Next Six Months May be Decisive For Democracy in Troubled Italy

ROME (AP)—Sovereign at last since her peace treaty became effective Sept. 15 now faces on her own the supreme test of her capacity for orderly self-government by democratic processes.

Wednesday Premier De Gasperi was called to account for his stewardship when left-winger Pietro Nenni's motion of no-confidence came up for debate in the constituent assembly. If he survives this test as seems likely, he must still look forward to turbulent times thereafter.

Events of the next six or seven months culminating in the election of the first National Assembly under the new constitution, may be decisive.

The outcome will be fateful not only for Italy, but for the world for this country along with Greece has become a political arena in which the giants of the east and west are testing their strength.

In Italy the Communists have their first opportunity to show whether they can win power constitutionally in a country not occupied by Russian troops Italy also may be virtually the last barrier to the spread of Soviet domination to the shores of the Atlantic. A Communist triumph here could create the condition for a similar advance in France which would place the hammer and sickle in the ascendant from Vladivostok to Bordeaux.

In Italy's internal struggle, the propagandists are Premier Alcide De Gasperi's christian democrats opposed by the leftist coalition of Communists and pro-Communist Socialists which De Gasperi ousted from his government four months ago.

The Christian democrat leader is waging his battle on two fronts. While he combats the Communist campaign to upset his government, he must fight also to save Italy from national bankruptcy.

Italy's dollar funds will be exhausted by Jan. 1 and so, too, will be her wheat supply. Beyond that date the government's main hope lies in emergency aid which might be provided by a special session of the United States Congress. The only alternative, apparently, is the possibility of aid from Russia's bumper wheat crop which conceivably might be offered on the political condition that the Communists be invited back into the government.

In the fierce political debate

AFTER POPE ADDRESSED RALLY—Pope Pius XII is shown just after he spoke before 50,000 delegates of the Italian convention of Men of Catholic Action in St. Peter's Square, Vatican City, Rome. The pontiff declared: "Time for reflection and planning is past. Now is the time for taking action."

ENGLISH PIANIST LECTURES, PLAYS AT CITY SCHOOLS

Dr. Leslie Grossmith, English pianist and composer, is appearing at the city's schools this week in a series of lectures and recitals which are proving popular among the children. Proceeds from the appearance, for which a small charge is being made, are turned over to a fund for British children.

With Dr. Grossmith is his French wife, who also lectures on her native language.

"I emphasize pronunciation," said Madame Grossmith, whose most obvious interest is her husband's musical artistry. "I do not try to tell them anything about grammar."

Dr. Grossmith is making two appearances at each school, lecturing the first day, and providing a recital the next. Today he is lecturing at King Edward elementary school. He has already appeared at Annunciation school, where both his lecture and recital were warmly received.

He plans to visit the other city schools next week.

Born in Birmingham, England, white-haired Dr. Grossmith has travelled the world as a concert and solo pianist. He also is a composer, having written an operetta and a grand opera, neither of which have yet been performed publicly.

His lectures have an inspirational quality as well as high entertainment value.

"I stress the value of good and consistent work," he said. "My advice to children is not to leave school until they have their final certificate."

Both Dr. and Madame Grossmith have been in Prince Rupert before—30 years ago.

"Prince Rupert has changed much since that time," Mrs. Grossmith said. "At that time the streets were plank roads and

Eastern Fishery Head Impressed By West Coast

Dr. S. A. Beatty, Director of the Atlantic Fisheries Station of the Fisheries Research Board of Canada, who has his headquarters in Halifax, arrived on the Prince Rupert yesterday from Vancouver accompanied by Mrs. Beatty and daughter Pat.

Dr. Neil Carter, who was for nine years head of the Biological station in Prince Rupert and now holds the same position on the Pacific Coast as Dr. Beatty does on the Atlantic, joined Dr. Beatty in Vancouver.

Although Dr. Beatty has held his present position for a number of years, this is the first time he has had the opportunity to visit the Pacific Coast. According to Dr. Carter, his eastern colleague is quite impressed with the various phases of the fishing industry on this coast and is quite convinced of its importance. He is also impressed with the fine weather Prince Rupert greeted him with, like many others he has heard that it rains in this area.

Dr. Carter showed the party around the local fisheries plants Wednesday. He accompanied them when they left by train for Vancouver last night. Dr. Carter will return to Vancouver from Jasper either directly by train or by way of Prince Rupert.
