NAVY RESERVE ENTERTAINS U.S. SAILORS

Visiting crew members of the American destroyer John A. Bole, were guests last night of the Chief Petty Officers and men of H.M.C.S. Chatham at a dance in the navy drill hall while officers of the ship were entertained by the officers of the reserve division in Chatham ward room.

A crowd of 600 attended the dance which the visiting sailors described as one of the most enjoyable gestures of hospitality that they have experienced while in port. Music was provided by Andy McNaughton's Four Dukes orchestra.

The informal ward room entertainment was arranged by the officers of H.M.C.S. Chatham, with refreshments provided by the officers' wives. Guests included a number of civilians. The dancing began at 10 o'clock and lasted until after 2 a.m.
