pound and golden yellow 12 cents. The increase is expected to be general today or tomorrow.

Following a trend which has been more marked in Eastern Canada and on the prairies, butter has undergone a slight price reduction, dropping from 69 cents a pound to 68. Tendency on the part of this strategic commodity to go down in price leads some people to hope that this may indicate a general levelling-off of prices. However, there is the fact that its price is based on seasonal production. At the end of the summer, which is the grazing period for livestock, Canada's butter storage coolers are usually pretty well filled.

When housewives scan grocery store shelves for ingredients for their Christmas cakes, which many will be planning in the near future, they will find that there is considerable glazed fruit of high quality that was not available last year. While some glazed fruit was on the market all through the war, the shortage of sugar precluded the manufacture of many of the top quality lines. Now, many of these have returned.

Among these are glazed pineapple rings, which haven't been seen for years, as well as top quality mixed peels. Another article which will be welcomed on its return is the puffed, seeded muscat raisin, which has shown up at last. This has always been a favorite for baking and reaches its pinnacle of flavor in pies.

HOUSING SALE WILL BOOST VOTERS' LIST

Prince Rupert's 1947 civic voters' list will receive a substantial boost which will make the largest in the history of the city with the inclusion of the 340 names of purchasers of wartime houses who will be listed as owners.

The list carries the names of purchasers of 181 houses which were sold by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation prior to October 31. Of these, 159 were bought jointly by husband and wife, thus placing on the list the names of that many women who previously had no vote.

A number of men, City Clerk H. D. Thain believes, also failed to register as voters while they had the status of householder, even though they had paid their poll tax.

Of the 181 houses sold prior to October 31, 159 were sold to joint owners—in all cases husband and wife—and 22 were sold to single purchasers.

The voters' list is being prepared for publication on November 10, the date required by statute to make it available for public inspection for five days prior to the sitting of the court of revision on November 15.
