GERMAN JOURNALISTS GET CROSS-SECTION VIEW OF BRITAIN

Invited to study British democracy at close range, this group of German journalists has visited the homes and working places of all types of Britons, from milkmen and miners to industrialists. The group is shown here during a visit to a training class of apprentice coal miners during instruction in the use of the newest safety lamp at Markham colliery at Duckmanton, Eng. One of the German visitors holds a canary in a cage. British miners use the birds sometimes to detect presence of gas in a pit.
