Outstanding Quality

PORTED DESPITE F.D.R. PROMISE—Dr. Karl von Kleczkowski, left, and his wife, Stella, two Austrians, who claimed they were promised sanctuary in the U.S. by the late President Roosevelt for aiding American military authorities during the war, are in New York talking with reporters just before they boarded an airplane for Venezuela in custody of immigration authorities. The couple were deported despite the testimony of George H. Erie, former governor of Pennsylvania, and ex-minister of Bulgaria, in their behalf. It was said that the Kleczkowskis had fled for the Nazis at one time under duress, then switched sides to the Allies.
