

KINSMEN BUSY ON T.B. SEALS

Harry Sheardown Speaks on Kin Ideals at Semi-Monthly Meeting

Seals were on the receiving end of a good deal of energy last night when Pierre LeRoss, chairman of the Kinsmen tuberculosis seal committee, enlisted the aid of all members present at the regular Kinsmen dinner meeting in the task of readying 2400 seal-containing letters for mailing.

Following dinner in the Civic Centre dining room the 16 members present and ex-Kinsman Orville Moscrip, a former charter member of the New Westminster club, who attended the meeting as a guest of Carson Wallace, retired to the Ladies' lounge to work on the T.B. seals and to conduct the business of the evening.

Harry Sheardown, called on by President R. G. Moore to address the club on the subject of qualities desired in a Kinsmen candidate, stressed several points a prospective member should be judged on. He should be the type of man that will cooperate with other members and the people he may have to deal with while carrying out club projects. He should be willing to work hard to live up to the club's aims and ideals. The speaker felt that it was also important to know whether a candidate had sufficient spare time to assume the obligations required of a member.

Reporting on the shell-out ticket campaign, Jack McRae stated that, while gross sales were less this year than last, the net gain was up $40. He pointed out that this was due to reduction in expenses.

Capt. Hoopes K. Freeman appeared in police court before Magistrate McClymont on a charge of obstructing a police officer. The charge arose out of Capt. Freeman's armed protest against the workings of the Customs office when he posted himself at the door with a rifle and the entertainment committee, said that contestants in the Kinsmen amateur night would be limited to those between the ages of 6 and 18 years, thus making it a show entirely for the youngsters.

MOVIE PARTY FOR CHILDREN

As a Christmas treat to the kiddies this year the Kinsmen will sponsor a free movie party at the Civic Centre. President Moore, who suggested this form of entertainment, received the full support of the club on the question.

A report by Bert Haugen, Kinsmen representative to the Civic Centre, touched off a discussion on the effectiveness of presenting constructive suggestions to the board of directors through the club representative. The members approved a motion asking that more supervised recreation be arranged in the Civic Centre for children between the ages of 6 and 12 years.

A new office was created in the club when Pierre LeRoss was appointed to the position of property man. Charles Collins was appointed to represent the club at the National Film Board council; Wes Manning and Harry Seaman were named to assist Alex Baillie, editor of the Kin Bulletin.

Registration of voters for the civic elections closed with 108 new homes added, as compared with 207 the previous year. The large increase in voters during the last two years was taken by City Clerk Woods as indicating an increase of interest in civic affairs.

Halibut arrivals for the month of October totalled 2,154,000 pounds. Bad weather caused the amount to be smaller than was anticipated but, nevertheless, it was greater than the landings for October, 1921.

Miss Edna Joy Jeffry, who secured the highest marks at the High School entrance examination in the city last June, was presented with the Governor General Medal at a pleasant ceremony which took place in the basement of King Edward School. O. H. Nelson, chairman of the school board, made the presentation, and Principals J. C. Brady and D. McD. Hunter spoke briefly.

In the first game of the winter basketball season, the Tigers defeated the Baptist Brotherhood by a score of 12-8. The teams were as follows: Brotherhood—Harry Mobley, A. Young, Leo Ives, Adair Cars, J. Schaefer and Jarvis McLeod. Tigers—Lee Dell, A. Lee, Harry Daggett, Eddie Mann and W. Blythe.

W. J. McLean, local manager of the Canada Railway News Co., left on the Princess Mary to spend a month's holiday in the southern coast cities.

Communism Seen as Continuing Menace to Europe's Restoration

Bishop Jordan Fears For Italy and France—Tells Gyros of Impressions After European Tour

Enormous difficulties in the restoration of Italy and France following the war ravaging by Nazi Germany were being made the more acute by the influence of communism which worked not for the good of a country but for the promotion of an ideology, declared Bishop Anthony Jordan, O.M.I., in speaking words and actions were tending to give men hope and to renew their faith in the old beliefs.

In conversation, the Holy Father himself had told the local Bishop of his constant anxiety over conditions in his own country of Italy, extolling the people of Canada and the United States for what they were doing in a humanitarian way.

One of the outstanding impressions of his trip abroad, asserted the Bishop, had been the great name which this country had, the praise and esteem he had seen manifested on every hand when he said with pride that he hailed from Canada.

Gyro President C. G. Ham presided over the meeting which was well attended by Gyros with guests in the persons of Mayor Nora Arnold, R. E. Moore, Jack Sauriol Kelowna, Al Mather (Penticton), S. E. McCrea (Vancouver), and Orville Moscrip (Vancouver).

There was still a danger, Bishop Jordan feared, of communism gaining the ascendancy in Italy 'because the ordinary man in that country is not aware of what communism means or what has happened in other countries where communists have taken over.' As for France, it was, unfortunately, even further along the road of communism with which it had been dilly-dallying since 1937 until now the public morale was shaken and the depressed and pessimistic people had lost confidence in almost everything. However, events of the past few weeks indicated that the country might turn, in spite of his faults and mistakes, to General Charles DeGaulle to lead them to better days.

Speaking of Spain, the Bishop said he had gone to that country full of question marks in regard to the Franco regime and had come away still with questions in his mind. The people of Spain, he found, however, were better clad, better fed and happier than in many other European countries. They might not be satisfied with the Franco regime and its rigid discipline but Spain, having had a taste of communism, seemed agreed that it would make any sacrifice to prevent that doctrine getting hold of the country again. However, it was to be hoped that, as time went on, the Franco regime might be liberalized.

STRAIN OF WAR LEAVES ITS MARKS

In the countries in which he had travelled deprivation, strain, anxiety and semi-starvation had left their marks upon the people. The people of Britain seemed to be standing up better, however, than those of other countries. Better disciplined, Britons still retained their power of endurance, their ability to laugh and, above all, the insuperable hope that everything would turn out well in the end. One of the difficulties in Britain, however, was that the wholesome attitude toward hard work had been vitiated if not destroyed. Much harm, he felt, had been done through the workman accepting the philosophy that he should work fewer hours and take more time for play. In that attitude lay peril for the person and for the nation.

There was another Europe, however, which was trying to carry on with culture and religious practices which were a stabilizing and humanizing influence. Here the Bishop paid tribute to the Pope as being one of the most powerful stabilizing factors in the world today. His
