HIT "EXCESS" SECURITY AT AIR BASE HERE

Security measures at Seal Cove air base which allegedly prohibit any persons but air passengers and taxi drivers to pass the gate were attacked as "silly" at last night's Junior Chamber of Commerce meeting. The group plans to take steps to have the regulations relaxed.

Al Manson, Junior Chamber vice-president, charged that the security regulations which the guards must enforce, create embarrassment and difficulty to persons accompanying air passengers to the plane and often make things difficult for passengers who go to the base in private cars.

Everyone except air passengers and taxi drivers must stop at the gate, a considerable distance from the loading ramp. In the case of those who are in private automobiles, the passengers must carry their luggage "almost a quarter of a mile."

VICTORIA, ©—Owners of the United States (Alaska Steamship Co.) motorship Diamond Knot, which sank with its rich cargo of canned salmon and fish oil following collision in fog-bound Strait of Juan de Fuca early Wednesday morning, are contemplating the instituting of a $5,000,000 suit against the owners of the freighter Penn Victory, the ramming vessel. The sum of $1,000,000 is claimed for the vessel and $4,000,000 for the cargo. Excessive speed at sea under the weather conditions which prevailed is being claimed.

An attorney in Seattle for the Alaska Steamship Co. intimated yesterday that the Admiralty suit would be filed.
