Here is an artist's study of the royal wedding shoes. On the left is the royal bride's going-away shoes made in elasticized mushroom-biege suede. They are a step-in shoe with short counter, sweeping round with a high-front appearance, leaving the outside open. The front part of the shoe is finely perforated. At top is the bridesmaid's shoes, which are ivory satin ankle-strap sandals with narrow interlaced satin stripping piped with silver kid and fitted with buckles studded with small pearls. On right is the royal bride's wedding shoes, which are ivory duchess satin self-lined sandals, and are in one piece, embracing the waist of the foot, with reverse folds on the high instep strap and across the front. These draped sandals wrap the foot and the open toe, back and side effect is finished off with a silver buckle studded with small pearls.

C. J. STEVENS PASSES AWAY

Death Claims Another Well Known Resident

Another well known citizen of many years' standing in Prince Rupert, Charles James Stevens, died about four o'clock Friday afternoon in the Prince Rupert General Hospital. He passed away in his sleep in his eighty-second year. He had lived in this city since 1920. His wife died ten years ago.

The late Mr. Stevens was born in Petrolia, Ontario, March 29, 1866. Early in life, he saw a good deal of the United States, traveling in the south, as well as elsewhere, and could recall many incidents and experiences of interest. He had a natural aptitude for mechanics, and devoted some time to this, eventually taking up business pursuits, being in the soft drink line here.

It was in 1900 he came west, arriving in Prince Rupert in 1920 and establishing a soft drink enterprise here. He had remained in the city since then.

The surviving members of the family are two sons, Jack, living in Vancouver, and Bruce, Prince Rupert.
